Explanation.—... indicates that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received, the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are wanting, the corresponding spaces in the total rainfall columns are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days, the definition of a rainy day is when at least 1·0 inch of rain has fallen.

CALCUTTA, the 20th February 1894.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M., SATURDAY THE 17TH OF FEBRUARY 1894.

At the beginning of the present week fine settled weather prevailed in Bengal and indeed over the whole of India. On the 11th pressure in Bengal was rising rather briskly in the rear of the depression, which had passed in an easterly direction across the Province at the close of the previous week, and pressure had become slightly above the normal except at the extreme eastern stations. The changes of temperature over the Province on this day were variable, but the mean for the day was largely above the normal, the excess at the great majority of stations being between 6° and 9°. On the 12th the increase of pressure continued, and pressure became in excess by from 0·06″ to 0·09″. Temperature had, however, fallen briskly, and the mean was not more than from about 1° to 3° in excess. On the 13th and 14th pressure was falling moderately, and was in small defect over almost the whole Province, while the changes of temperature on the other hand were of little importance, and the mean remained in excess over the greater part of Bengal by from 1° to 4°, though at the northern stations the excess was more than 5°. On the 15th pressure commenced to rise, and temperature steadily increased. At the same time winds became generally south-westerly over South Bengal, bringing up much moisture to the Province. On the 16th pressure had fallen rather briskly, and a distinct area of comparatively low pressure was formed over parts of South-East and Central Bengal. Southerly winds therefore continued to blow in South Bengal, and humidity became very high, while temperature also again rose, and the mean for the province was above the normal by about 5° to 8°. On the 17th pressure had again fallen over the greater part of the Province, and an area of comparatively low pressure, almost amounting to a very feeble depression, existed over all districts except Bihar and parts of Chota Nagpur, the centre of the low pressure area being probably near Jessore. With this distribution winds were again southerly at a large number of stations, and the air became very moist, while temperature had again risen, and the mean of the day was about 7° in excess at such stations as Calcutta, Balasore, &c., while in Bihar at Arrah, Dehri and Ranchi the excess was more than 10°. Hence at the close of the week conditions of temperature, humidity and wind direction in Bengal were very abnormal, while the pressure distribution was also distinctly abnormal from the existence of a feeble low pressure area over the greater part of the Province.

Pressure was in excess at the commencement of the week, and in defect at its close. Hence the mean pressure for the week has shown only a small variation from the normal, and at the majority of stations it has been in excess by amounts ranging up to 0·03″.

Temperature was largely in excess at the commencement and end of the week, and more nearly normal in the middle of the week. For the whole week the Province has shown an excess temperature of 4·5°, while in North Bengal the excess has ranged up to nearly 6°.

The actual temperatures registered during the week, and their variations from the normal temperature for the present season, are most clearly seen in the table below, where the average maximum, minimum and mean temperatures for the week at nine typical stations in the Province are compared with the normal values for the same period. The excess temperature has been fairly equally distributed in both day and night readings, for while at these nine stations the excess in the maximum or day temperature has equalled 4·3°, in the night or minimum temperature the excess has averaged 4·0°.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

Statement of principal commodities carried on the Eastern Bengal State Railway during the month of November 1893.

Increases.

	Tons.
Coal and coke	22,530
Large despatches to Brace Bridge Hall account for this increase.
Cotton, manufactured	1,388
Armenian Ghat shows increase under this head.
Rice not in the husk	1,099
Principally in despatches from Armenian Ghat and Calcutta to the eastern districts. The crops in these districts suffered from floods.
Hides of cattle	935
From Dacca. The traffic is a fluctuating one.
Kerosine oil	2,997
Partly due to the prohibition of carriage by boat within certain limits of the port of Calcutta and partly to the extension of bulk oil traffic.
Salt	1,321
Mostly in upward despatches from Chitpore.

Decreases.

	Tons.
Jute, raw	4,042
The principal jute-booking stations on the Northern and Dacca sections show decreases under this head. The price in Calcutta was not high enough to tempt up-country holders.
Jute, gunny bags and cloth	1,062
Sirajganj and Kankinara show decreases under this head. Last year gunny was despatched from Kankinara to East Indian Railway stations by rail viâ Naihati. This year the traffic was despatched by country boats.
Railway plant and rolling-stock, carried for the Public and Foreign Railways	4,768
The arrivals of material for construction and maintenance were small.

Extract from the Proceedings of the Government of India, in the Department of Revenue and Agriculture (Museums and Exhibitions),—No. 7—3, dated Calcutta, the 19th February 1894.

MUSEUMS AND EXHIBITIONS.

READ—

Resolution of the Government of India, in the Department of Revenue and Agriculture, No. 2634—51, dated 4th August 1893, intimating the extent to which the Government will take part in the Antwerp Exhibition of 1894.

RESOLUTION.

IN the Resolution read in the preamble, the public were informed that persons intending to exhibit articles at the Antwerp Exhibition should apply to the Belgian Consular authorities in India. It is understood that the number of applications received from private exhibitors has been very small. Arrangements have meantime been made by the Government of India for the exhibition of Indian coffee and Indian cigars in conjunction with the collection of Indian artware supplied by a private firm, and of a few selected timbers contributed by the Forest Department, regarding which information was given in the Resolution above referred to.

The Consul-General for Belgium has been asked to provide a limited amount of space for the above objects; and if this is obtained, the Government of India will be prepared to accord free space for the exhibition of coffee and cigars by private individuals or firms.

Persons intending to exhibit either of the above commodities are therefore requested to communicate as soon as possible with the Reporter on Economic Products to the Government of India, Calcutta, instead of communicating with the Belgian Consular authorities.

ORDER.—Ordered that this Resolution be published in the Supplement to the Gazette of India for general information, and that copies be forwarded to all Local Governments and Administrations, with the request that it be republished in the local Gazettes.

No. 52, dated Calcutta, the 14th February 1894.

NOTIFICATION—By the Government of India, Home Department.

THE following translation of the Special Regulations of the Ottoman Board of Health, applicable to the Mecca Pilgrimage of 1894, received through Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India, is published for general information:—

Special Regulations applicable to the Meccan Pilgrimage of 1894 (year of the Hegira 1311).

Article 1.—From the beginning of the month of Rajab until the end of the month of Zilhijja (that is to say, from the 8th January to the 2nd July), the lazaretto of Camaran will be open to receive arrivals by sea subject to quarantine.

Article 2.—During the period of these six months (Rajab, Shábán, Ramazán, Shawwál, Zilkaada, Zilhijja), pilgrim vessels coming from beyond the Straits of Bab-el-Mandeb, whatever the tenor of their Bills of Health, must proceed direct to the Island of Camaran, without calling at any other port on the littoral of the Red Sea.

Article 3.—Pilgrim vessels are vessels which are chartered to carry pilgrims proceeding to the Hedjaz.

Article 4.—Vessels bound for the Red Sea having on board not more than one pilgrim for every hundred tons of registered tonnage are not included in the definition of pilgrim vessels. Such vessels will be dealt with according to the tenor of their Bills of Health, conformably to the General Regulation of 1867 applicable to arrivals from cholera-infected places.

Article 5.—Vessels carrying not more than five pilgrims for every hundred tons of registered tonnage can proceed to Abu-Saad, where they will discharge their pilgrims and merchandise subject to quarantine destined for the Hedjaz.

Quarantine will also be performed at Abu-Saad by the sambouks and other coasters subject to quarantine proceeding from one port to another of the Red Sea littoral.

Article 6.—For this purpose a lazaretto is established at Abu-Saad, as a branch of the Camaran lazaretto, which will be open throughout the year to arrivals specified in Articles 4 and 5 of this Regulation.

Article 7.—Vessels upon which cases of cholera or suspicious cases have occurred, either in the port of embarkation or during the voyage, will undergo (both vessels and pilgrims) quarantine for 15 days at Camaran. This quarantine will be renewed each time a cholera case occurs among crew or passengers after their arrival at the lazaretto, and will date from the last case of sickness. In such cases the provisions of the Cholera Regulation of 1867 will be strictly applied.

Article 8.—When a batch of pilgrims has suffered from cholera during their stay at Camaran, they will not be admitted to free pratique at Jeddah until they have undergone a supplementary quarantine for five days and rigorous disinfection at the lazaretto at Abu-Saad.

Vessels carrying such pilgrims may, however, clear in quarantine in conformity with Article 16 of the principal Regulation after landing at Abu-Saad the pilgrims and their baggage and merchandise destined for Jeddah.

Article 9.—Indian or Malay pilgrims who take the indirect route vid Suez to the Hedjaz will be subjected to quarantine, unless they can prove, on their arrival at Jeddah, by their pass-ports or other official documents, that they have come from beyond the Suez Canal, or that they have spent at least ten days in Egypt, in free pratique and in good health.

Vessels embarking at Suez Indian or Malay pilgrims who do not fulfil these conditions will be treated as infected, and will have to proceed to Camaran, at any rate in certain cases, to undergo quarantine there, according to the country of origin of the pilgrims in question.

Article 10.—Merchandise destined for Yemen not susceptible of infection can be landed at Hodeida under the supervision of the sanitary authority.

Article 11.—Vessels from beyond the Suez Canal and Egypt with unclean Bills of Health must proceed to Camaran for quarantine.

Article 12.—Pilgrim vessels which arrive from ports where cholera exists, but have had no cholera case during the voyage or after arrival, will undergo (vessels and pilgrims) a quarantine of ten days. Merchandise coming from a cholera-infected port will remain on board, if there have been no cholera cases during the voyage or after arrival, and will be exempt from disinfection and from sanitary fees, except in the case of old personal effects and stuffs already used, unwashed wool, old cottons, horse hair and feathers, raw hides, and other raw animal products, as well as rags of all kinds, which will be subject to the provisions of the Cholera Regulation of 1867.

Article 13.—No pilgrim vessel, even when admitted to free pratique, will be allowed to leave Camaran without re-shipping, after the performance of their quarantine, all the pilgrims brought by her.

Article 14.—Vessels coming from the Persian Gulf and Zanzibar, with pilgrims on board, bound for the Hedjaz, will also proceed to Camaran, but will be treated, according to the tenor of their Bills of Health, in the manner provided by the Cholera Regulation of 1867.

Article 15.—Sambouks coming from beyond the Straits of Bab-el-Mandeb with pilgrims will be subject to the same rules as vessels specially chartered for pilgrims. They must proceed direct to the anchorage of Camaran, and will be excluded from all other Arabian ports on the Red Sea.

Article 16.—The embarkation on board pilgrim vessels of live animals, as well as hides, animal products, rags of all kinds, coal, petroleum, and all other inflammable or explosive material, except such coal and animals as are necessary for the service and provisioning of the vessel during the voyage, is strictly prohibited.

Article 17.—All vessels embarking more than 100 pilgrims must be provided with a medical man licensed by authority in the country of departure, as well as with medicines, disinfectants and articles necessary for the care of the sick. A special place must be arranged on the deck as a hospital. Attendance and medicines will be given gratuitously.

Article 18.—On the arrival of a pilgrim vessel at Camaran or Abu-Saad, as the case may be, all pilgrims will be disembarked and undergo the usual medical examination. If the condition of the vessel is good and no suspicious case has occurred during the voyage, the vessel and the pilgrims will undergo five full days' quarantine, and their clothing and effects will be disinfected, but the cargo will be subject to the provisions of the Cholera Regulation of 1867.

Article 19.—The sanitary authority will not allow the departure of a pilgrim vessel from any port in the Empire without assuring himself that it satisfies the following conditions: viz.—that the vessel is fit to undertake the voyage without danger; that she is well-equipped, well-regulated, well-ventilated, provided with a sufficient number of boats, and that she contains nothing on board that is or may become injurious to health or prejudical to the safety of the passengers; that there are on board suitably stored, besides the provisions of the crew, food, drinking water of good quality and fuel, in sufficient quantity for all the pilgrims and for the entire declared duration of the voyage. This last provision, however, in so far as it concerns food, is strictly applicable only to vessels passing the Straits of Bab-el-Mandeb. For all other vessels the Captain is bound to have food only in the proportion necessary for the wants of the pilgrims who may have contracted to be fed on board during the entire voyage. The sanitary authority will refer to the authority to which the vessels are subject for the application of those of the above provisions which do not concern him directly.

Article 20.—Every pilgrim vessel which does not conform to the provisions of the present Regulation will be held to have contravened sanitary rules, and be liable to extreme measures regarding quarantine.

Article 21.—Vessels carrying pilgrims are strictly subject to the following instructions concerning the measuring of pilgrim vessels :—

Read and adopted in meeting of the Superior Council of Health, the 10th and 22nd December 1891, and amended the 23rd and 25th December 1893.

Instructions regarding the measurement of Pilgrim-ships referred to above in Article 21.

1. Only steamers and ships propelled partly by steam and partly by sail are authorized to carry pilgrims on voyages beyond the Straits of Bab-el Mandeb or beyond the Suez Canal.

2. The space to be given to each pilgrim irrespective of age or sex shall be at least 9 superficial feet and 54 cubic feet, between decks. No passenger shall be accommodated in the ship's hold, and the deck, free of all goods, shall be reserved for the use of the crew and the passengers travelling between decks.

3. Any ship which can produce an official certificate, furnished by the authority on which it is dependent, proving its capacity with regard to the number of passengers that can be embarked, shall not be liable to a second measurement, except in the event of the size, capacity and arrangements of the ship being found by the sanitary authority not to be in accord with the number of passengers shown in the certificate.

4. Any ship sailing under the Turkish flag which is unable to produce an official certificate of measurement shall be measured by a competent officer of the Imperial Marine, to be named by the local authority, with the assistance of the sanitary authority of the port where the ship happens to be ; the service rendered by the sanitary authority in such a case is gratuitous.

As regards ships belonging to a foreign marine and not possessing official certificates of measurement, the sanitary authority shall give them the opportunity of producing the documents required in communication with their respective Consuls. The Consul can, if he so desires, cause the measurement in question to be made by the competent local authority in accordance with the requirements of Article (2) above.

5. The sanitary authority shall refuse to give a Bill of Health to any ship which has embarked pilgrims without the necessary certificate.

Read and adopted in meeting of the Superior Council of Health, the 10th and 22nd December 1891.

WATER-RATE RULES FOR THE EDEN CANAL.

The 12th February 1894.

No. 51.—Notification.—With reference to Notification No. 447, dated the 27th December 1881, which was published in the Calcutta Gazette of the 28th December 1881, at page 1122, and in accordance with the provisions of section 99 of Act III (B.C.) of 1876, the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor proposes to pass the following rules and to fix the undermentioned rates to be charged for water supplied from the Eden Canal:—

1. A map showing the area commanded, i.e., the area from which applications will be accepted, will be kept in the Collectors' offices. Copies separately for Hooghly and Burdwan will be sold to the public at Re. 1-8 a copy.

2. Existing lease-holders may, provided the land covered by the lease is situated within the area commanded, exchange their leases for leases under new conditions: if beyond the area commanded, they may have their leases cancelled if they so wish; but no fresh lease will be granted. In either case the change will take effect from the 1st of April 1894, and a formal application in writing, signed by all the persons who have signed the original lease, must be presented to the Canal Officer before the 1st June 1894.

3. The area under long lease will be limited to 50,000 acres, of which 32,000 acres will be in the Burdwan and 18,000 acres in the Hooghly district. Long leases will, in all cases, commence from the 1st June in any year, and extend for seven years.

4. Leases for one season will be granted for any lands within the area commanded, but long lease-holders will have a prior right to the water and season lease-holders will not be supplied until the area under long lease has first been watered.

5. No leases will be accepted for lands situated beyond the area commanded, but if water is available, single waterings may be granted.

6. The rates to be charged will be as follows:—

	Per bigha. Rs.	A.	P.
I.—Long leases entered into before the 1st October 1895, per season ...	0	4	0
II.—Long leases entered into after the 1st January 1896, per season ...	0	5	0

Rabi season	2	0	0	}

7. The water-rates will become due, and payment must be made, on the dates mentioned below:—

Leases under rule 6—I and II	...	The 31st of January.
Sums due under rule 6—III	...	When the lease is executed.
Leases under rule 6—IV ...	...	The 31st of January.
Ditto 6—V ...	...	When the lease is executed.
Ditto 6—VI ...	...	Ditto ditto.
Charges under rule 6—VII	...	When the order authorizing the assessment is passed.

8. The areas to be charged will, as far as practicable, be determined when the lease is executed, but lands irrigated beyond the boundaries of the lease will be measured and charged at the rates mentioned in the lease. The application must be for such an area as will probably be irrigated with existing appliances, and no lease will be accepted where it may be reasonably anticipated that lands beyond the boundaries specified will necessarily or probably be irrigated. Ordinarily the measurements taken in the year in which the lease is executed will be accepted for the remainder of the term, but in special cases the Divisional Canal Officer may by a written order authorize a re-measurement.

9. The Divisional Canal Officer may, under special circumstances for the convenience of the canal administration, sanction a long lease for a term of five instead of seven years.

10. In the case of long or season leases, the minimum area chargeable will be that specified in the lease independently of water being or not being required and utilized.

11. Leases under rule 6, I, II, III, IV and V, will only be entered into with (I) the zamindar or subordinate proprietor of the village, or (II) with a body of cultivators not exceeding six in number, who will agree to represent the cultivators, and who will be jointly and severally responsible for the payment of the water-rates due under the lease. The persons who sign the lease will be entitled to a deduction of 12½ per cent. on all payments made within one month of the water-rates becoming due. If the lessee is not the zamindar or talukdar, a moiety of the amount due for the first year will be payable in advance. Leases under rule 6, VI, will be entered into with representatives of the actual cultivators.

12. No cross dams other than those the erection of which has been sanctioned as a permanent arrangement will be allowed without the written order of the Divisional Canal Officer issued with the written approval of the Collector. Every cross dam must be provided with a suitable and efficient escape, so that the flow of the water in the channel may not be interfered with.

13. The Canal Officer will not interfere with the fishery rights hitherto exercised by the proprietors of the river beds. Nets not fixed to stakes which do not stop or interfere with the flow of the water may be used at the discretion of the persons interested, but cross dams will only be allowed under the provisions of rule 12.

10. The lessee must conclude his own agreements with persons to whom he may sell water either for manufacture of indigo or irrigation, and must himself enforce those agreements.

In cases where lands have been irrigated without application and water-rates have been imposed by the Canal Officer under section 79 of Act III (B.C.) of 1876, the water-rates may, at the request of the Canal Officer, be recovered by the Collector under the Public Demands Recovery Act.

"This proviso may be relaxed at the discretion of the Commissioners in meeting in the case of out-door employés whose duties necessitate continuous employment on Sundays and holidays."

NOTIFICATION.

No. 913*M.*—The 23*rd February* 1894.—It is hereby notified for general information that under the provisions of section 49 of the Calcutta Municipal Consolidation Act II of 1888, the Lieutenant-Governor is pleased to confirm the following rules for the grant of deputation allowances to officers in the service of the Corporation of Calcutta made by the Commissioners of Calcutta at a meeting held on the 31st August 1893 :—

RULES FOR DEPUTATION ALLOWANCES.

1. The following rules apply fully only to those officers whose maximum pay is below Rs. 500 and more than Rs. 100. To officers whose pay is less than Rs. 100, leave may be granted, in cases of leave other than of sick leave, so far as this can be done without imposing any cost upon the Corporation; that is the absentee allowance of the substantive incumbent must not exceed what remains from the pay of the appointment after provision is made for the efficient discharge of his duties.

2. An officer with a substantive appointment, officiating in an appointment, is entitled to an acting allowance of one-fifth of the substantive pay of the appointment, subject to the condition that the officiating officer's salary shall not exceed the minimum pay of the permanent incumbent.

3. An officer without a substantive appointment officiating in an appointment is entitled to an acting allowance of half the substantive pay of the appointment.

4. If the Chairman considers that the acting allowances admissible by the last rule are insufficient, he may, with the sanction of the General Committee, grant to the officiating officer higher allowances, not exceeding the difference between the pay of the appointment and the portion of it drawn by the absentee for whom he officiates.

CHARGE OF CURRENT DUTIES.

5. When an officer is appointed to be in charge of the current duties of an officer in addition to his own duties, and the charge in the opinion of the Chairman entails a substantial increase of responsibility and some additional work, he is entitled to a charge allowance to be fixed by the Chairman not exceeding one-tenth of the pay of the officer.

6. No acting or charge allowance shall be granted to an officer holding substantive appointment if appointed to act in or hold charge of another appointment during a privilege leave vacancy.

PRIVILEGE LEAVE.

7. The above rules do not affect the existing rule 2 (a) that, in the case of privilege leave, no additional expenditure may be incurred in the acting arrangements. Privilege leave therefore cannot ordinarily be granted if acting arrangements entailing acting allowances under the above rules are necessary. In this case the applicant for privilege leave must consent to such a deduction from his salary as will be sufficient to cover the whole cost of the acting allowances.

8. In the case of the out-door employés referred to in rule 2 (a), the General Committee may sanction privilege leave on full pay and such acting allowances under the above rules as are necessary.

1. Subject as next hereinafter provided the rent payable by the Company to the Corporation from the 1st January 1894 to the 31st December 1900 being the end of the 21st year referred to in the said 17th clause of the said articles of agreement shall be calculated and paid at the present rate namely at the rate of Rs. 3,250 per annum per mile of double line and Rs. 2,250 per annum per mile of single line anything in the said articles of agreement to the contrary notwithstanding. 2. The Company shall not during the period from 1st January 1894 to 31st December 1900 without the previous sanction of the Corporation discontinue the working of any of its tramways which now or hereafter may be opened for traffic.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

IN consequence of a representation made by the Tramways Company, the Corporation of Calcutta have agreed to give up the periodical enhancement of track-rent payable to the Corporation by the Company under the agreement of 1879 up to the end of the 21st year of the present agreement, and to remit a sum of Rs. 15,000 a year for five years, subject to the condition that the dividends declared by the Company do not exceed 3½ per cent. The Company have agreed not to discontinue the running of the cars without the previous sanction of the Commissioners. These conditions have been embodied in a new agreement between the Corporation and the Tramways Company. The Corporation have been advised that they are not authorized to make an alteration in the rent payable under the old agreement of 1879 without the sanction of an Act empowering them to do so. The new agreement introduces important changes in the terms of the old agreement, which is the schedule to Act I of 1880 (B.C.)

2. It is accordingly proposed to amend the Act so as to provide (a) that the track-rent per mile be fixed at the present rates up to the end of the 21st year of the present agreement; (b) that a remission of 15,000 rupees a year be granted for five years with effect from 1894, subject to the condition that the dividends declared by the Tramways Company do not exceed 3½ per cent. per annum; (c) that power be given to the Corporation to enforce continuous service of the cars, except when such service is discontinued with their previous sanction.

NOTICES TO MARINERS.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL—MARINE DEPARTMENT.

NOTICE TO MARINERS—No. 40.

[First Publication.]

NEW ZEALAND—AUCKLAND ISLANDS, &c.

Depôts of provision and clothing for castaways.

THE following Notice to Mariners No. 1, dated 5th January 1894, issued by the Government of New Zealand is republished for general information :—

Eleven of the crew of the barque Spirit of the Dawn which was wrecked on the Antipodes Island on the 4th September last having remained on the island for eighty-eight days without becoming aware of the existence of the depôt of provisions and clothing for castaways which is established there, it is thought advisable to draw the attention of mariners to the fact that such depôts are maintained by the New Zealand Government on that island and on the Auckland, Campbell, Bounty, and Kermadec Islands, and that it is proposed to establish one on the Snares.

The following are the positions of the depots :—

Auckland Islands.—A depôt is placed on the south side of Erebus Cove, Port Ross, and another in Camp Cove, Carnley Harbour. A third will be placed at the head of Norman Inlet the next time the Government steamer visits the islands. One boat is placed on the north-west end of Adams Island, another on Enderby Island, and one will be placed on Rose Island.

Explanation.—... indicates that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are wanting, the corresponding spaces in the total rainfall columns are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days, the definition of a rainy day is when at least 1·0 inch of rain has fallen.

CALCUTTA, the 27th February 1894.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M., SATURDAY, THE 24TH OF FEBRUARY 1894.

At the close of the previous week conditions were decidedly abnormal, as a feeble low-pressure area existed over the greater part of the province; the mean temperature was also in excess by amounts ranging from about 7° to 10°, and southerly winds were blowing in the south and centre of the province, bringing up large amounts of moisture. On the 18th, or the first day of the week under review, a fall of pressure was again reported, the fall equalling about an eighth of an inch in Assam and in the parts of North Bengal and North Bihar near the hills, while the fall was small at the western and southern stations. The low-pressure area was therefore probably moving in an easterly direction, and moist southerly winds continued to blow over a large part of the province, while temperature was exceptionally high, the excess in the night temperatures at such stations as Barisal, False Point, Dinajpur, Purnea, and Darbhanga being from 10° to 15°. On the 19th pressure was rising moderately to rapidly, though it was still below the normal, and the depression had to a great extent disappeared. The southerly winds were less strong, and winds were more or less westerly, while temperature and humidity had fallen briskly. During the passage of the depression in an easterly direction over Assam, local storms had occurred in several districts, and on the morning of the 19th Silchar reported 1·78 inches of rain which had fallen during a thunderstorm with hail on the previous day. On the 20th pressure continued to increase briskly in Bengal, and the effects of the depression had almost disappeared, as pressure had become above the normal. Temperature and humidity continued to decrease, and winds became westerly and north-westerly, the southerly winds being entirely driven back. This caused a little interaction and disturbance, and though weather on the 20th was generally fine, yet a few of the western stations reported local storms with rain, and in some cases hail also fell. On the 21st the pressure changes over the Province were rather variable, pointing to the existence of rather disturbed conditions, and local storms with rain were again reported in Western and Northern Bengal and in Chota Nagpur. On the 22nd a brisk fall of pressure occurred over Bengal, and weather became slightly disturbed over a large part of the Province, and rather numerous local storms with rain were reported. On the 23rd the fall of pressure continued, and again rain showers accompanying local storms were reported, though they were not so numerous as on the previous day. During the occurrence of this slightly disturbed weather and these small storms the temperature and humidity changes in Bengal were decidedly variable, and at neighbouring stations the changes were frequently of opposite character. On the whole, however, temperature had fallen decidedly, and on the 23rd the mean temperature of the province had become about 1° to 3° only above the normal. On the 24th, or the last day of the week, pressure was again falling except at a few stations in the east of the Province, and was considerably below the normal. Winds at neighbouring stations were also variable in direction, and conditions were still somewhat disturbed, and hence a few local storms with rain were again reported in various districts.

The main feature in the meteorology of the past week has therefore been the occurrence of rather numerous local storms, most of them of hot-weather type, and usually accompanied by light to moderate rain, and hence the greater part of the province, except perhaps Orissa, has received fairly general rain.

Pressure.—The mean pressure for the week has been in defect of the normal at practically all stations except Darjeeling. The defects, however, have been small, and usually have equalled about 0·02″ and 0·03″.

Temperature—Was abnormally high at the commencement of the week, but it fell considerably towards the middle and end of the week. For the whole period the mean temperature has been 3·5° above the normal, and in such districts as East and North Bengal the excess has been between 4° and 5°.

The actual temperatures registered during the week, and their variations from the normal temperature for the present season, are most clearly seen in the table below, where the average maximum, minimum and mean temperatures for the week at nine typical stations in the Province are compared with the normal values for the same period. The excess temperature has been smaller in the day than in the night readings, for while at these nine stations the excess in the maximum or day temperature has equalled 2·3°, in the night or minimum temperature the excess has averaged 3·7°.

Rainfall.—Chota Nagpur and South-West Bengal have received an average rainfall of rather more than half an inch, and East Bengal nearly half an inch. In North Bengal and Bihar the falls have been about a fifth of an inch, while in Orissa rainfall has been almost absent.

In the case of the smaller divisions the following have received half an inch of rain and upwards :—Bankura, 24-Parganas, Nadia, Murshidabad, Jessore, Khulna, Dacca, Tippera, Noakhali, Manbhum, Singhbhum and Lohardaga; and in the following districts the falls have been between a quarter and half an inch:—Burdwan, Birbhum, Midnapore, Howrah, Calcutta, Dinajpur, Darjeeling, Bogra, Pabna, Mymensingh, Backergunge and Sonthal Parganas.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 24th of February 1894:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

13. Latrines shall be separately provided for males and females, properly roofed, thoroughly well ventilated and lighted, and placed in an accessible position. Places of accommodation in recruiting districts.

16. The establishment in the several districts of recruitment of places for the temporary accommodation of emigrants, previous to their despatch to the depôts of contractors, shall be regulated generally by the rules relating to such depôts, subject to such modification as the Magistrate of the district may, with reference to the temporary nature of such accommodation, consider necessary.

Inspection of places of accommodation by district officers.

17. The Magistrate of every district of recruitment shall, in respect of all places for the accommodation of emigrants within such district, exercise the powers vested in the Superintendent for the supervision of depôts. All such places shall be regularly inspected by the Magistrate and by the officers authorized in that behalf by such Magistrate under the Act.

Responsibility of persons in charge of places of accommodation.

18. The sub-contractors, or recruiters in charge of places for the accommodation of emigrants, shall be responsible for any irregularities that may be committed in connection with the management of such places; and they shall keep such registers and submit such reports and returns to the Magistrate having jurisdiction as he may require.

PART IV.—Depôt management.

Supervision of depôts by Superintendent.

19. The Superintendent, or his assistant, shall regularly visit every depôt when accommodating emigrants, and shall see that the provisions of the Act are fully carried out in the case of all labourers and their dependents arriving at such depôt, and that the terms of their engagement to work in the labour districts are thoroughly understood by them.

Supervision of depôts by Medical Inspector.

20. The sanitary state of the depôts shall be the special care of the Medical Inspector. He shall visit the depôts regularly, and see that all necessary precautions are taken against communicable disease; that the hospital and other medical arrangements at the depôts are sufficient; that all emigrants unprotected against small-pox are properly vaccinated, and that the depôt arrangements generally for the keep and health of emigrants are satisfactory from a medical point of view. At the close of every month he shall submit a report of his inspections in the prescribed form (No. 10) to the Superintendent.

Visitors' book for inspecting officers.

21. At each depôt there shall be kept a visitors' book, in which the Superintendent and the Medical Inspector shall enter their orders or remarks, and the dates of their visits. During such visits the contractor or his agent shall, without fail, place the depôt and hospital registers before the Superintendent and the Medical Inspector respectively for inspection, and shall on no account alter or correct any entries made therein without their knowledge and sanction.

Facilities for inspection of depôts.

22. Depôt gates shall be in charge of a darwan, and shall be open from 6 A.M. to 6 P.M. Every facility shall be given by the contractor and his employés to the inspecting officers when visiting the depôt at any time.

Compliance with orders of emigration officers.

23. All orders of the Superintendent and the Medical Inspector shall be carried out by the contractors and their employés on pain of cancellation of license, or loss of appointment respectively. Should a contractor consider that any order given to him by the Superintendent or Medical Inspector is unreasonable, he shall be at liberty to appeal against such order, if passed by the Superintendent and Medical Inspector at Goalundo or Kushtia, to the Superintendent of Emigration, Calcutta, or if passed by the Superintendent of Emigration, Calcutta, to the Government of Bengal. Until, however, the order shall have been reversed by a higher authority it must be carried out.

Appointment of depôt agent.

24. If the contractor does not himself live in his depôt premises, he shall appoint, subject to the approval of the Superintendent, a proper person as his agent, who shall reside there constantly, and conduct the business on the contractor's responsibility. Every such agent shall be registered in the Superintendent's office.

Infringement of rules by contractor's agent.

25. Every contractor shall be responsible for any offence against the rules committed by his agent at any place in the same manner and to the same extent as though he himself had committed such offence.

Depôt registers and returns.

26. The contractor, or his agent, shall keep depôt registers in the prescribed forms (Nos. 11, 14, and 21 respectively), and shall punctually and accurately make the required entries therein. Monthly returns of accommodation and of sickness in depôt shall likewise be prepared in the prescribed forms (Nos. 12 and 13 respectively), and punctually forwarded to the office of the Superintendent by the 15th of the month following that for which they become due. Any default in these respects, or in the submission of prescribed returns generally when due, shall render the agent liable to loss of his appointment, and the contractor failing to adopt promptly the necessary remedial measures to cancellation of his license.

Appointment of depôt medical officer.

27. A resident medical officer to be licensed by the Medical Inspector shall be appointed by each contractor to his depôt, and his name shall be registered in the Superintendent's office. He shall be paid by the contractor, but shall be directly responsible to the Medical Inspector, who shall give him written instructions for his guidance. He shall not be dismissed without the consent of the Medical Inspector. He shall keep a hospital register in the prescribed form (No. 14), and shall, besides his other duties, assist in making out the monthly returns of sickness and mortality.

Responsibility of contractors in caring for emigrants.

28. The contractor, either directly or through his agent, shall be responsible for the good treatment and care of the emigrants, none of whom shall be discharged from the depôt without the permission of the Superintendent. He shall, moreover, be responsible to the Medical Inspector specially for the sanitary state of the depôt, and for the feeding, clothing and medical treatment of all the emigrants accommodated therein.

Quality of clothing according to approved sample.

29. The clothing and blankets to be supplied to emigrants shall be according to scale, and of a quality equal to samples to be approved by the Superintendent and retained in his office.

Repairs of depôt sheds.

30. The sheds, hospitals, latrines, drains, &c., shall be constantly inspected, and any defects in them shall be immediately remedied. Mud-plastered walls shall be white-washed once a month.

Procedure on arrival of emigrants in depôt.

31. On arrival of emigrants at the depôt, they shall be inspected by the contractor or his agent, and by the resident medical officer; their names shall be entered in the depôt register, and their arrival reported in the prescribed form (No. 15) in the forenoon of the next day to the Superintendent. Any casualty occurring in depôt shall be reported in the prescribed form (No. 16).

Irregularity of recruiter.

32. The contractor shall ascertain that those sections of the Act which provide for the registration, and for the proper care and treatment of emigrants previous to their entering the depôt, have been complied with, and shall immediately thereafter submit a report regarding any recruiter, or other person in charge, who may be found to have infringed the law.

Clean clothing for emigrants.

33. Excepting those whose state of health may prevent it, all emigrants shall be compelled to bathe on their arrival in depôt, and shall thereafter be decently and cleanly clothed according to the scale laid down in schedule A appended to the rules. Every article of clothing belonging to emigrants that is soiled, whether new or old, shall be thoroughly washed and dried before it is issued; and cast-off ragged clothes shall be gathered up and destroyed at once.

Appliances for ablution purposes.

36. Emigrants shall not be permitted to wash their clothes and persons in the depôt tanks, but approved appliances for ablution purposes shall be specially provided on a suitable site so drained as to prevent the waste water from returning into the tank or other sources of water-supply. The water for all purposes shall be frequently examined by the Medical Inspector, and the contractor or his agent shall be held responsible for any failure in providing good, wholesome water.

Airing of emigrants' clothing.

37. Emigrants shall be compelled to dust out and air their clothes and blankets daily, and shall not be allowed to remain in damp clothes.

39. The rations issued daily to each labourer and dependent in depôt shall be according to the scale laid down in Schedule B; and the meals and drinking-water shall invariably be examined by the resident medical officer before being served out. When necessary, food suitable for infants and invalids (fresh milk, soup, sago, &c.) shall be freshly prepared and regularly supplied throughout the twenty-four hours. Any neglect of infants or invalids on the part of the contractor, his agent, or resident medical officer, shall render such contractor liable to cancellation of license, or such agent or medical officer to the loss of appointment.

Cleaning of cooking utensils.

40. After meals the resident medical officer shall see that the cooking sheds are carefully swept out, that all cooking utensils are thoroughly cleaned, and that no stale food is secreted either by the cooks or emigrants.

Employment of emigrants.

41. Excepting the hospital, latrines, drains, and receptacles for kitchen and other filth, which shall be kept constantly cleaned by the sweepers, the garden, sheds, and every part of the depôt shall be kept clean and in good order by the emigrants. The emigrants, if they consent to work, shall be regularly employed, but without fatigue, and kept as much as possible in the open air.

Cleanliness of depôt premises.

42. The peons on duty shall be constantly about the depôt, and shall preserve order and cleanliness everywhere, especially during cooking and feeding and inspections. They shall see that no jungle or rubbish is permitted to accumulate in the depôt compound; that the spaces under and around the sleeping and other sheds are kept clean; and that the sweepers do their work regularly.

Prevention of other use of sleeping sheds.

43. No cooking, feeding, or smoking shall be permitted in the sleeping sheds, which shall be kept thoroughly clean, well ventilated, and watertight.

Prevention of overcrowding in sleeping sheds.

44. The emigrants shall be properly distributed at night in their sleeping sheds, according to the number each shed is licensed to accommodate, and shall be prevented from crowding together.

Extinguishing of lights at night.

45. Excepting locked lanterns hung in the dispensary, hospital, and at the entrance of every sleeping shed, and a light in the durwan's room, all lights and fires shall be put out by 9 o'clock at night.

Disposal of excreta.

46. Excreta from the hospital or latrines, and filth of any description, shall not be buried within at least one thousand feet of any source of drinking-water; nor be thrown into stagnant pools and nalas, which may happen to be near the depôts.

47. The contractor or his agent shall, under such arrangements as may be authorized, provide for the vaccination of every emigrant unprotected from small-pox as soon as possible after admission into the depôt.

Vaccination of emigrants.

48. Sick emigrants, excepting those suffering from cholera or other dangerously communicable disease, and otherwise provided for, shall not be sent to any other than the depôt hospital, nor be removed thence, nor from the depôt, without the written permission of the Medical Inspector.

Treatment of sick emigrants.

49. In the event of cholera or small-pox or other dangerously communicable disease appearing in the depôt, every labourer or dependent attacked shall immediately be sent to the authorized hospital for treatment, and the relatives of the affected persons, if any, not accompanying the patient, shall at the same time be placed in the segregation shed situated in an isolated part of the depôt compound, and shall not be removed thence without the written permission of the Medical Inspector. A report of the case shall then be submitted to the Medical Inspector, and within twenty-four hours the Superintendent shall be furnished with a descriptive statement, in the prescribed form (No. 17), of every emigrant sent to the authorized hospital, together with the reason for such removal. In the event of any emigrant sent to hospital dying or being permitted to return to the depôt, the death or re-admission of such emigrant shall be similarly reported to the Superintendent in form No. 18.

Procedure on outbreak of serious communicable disease.

50. Clothing, blankets, and mats that have been in contact with persons suffering from dangerously communicable disease (e.g., small-pox or cholera), hospital dressings, foul rags, and all combustible filth, shall be regularly and thoroughly burnt in a safe and suitable place, and in the presence of the resident medical officer. The segregation shed, immediately it ceases to be occupied, shall be carefully cleaned out and disinfected by fumigation or other efficient means.

Destruction of infected clothing.

51. On the death of any intending emigrant, the contractor, or agent, or medical officer shall immediately make an inventory of the property of such emigrant in a register in the prescribed form (No. 21), to be kept for the purpose, and shall forward such property as early as practicable to the office of the Superintendent for disposal. The claims made by relatives in depôt, if any, shall duly be communicated to the Superintendent, who shall, after making enquiry as to the heirs, dispose of the estate as circumstances may render necessary.

Disposal of property of deceased emigrants.

52 Every emigrant, whose labour contract is cancelled under the orders of Government in consequence of any irregularity that may have occurred in connection with his recruitment, shall, in the event of such contract being cancelled before the emigrant reaches the labour district, be returned to his native district together with his dependents, if any, at the expense of the contractor on whose behalf such emigrant was recruited. The expense of providing an escort or of making any other arrangements that may be found necessary for ensuring the conveyance of any emigrant to his native district shall also be borne by the contractor concerned in the recruitment of such emigrant.

Disposal of irregularly recruited emigrants.

In case of failure by the contractor concerned to pay the expenses ordered, they will be paid by the officer ordering the same and recovered with interest thereon at the rate of 12 per centum from the date of payment.

53. Emigrants who are not engaged within thirty days of their arrival at any depôt shall be returned through the Superintendent's office to the districts where registered at the expense of the contractor, except when such emigrants elect to continue in such depôt in the hope of being ultimately engaged, or desire to be transferred to the depôt of some other contractor, or prefer to be discharged from the depôt; in which last case they shall, previous to discharge, be paid such compensation as may be ordered by the Superintendent. At the close of every month the contractor or his agent shall forward to the Superintendent's office a statement in the prescribed form (No. 22) of all the emigrants remaining in depôt over thirty days without execution of contract.

Procedure on contractors failing to provide contract.

54. All emigrants that are declared by the Medical Inspector to be unfit to emigrate, and are finally rejected by the contractor or his agent, shall be returned through the Superintendent's office to the districts of registration at the expense of the contractor, unless they of their own accord insist on being discharged on the spot, when they shall be treated, save in respect of compensation, in the same manner as emigrants for whom contractors fail to find employment.

Disposal of rejected emigrants.

55. All rejected emigrants shall be examined by the Medical Inspector on the day that they are to be returned to their districts; and only those that are certified by him to be able to travel shall be forwarded to the Superintendent's office for disposal, while the rest shall be detained in depôt under treatment until the Medical Inspector certifies to their being in a fit state to undertake the journey.

Medical examination of rejected emigrants.

56. When the employer or his agent has selected in any depôt the labourers required by him, a written application for the placing of such labourers on contract shall be sent by the contractor concerned or his agent to the Superintendent of Emigration at least one day before the date fixed upon for execution of contract.

Application for execution of labour contracts.

57. Labourers intending to execute contracts, when placed before the Superintendent, shall have their copies of registration in their hands; and their blankets, clothing, and utensils, according to the scale prescribed in Schedule A, arranged beside them for inspection.

Arrangements for examination of labourers.

Knowledge and acceptance of terms by labourers.

58. The Superintendent, when placing labourers on contract, shall invariably satisfy himself that the employer or his agent has affixed his signature to all the contract papers, and that the labourers thoroughly understand and accept the terms and conditions of the contract they are executing. An abstract of every such contract shall be entered in a register to be kept by the Superintendent in the prescribed form (No. 19).

Medical inspection of contract labourers.

59. Labourers who have executed contracts shall be inspected by the Medical Inspector before despatch from the depot with reference to their fitness to travel; and to that end a written application for such final inspection shall be forwarded by the contractor concerned or his agent to the Medical Inspector at least one day previous to the date of the intended despatch of such labourers to the districts for which engaged.

PART V.— Despatches.

Despatch of emigrants to labour districts.

60. Every contractor preparing to despatch emigrants to Assam, Cachar, or Sylhet, shall ascertain whether other contractors purpose despatching at the same time; and shall in communication with them, and subject to the Superintendent's approval, fix the date of despatch and arrange accordingly, allowing ample time for the discharge of all duties connected with the transport of emigrants under the Act.

Supervision of despatch of emigrants.

61. The Superintendent or his assistant, and the contractor or his agent shall be present at every despatch of emigrants by train, steamer, or boat; and the contractor or his agent shall give timely notice to the Superintendent or to his assistant of every such intended despatch.

Provision for emigrants on the journey.

62. The contractor shall be responsible for the making of all necessary provision to ensure the health, safety, and comfort of emigrants during transit to the place of embarkation, or to their final landing-place when despatched in country-boats. He shall supply the clothing according to scale in all cases; but in the case of boat despatches he shall also supply the provisions, medical stores, medical officer, and attendants as prescribed in the schedules annexed to the rules.

63. Every batch, prior to despatch from depôt, shall be provided with a way-bill in the prescribed form (No. 20), and the contractor or his agent shall caution the person in charge to take care of the document; to make it over to the Embarkation Agent concerned on arrival at the place of embarkation; and if returned to him by that officer, to observe strictly the instructions therein laid down for his guidance.

Arrangements for railway journey.

64. The daily despatch of emigrants shall be previously arranged for by the contractor or forwarding agent with the Railway authorities concerned, so as to prevent overcrowding by the securing of sufficient carriage accommodation for the whole number of emigrants intending to travel.

Provision of food for railway journey.

65. The contractor or garden-sardar shall provide for emigrants started on a railway journey after 9 A.M. a cooked meal; and for those started at or before that hour, if a cooked meal cannot be provided, a dry meal instead, consisting of bread or biscuit and sugar in the proportion of one pound of bread or two large biscuits and one ounce of sugar to each emigrant of and above ten years of age, and half the above quantities to each emigrant under the age of ten years. Also, if the journey between two halting stations is likely to occupy more than six hours, bread or biscuit and sugar in the same proportions shall be given by the contractor or garden-sardar for distribution to the emigrants for consumption during the journey.

69. When a medical officer has been appointed by Government to examine emigrants, no emigrants shall be put into the train without being inspected and passed as fit to undertake the journey by such officer.

Supply of water for railway journey.

70. When despatching emigrants by train, the purest drinking-water obtainable shall be supplied by contractors or forwarding agents in a sufficient number of suitable vessels conveniently placed with the emigrants in the carriages. In the absence of latrine arrangements, emigrants shall be afforded opportunities for leaving their carriages at three selected watering stations between Sara and Parbatipur, one-third of the carriages at a time being emptied to admit of the station latrines being used and of additional supplies of drinking-water being obtained.

71. Emigrants about to travel by train shall be accommodated in third-class carriages specially reserved for them, or in suitably constructed goods waggons, and the number in each carriage or goods waggon shall in no case exceed the regulation number. When a goods train is used for carrying emigrants, the speed shall not be less than 15 miles an hour on the broad gauge and 12 miles an hour on the metre gauge, exclusive of halts for the convenience of emigrants, but not of other halts.

Reserved accommodation for emigrants.

72. The train journey of emigrants under conveyance from recruiting districts direct to Dhubri or to Goalundo shall be performed by the Manihari Ghât or Hooghly-Naihati route.

Route to be taken for train journey.

73. The agent shall arrange with the railway guard in charge to inform emigrants of the opportunities, as they occur on the journey, of leaving their carriage for a time, and to warn them as to the time by which they should return to their carriages.

The contractor or his agent, when despatching emigrants by train, shall, immediately on arriving at the railway station, send a telegram to the contractor's agent at the place of embarkation, intimating the intended despatch and ordering a cooked meal to be prepared against the arrival of the batch.

Telegram advising despatch of emigrants.

75. The contractor's agent at the place of embarkation shall immediately on receipt of the telegram notifying despatch forward it for information to the Embarkation Agent.

Communication of telegram to Embarkation Agent.

CHAPTER III.

GARDEN-SARDARS' SYSTEM OF RECRUITMENT.

76. Every employer of labour, in charge of any estate in a labour district, desiring to obtain, under section 59 of the Act, a license (form No. 24) for any person to be a local agent for the purpose of representing him in the recruiting districts, and supervising the collection of labourers by his garden-sardars, shall apply to the Superintendent of Emigration authorized to grant such license, either directly or through his agent.

Application for local agent's license.

77. If any employer applies for a special license under section 62 (form No. 25) on behalf of any local agent, in order to enable him to engage labourers without the intervention of a garden-sardar, and such local agent is at the time representing other employers by virtue of a license under section 59, the written consent of all such other employers to the grant of such special license shall invariably be obtained and furnished with the application.

Application for local agent's special license.

78. Every local agent shall be held responsible for the proper conduct of recruitment by garden-sardars working under his supervision; and shall see that their recruiting operations are in all respects distinct and apart from those of contractors and their employés.

Responsibility of local agent.

79. In every case in which the physical fitness for labour of intending emigrants is required by any employer in his sardar's certificate (form No. 23) to be determined previous to registration, the local agent, if any, or the sardar of such employer, shall ensure the necessary medical examination in form No. 27, and be otherwise directly responsible for the class of labourers engaged to proceed to the labour district.

Medical examination of labourers as to physical fitness.

80. It shall be the duty of the District Magistrate to see that every place approved for the accommodation of intending emigrants recruited by garden-sardars is regularly and thoroughly inspected by the officers charged with that duty.

Inspection of places of accommodation for sardari labourers.

81. Every emigrant, whose labour contract is cancelled under the orders of Government in consequence of any irregularity that may have occurred in connection with his recruitment shall, in the event of such contract being cancelled before the emigrant reaches the labour district, be returned to his native district together with his dependents, if any, at the expense of the employer on whose behalf such emigrant was recruited. The expense of providing an escort or of making any other arrangements that may be found necessary for ensuring the conveyance of any emigrant to his native district shall also be borne by the employer concerned in the recruitment of such emigrant.

Disposal of irregularly recruited emigrants.

In case of failure by the garden-sardar concerned to pay the expenses ordered, they will be paid by the officer ordering the same and recovered with interest thereon from the employer or his local agent at the rate of twelve per centum per annum from the date of payment.

82. The way-bill (form No. 28) required by section 76 to be provided for the journey shall be carefully and correctly filled in with all the necessary particulars regarding the labourers forming the batch by the sardar or other person appointed to accompany them to their destination; and local agents, if any, shall be held responsible for the garden-sardar's fulfilment of this duty.

83. On the arrival of a batch of labourers at its destination, or port of disembarkation, as the case may be, the sardar or other person in charge shall make over the way-bill of the batch to the employer of such labourers, who, after endorsing thereon his remarks, shall forward it to the district or subdivisional magisterial officer for information and transmission to the Embarkation Agent or the Superintendent of Emigration concerned in the despatch of the labourers.

CHAPTER IV.

TRANSPORT.

PART I.—General Rules.

Supervision of embarkation depôts.

84. The Medical Inspector at every place of embarkation shall see that the embarkation depôts are kept in proper order, and shall exercise the same powers in respect of them as are exercised in respect of depôts by Medical Inspectors, reporting for the information of the Superintendent concerned any failure of contractors or their employés to attend to his orders. Water and conservancy arrangements shall receive special attention.

Measurement of deck space.

85. Exclusive of hospital, gangways, ventilating hatches, and space for crew and attendants, and in respect of boats for rowing and baling out, properly sheltered deck space shall be provided on board steamers, flats, or boats at the rate of ten superficial feet to each emigrant, computed with reference to section 92 of the Act, during the months of November, December, and January, and of twelve superficial feet for the remaining months of the year. In steamers of the daily mail service, besides suitable and available space on main deck, fore and after cabins also may be measured for the accommodation of emigrants, at an increased rate per emigrant of twelve and fourteen superficial feet respectively.

Measurement of hospital space.

86. Hospital space shall be provided for five per cent. of the total number of emigrants to be carried, computed with reference to section 92 of the Act, but such space shall be allotted at double the rate allowed for healthy adults, viz., twenty or twenty-four superficial feet to each statute adult, according to season, making reasonable allowance for space occupied by other requirements.

PART II.—Fittings of Steamers and Flats.

Shipwright's and Engineer-surveyor's certificates.

87. It shall be ascertained that the term for which the Shipwright's and Engineer-surveyor's certificates were granted to the vessels has not expired, or will not expire during the passage.

Situation of fittings of emigrant vessels.

88. All fittings shall be provided entirely on board that vessel which is to convey the emigrants to their destination; but, if necessary, and with the Medical Inspector's consent, the hospital may be provided on an upper deck of the adjoining flat or steamer, if it accompany for the entire journey.

Roofs of emigrant vessels.

89. The roof of every vessel shall be strong, water-tight, and not less than five feet in height at its junction with the stanchions on either side. If of corrugated-iron, the roof must not only be lined or thatched with matting, &c., as a protection against heat, but, on steamers, must also be fitted either with skylights or ridge-ventilators, which shall have a ventilating area of not less than ten superficial feet to every hundred emigrants, computed as in section 92 of the Act, accommodated on board, and shall be so constructed as to exclude rain and allow the free escape of heated air. In steamers of the daily mail service, the ventilating area may be reduced to not less than six superficial feet to every hundred emigrants.

Enclosure of deck space for emigrants.

90. The space measured off for emigrants shall be fitted along the sides of the vessel, with a boarding three feet high, rising from the plankshear of the vessel, and with thick and sound canvas curtains hanging from roof to deck, with ventilating space under the eaves, and fastening closely to the deck below. But from the months of October to March, both inclusive, the three feet boarding shall completely enclose the emigrants's deck space, and besides the side curtains, there shall be similar curtains hung, one at each end of the deck, so as to convert the entire space allotted to emigrants into a thoroughly sheltered compartment, with ventilating spaces near the roof for the exit of heated and unwholesome air. This large compartment shall, moreover, be subdivided into three smaller compartments by a couple of intermediate curtains stretched right across the deck space, from one side of the vessel to the other; but these two curtains, instead of extending almost up to the roof, as those at the sides and ends must do, shall be raised to a height of six feet only, measuring from the deck upwards, the space above being left clear and open for the purposes of free ventilation. In steamers of the daily mail service, the height of the boarding may be reduced to not less than two feet nine inches, and such boarding may not be continued round the stern of the vessel; but a suitable removable curtain following the iron rail may be substituted therefor.

91. The space for emigrants shall be protected also against spray from the paddle-wheels; otherwise the space opposite the paddleboxes on both sides of steamer, and on one side of a flat, if it is to be lashed alongside during the voyage, shall not be measured for the accommodation of emigrant passengers.

Protection of emigrants' deck space against wet.

92. In order to prevent the heat of the funnel from raising the temperature of the emigrants' deck, in all steamers, in which the space immediately over the engines is neither excluded and railed off, nor ventilated above by skylights or other means, that portion of the funnel between such passengers' deck and the roof shall be enclosed, at a distance of at least eighteen inches all round, by a strong wooden air-shaft or casing, which shall be carried through the deck at the lower end, and through the roof at the upper, so as to afford free exit above the roof for the body of warm air immediately surrounding the funnel. In steamers of the daily mail service, such wooden casing may be dispensed with, if the iron casing provided for exit of warm air is found to be sufficiently protective, but not otherwise.

Casing of funnel.

93. The space intended for hospital purposes shall be provided on the upper deck of the steamer or flat, and a canvas screen shall divide it off from the rest of the deck space.

Situation of hospital.

94. A suitable compartment, approved by the Medical Inspector, shall be set apart for a dispensary; and bamboos shall be fastened, fore and aft, along the central stanchions within the emigrants' deck space, in order to enable the emigrants to hang up their bundles and blankets for the day.

Compartment for dispensary.

95. All dangerously exposed places near hatches, ladders, bathing places, latrines, communication and landing stages, shall be securely railed in against accidents.

Railing in of unprotected openings.

96. Embarkation, landing, and all communicating stages likely to be used by emigrants shall be at least three feet wide, well fastened, and provided with hand-rails—a requirement that shall be strictly complied with whenever emigrants are to be embarked or landed. In steamers of the daily mail service, the width of the stages may not be less than two feet.

Embarkation and landing stages.

97. One or two fire-proof cabooses, fitted inside with brick and plaster, and sufficiently large to accommodate the full number of boilers, according to scale, shall be firmly secured in the after part of the vessel, and so placed as to prevent any risk of contamination from the hospital.

Cabooses for emigrants.

98. Four iron water-tanks, each capable of containing four hundred gallons of water, shall be provided on board, and each such tank shall be fitted with at least three moderate-sized taps, of simple construction, capable of being secured against use when desirable, and with a padlocked iron cover, besides a canvas over-all to exclude dust, &c. A ship's force-pump, with hose complete, shall also be provided for the exclusive purpose of supplying water to the tanks, and shall on no ground whatever, excepting an outbreak of fire on board, be otherwise used. These tanks shall be conveniently placed, and filled before the arrival of the steamer at the place of embarkation, with the best water available, for the exclusive use of the emigrants. The water of two of the tanks only shall be in use at the same time, the remaining two tanks being reserved as settling tanks. In steamers of the daily mail service, the tanks may be reduced to two, each capable of containing 200 gallons of water, and be placed below, with a pump arrangement on deck, for the supply of water for drinking and cooking purposes through three moderate-sized taps.

Iron tanks for drinking water.

99. Every vessel licensed to carry emigrants shall be provided with a covered trough, fitted with at least six large and simple taps, placed at such distances apart as to admit of six persons abreast washing their clothes at the same time, and connected with a fixed pump for the constant supply of water therein. Two such troughs shall be provided when the number of emigrants to be carried exceeds three hundred, computed with reference to section 92 of the Act.

Troughs for washing purposes.

100. A sufficiently large and well protected space for bathing shall be set apart for the use of the emigrants, and shall be fitted with a suitable showerbath of simple construction, and capable of distributing the shower over a large area, with a moveable canvas screen, to be invariably used when women are bathing, and with a suitable pump for supplying water thereto, which may be utilized also for filling the trough.

Arrangements for bathing of emigrants

101. Latrines with doors in front shall be securely fitted as far aft as possible, and at some distance from the deck space for emigrants, from their drinking water, and from the cooking places, &c., and in every compartment a metal vessel, secured by a chain, shall be provided for drawing river water for washing purposes. The inside of every compartment, as well as the metal vessel and chain, shall be painted with coal-tar—a process that shall be repeated at the close of every trip after the compartment has been thoroughly cleaned. In steamers of the daily mail service, three latrines may be provided in one of the sponson-deck houses, to be set apart exclusively for the purpose.

Latrines for emigrants.

102. There shall be two separate sets of latrines for males and females respectively placed, if possible, on opposite sides of the deck, and each set shall consist of at least four compartments for the use of any number up to two hundred emigrants, and of one additional compartment for every hundred in excess of the first two hundred, reference in counting numbers being had to section 92 of the Act. In steamers of the daily mail service, the deck-house set apart for the latrines shall have at least three compartments for males and three compartments for females.

Size and number of latrines.

Lanterns.

103. Lanterns shall be hung up in their places ready for use.

Boats and life-buoys.

104. Two life-buoys shall hang over or near the stern of every vessel, and the boats shall be in good working order, and fitted with requisites for immediate use, when necessary. In steamers of the daily mail service, the number of buckets may be reduced to ten.

Provision of fire-engine and appliances.

105. All emigrant passenger vessels shall have on board a fire-engine, with a sufficiently long flexible hose, that would be capable of discharging water over every part of the vessel; fire-buckets, and all other appliances needful in case of fire. The fire-buckets shall be twenty in number, and they, as well as all other fittings, shall always be kept in a proper place, in good order, and be ready for use on the shortest notice.

PART III.—Embarkation Agent.

Notice of readiness to embark emigrants.

106. Emigrants shall not be embarked unless everything is perfectly ready, and the vessel is prepared to start, of which timely notice shall be sent to the Embarkation Agent.

Presence of emigration officers at embarkation.

107. The Embarkation Agent, the Medical Inspector, the contractor concerned or his agent, the medical officer, and the peon or other person in charge of labourers, shall be present at every embarkation of emigrants. If the number to be embarked be small, a competent assistant may be deputed by the Embarkation Agent and the Medical Inspector to supervise the embarkation Stoppage of traffic during embarkation.

108. During embarkation, all traffic, unless carried on by means of a separate stage and gangway, and every kind of work interfering with embarkation, shall be stopped.

Tally of emigrants at embarkation.

109. Two men shall be stationed at the gangway, one to count and the other to keep a careful tally of the number of emigrants as they come on board, one by one, in answer to their names.

Examination of emigrants on board in bad weather.

110. The emigrants shall be mustered and examined under shelter on board, if the weather at the time of embarkation be unfavourable.

111. The emigrants, divided into batches under their peons and sardars, shall be called on board by name, one at a time, and identified with those on the way-bills of the batches to be embarked.

Detention of sick emigrants.

112. Any emigrant taken ill and unfit to go shall be detained and sent to the hospital depôt, and such of his relatives and dependents, if any, as desire to remain, or whom it is, for sufficient reason, deemed proper to retain, shall be detained.

Mustering of establishment on board.

113. When all are on board, the embarkation stage shall be removed, and the establishment of peons, sardars, and topasses shall be mustered in order to see that they are present according to scale. Then all embarkation papers shall be carefully corrected, signed, and delivered; after which the vessel shall leave as speedily as possible, the Embarkation Agent or his assistant remaining at the ghat till she starts.

Despatch of copies of way-bills to officers concerned.

114. As soon as possible after a vessel leaves, the Embarkation Agent shall forward, duly completed up to date of embarkation, the copies of the way-bills of the despatched batches to the labour district officer and to the Superintendent of Emigration respectively for information.

PART IV.—Masters of vessels.

Provision of fittings in licensed vessel.

115. The master of any vessel intending to apply for a license to carry more than twenty emigrant passengers shall provide the permanent fittings as prescribed in the rules 84 to 105; and shall thereafter apply in writing to the Superintendent of Emigration, or other officer duly empowered by the local Government for an inspection of such fittings, and of the legal capacity of the deck space for the accommodation of such passengers.

(c) Whether the permanent fittings prescribed by the rules governing transport have been provided, and the requisite certificate of their approval obtained from the officer so authorized.

(d) Whether it is intended to carry labourers, and if so, whether the medical officer, the establishment of attendants, and the stores as prescribed in the rules and schedules have been provided.

(e) Whether the deck space intended for the accommodation of native passengers has been cleared of cargo; and the stores for labourers, if any, conveniently arranged for survey.

He shall at the same time be prepared for survey by clearing the whole or such portion of the deck space as may be intended for the accommodation of emigrant passengers; and, if labourers are to be carried, by having the prescribed provisions and other stores arranged conveniently for examination.

Survey of vessel's fittings and stores.

119. The Emigration Agent or other officer as aforesaid, on receipt of the application for license, shall, in consultation with the Medical Inspector, hold the survey of the vessel's fittings and available space; and, if labourers are to be carried, of the requisite stores, at which both master and medical officer are to be present. The certificate of approval granted under Rule 116 shall be produced by the master at such survey; and the Emigration Agent or other officer as aforesaid shall accept the permanent fittings as therein described, on satisfying himself that they have not since been altered or damaged. He shall also, in the event of the entire deck space being reserved for emigrant passengers, accept and enter in the prescribed form of license (form No. 30 or 31), which he may in his discretion grant to the master, the number such space is stated in the certificate to be capable of accommodating; but if only a part of such space be reserved, he shall, after ascertaining the number that may be accommodated therein, specify in the license such number only.

120. A special examination shall invariably be made by the Medical Inspector of any vessel in which much sickness has occurred on the voyage immediately preceding; and the license applied for by the master shall not be granted unless the master carries out such measures of cleaning, disinfecting, deck-caulking, &c., as the Medical Inspector may think necessary. If a vessel is found to be recurringly unhealthy for emigrants after material alterations and improvements have been made in her accommodation, a license shall be refused her.

Grant of licenses on approval of arrangements.

121. After everything has been examined and approved, the master and the medical officer shall sign the prescribed provision and medical store lists and final landing statements (forms Nos. 32, 33 and 34 respectively), and when the Emigration Agent is satisfied that all is correct, and that the master of the steamer has a copy of the Act and Rules, he shall license the vessel.

139. A constant supply of good drinking water shall be kept up in the tanks. These shall be used alternately, the water in each being allowed to settle after the addition of alum in the proportion of six grains to the gallon; and every effort shall be made to prevent emigrants from drinking the river water fresh drawn from the side of the vessel. The water shall be pumped directly into the tanks from the river in mid-stream, and clear from all possible risk of pollution from the latrine, &c.

Protection against emigrants drawing river water.

140 Emigrants on board steamers and flats shall not be allowed to draw water from the river over the sides of the vessels, and thereby to incur the risk of accidents.

141. The Master of every steamer towing a flat and the Medical Officer in charge shall strictly prohibit all emigrants or other native passengers from crossing over from one vessel to another; and, with this object in view, shall not permit communicating stages between the vessels to be placed where they favour ready intercourse. Any communicating stages that may be absolutely necessary for the use of the officers and crew shall be constantly watched, in order to prevent accidents and the spread of disease

Prevention of passengers from crossing over to another vessel.

142. Emigrant passengers as a rule shall not be required to labour during the passage, but in exceptional cases of urgent necessity only such of them as are considered by the Medical Officer to be well fitted for work may be employed, provided that such work is free from extraordinary risk to life, and that the Master supplies those so employed with extra rations at the rate of two and-a-half chitaks of rice and half a chitak of dall for each man per diem. The emigrants should always be encouraged to occupy their time with reasonable amusements.

144. The Master of every licensed vessel on arrival at every place where a Magistrate is stationed shall report to such Magistrate the number of passengers and crew on board, the general state of their health, and the number of deaths that occurred on the passage; and omission to do so shall entail prosecution or refusal of license to carry emigrants thereafter.

Intimation of vessel's arrival at each station to Magistrate.

145. The Master or the Medical Officer shall place the way-bill (form No 38) of the vessel received from any Embarkation Agent before the inspecting officers at each station, in order that they may enter their remarks on the several points indicated in such way-bill.

147. After the last official inspection at the place of final debarkation, the Master or Medical Officer shall forward the vessel's way-bill, in original, together with the medical diary, cholera register and issue lists of provisions and medical comforts relating to the emigrants embarked at Goalundo to the Emigration Agent at that place for his remarks, and for transmission to the Superintendent of Emigration, Calcutta, for submission of the way-bill with his remarks to the Local Government as may be required.

Disposal of vessel's way-bill after last inspection.

148. Emigrants shall not be permitted by the Master to land finally at any place excepting that named in the vessel's way bill as their destination, save under circumstances of necessity provided for in the Act and rules.

Landing of emigrants as per vessel's way-bill.

149. The Master of a licensed vessel at the close of every trip shall forward to the Emigration Agent at Dhubri for information and transmission to the Superintendent of Emigration at Calcutta a mortality return in the prescribed form (No. 39), showing the deaths that occurred during the trip among the crew and passengers other than emigrants under the Act.

Report of mortality by Masters.

PART V.—Medical Officers.

150. Every Medical Officer proceeding in charge of emigrants shall keep a medical diary in the prescribed form (No. 37), as well as a journal of the principal events of the passage, and shall write them up daily and carefully. He shall, moreover, on arrival at every inspection station, place the above documents before the inspecting officers for their initials against the latest entry. Every death shall be reported immediately to the master of the steamer, who, if there be no relatives on board entitled thereto, shall take over charge of any property or money left by the deceased, and shall deliver the same to the Magistrate at the next station, or at the last place of debarkation for disposal to heirs.

Keeping of medical diary and ordinary journal by Medical Officer.

151. Every Medical Officer proceeding in charge of emigrants shall, in case of misconduct or neglect of his duties, or of the requirements of the rules regulating transport, be liable to dismissal on the requisition of any Medical Inspector or other officer so empowered.

Liability of Medical Officers to dismissal.

152. All extra food and any change in diet shall be regulated by the Medical Officer only on his own responsibility.

Regulation of change of diet by Medical Officer.

153. In the event of an epidemic of dangerously communicable disease occurring on the passage, the Master, required by the Medical Officer, shall give up the upper deck of an available flat for the better distribution of the emigrant passengers.

Utilisation of deck of flat in case of epidemic.

154. Emigrants suffering from slight illness may be attended in their berths; but all serious cases shall be treated in hospital. Patients attacked by cholera or small-pox, or other dangerously communicable disease, with all that belongs to them, shall be instantly and thoroughly isolated from the healthy; and the family or batch in which such disease occurred shall be kept on another deck, or as far apart as possible from the rest of the emigrants without exciting alarm.

Treatment of sick emigrants.

Measures of disinfection of deck.

155. Places originally occupied by emigrants removed on account of communicable disease shall be instantly cleaned, and the deck shall be thoroughly scraped and scrubbed with hot sand and disinfecting powder, and, if circumstances admit, fumigation with burning sulphur shall also be carried out.

Measures for prevention of an epidemic.

156. Besides the immediate isolation and treatment of the first case of dangerously communicable disease, every precaution shall be taken to prevent an epidemic, strict attention being paid to premonitory symptoms, general and personal cleanliness, careful disinfection and disposal of excreta, disinfection and destruction of infected articles, free ventilation, and care of the healthy. On the occurrence of cholera a register of the cases shall be kept in the prescribed form (No. 33).

Destruction of infected clothing.

157. All clothes, blankets, mats, &c., that have been in any way in contact with those suffering from serious communicable disease, or have been soiled, or are suspected of infection or impurity, shall be burnt on shore in the presence of the Medical Officer, who should take special care to have them burnt invariably to leeward; or thrown overboard, whenever burning is impracticable.

PART VI.—Country boats.

Appointment of head manjhi.

158. When emigrants are to be conveyed to any labour district in boats, an intelligent head manjhi shall be selected by common consent of the others, and appointed by the Embarkation Agent to exercise general control over them in keeping the boats together, preserving order, and assisting the Medical Officer or other persons in charge during the passage. The appointment of a head manjhi, however, shall not lessen the responsibility of each individual manjhi. Under the law each one shall be personally liable for every offence or neglect of duty.

Appointment of Medical Officer when emigrants exceed fifty souls.

159. If the number under conveyance in a fleet of boats exceeds fifty emigrants, the despatchers of such emigrants shall conjointly provide a Medical Officer duly licensed by the Medical Inspector or other officer so empowered—to take charge of the boats, and to supply the medicines that may be required for the treatment of the sick during the passage.

Observance of rules for steamers when applicable to boats.

160. A Medical Officer or other person proceeding in charge of emigrants in boats shall be guided by the rules relating to steamers so far as they are applicable to boats.

Samples of emigrants' stores for examination.

161. In the case of boat despatches, the contractor or his agent shall place samples of the stores intended for the emigrants before the Embarkation Agent in time to admit of his examining and approving of them prior to holding the final survey of stores on board.

Grant of license after approval of arrangements.

162. After everything required under the Act and Rules has been approved, the manjhi and the Medical Officer or other person in charge shall sign the provision lists; and when the Embarkation Agent is satisfied that every requirement has been met, and that the head manjhi in charge of the flotilla has a copy of the Act and Rules, he shall license the boats.

Description of boats for emigrants.

163. Boats for the conveyance of emigrants shall be of uniformly moderate size, and strong and water-tight, and shall be provided with side windows having movable jhamps. The machan or plank decks, masts, sails, oars, rudders, and all other requisites for the efficient management of boats shall be in thoroughly serviceable order; and all bamboo machan decks shall be matted.

Increase of roof for additional accommodation not ordinarily allowable.

164. No temporary addition to the size of the roof shall be allowed as a plea for carrying more persons than the boat was originally intended to accommodate, unless there be ample space, and the additional accommodation is in every respect satisfactory.

Hospital boat.

165. A moderate-sized boat shall be selected for a hospital; but if it be insufficient to provide the prescribed hospital space, two or more similar sized boats according to requirement shall be selected in preference to a large one for facility of movement. They shall be particularly well ventilated, fitted with plank decks, and subject to the same general conditions as the rest of the boats. Emigrants' stores of whatever kind shall on no account be placed in any hospital boat, which shall be distinguished from the passenger boats by a red flag prominently placed.

Medical Officer's boat.

166. A small and swift boat shall be provided for the Medical Officer in charge and medical stores. The Medical Officer shall always be near the hospital boat, and a call for him from any passenger boat shall be signalled by the waving of a white cloth. The Embarkation Agent shall see that simple means of rapid communication are understood by all before they start.

Boats for emigrant's stores.

167. The strongest and driest boats, lined with dunnage, shall be selected for the conveyance of the stores for emigrants, and the manjhis of the boats shall be held responsible for the proper care of such stores.

168. All boats approved for the transport of emigrants to the labour districts shall be marked and numbered (stencilled in paint) thus :— on the bow, stern, or other prominent part, and the mark and number shall invariably be entered in each boat's license.

Marking of boats passed for emigrants.

169. Each boat shall be provided with a strong and serviceable lantern.

Lanterns.

170 In the event of any of the boats being disabled by accident, the Medical Officer or other person in charge shall report such accident, or any other untoward circumstance, to the Magistrate at the nearest civil station, so that remedial measures may be taken and assistance rendered as soon as possible.

Report of accidents to boats to nearest Magistrate.

171. The Medical Officer shall endeavour to keep the boats forming the flotilla together, and shall keep the hospital boat following the fleet. He shall take care that the boats are not changed, and that the hospital boat is used only for the purpose intended.

Control of boats by Medical Officer.

172. In the event of seriously communicable disease occurring on the passage, the sick shall be removed to the hospital boat, and the healthy shall be landed and made to bathe and wash their clothes, while the boat including its bilge is being thoroughly cleaned and disinfected. The emigrants shall not be allowed to re enter their boat till everything is clean and dry about them.

Measures on outbreak of dangerously communicable disease.

173. Besides constant attention to the sick, the Medical Officer shall see that the boats and their bilges are kept clean; that the emigrants are generally clean and well cared for; that foul or infected villages or places are avoided, and that at night the boats are not fastened to any defiled or unwholesome bank.

General supervision by Medical Officer.

174. The surplus of emigrants' stores on board of boats shall, at the end of the passage, or after the emigrants for whom they were shipped have been landed, be made over under certificates of delivery to the agents appointed by the contractors to dispose of such surplus. But this shall be done only after such stores have been examined by the inspecting officers, and checked by means of the provision issue statement filled in by the Medical Officer or other person in charge on the passage, and certificates to this effect shall be signed by the Medical Officer or other person in charge and the Debarkation Officer. The Medical Officer, or other person in charge, shall not take part in the sale of surplus stores, nor have any interest whatever in the proceeds of such sales, or in the transmission of such proceeds to the contractors concerned. Any infringement of this rule by the Medical Officer, or other person in charge, shall render him liable to dismissal and non-employment thereafter.

Disposal of surplus stores.

175 Whoever commits a breach of any of the following rules under the Act shall be punishable with fine, which may extend to Rs. 500:— Rules 18, 36, 48 to 51, 62 to 70, 74, 75, 83, 117, 122 to 124, 169 and 170.

4. Leases for one season will be granted for any lands within the area commanded but long lease-holders will have a prior right to the water and season lease-holders will not be supplied until the area under long lease has first been watered.

5. No leases will be accepted for lands situated beyond the area commanded, but if water is available, single waterings may be granted.

6. The rates to be charged will be as follows:—

Ditto 6—VI ...	...	Ditto ditto.
Charges under rule 6—VII	...	When the order authorizing the assessment is passed.

8. The areas to be charged will, as far as practicable, be determined when the lease is executed, but lands irrigated beyond the boundaries of the lease will be measured and charged at the rates mentioned in the lease. The application must be for such an area as will probably be irrigated with existing appliances, and no lease will be accepted where it may be reasonably anticipated that lands beyond the boundaries specified will necessarily or probably be irrigated. Ordinarily the measurements taken in the year in which the lease is executed will be accepted for the remainder of the term, but in special cases the Divisional Canal Officer may by a written order authorize a re-measurement.

9. The Divisional Canal Officer may, under special circumstances for the convenience of the canal administration, sanction a long lease for a term of five instead of seven years.

10. In the case of long or season leases, the minimum area chargeable will be that specified in the lease independently of water being or not being required and utilized.

11. Leases under rule 6, I, II, III, IV and V, will only be entered into with (I) the zamindar or subordinate proprietor of the village, or (II) with a body of cultivators not exceeding six in number, who will agree to represent the cultivators, and who will be jointly and severally responsible for the payment of the water-rates due under the lease. The persons who sign the lease will be entitled to a deduction of 12½ per cent. on all payments made within one month of the water-rates becoming due. If the lessee is not the zamindar or talukdar, a moiety of the amount due for the first year will be payable in advance. Leases under rule 6, VI, will be entered into with representatives of the actual cultivators.

12. No cross dams other than those the erection of which has been sanctioned as a permanent arrangement will be allowed without the written order of the Divisional Canal Officer issued with the written approval of the Collector. Every cross dam must be provided with a suitable and efficient escape, so that the flow of the water in the channel may not be interfered with.

13. The Canal Officer will not interfere with the fishery rights hitherto exercised by the proprietors of the river beds. Nets not fixed to stakes which do not stop or interfere with the flow of the water may be used at the discretion of the persons interested, but cross dams will only be allowed under the provisions of rule 12.

Revised water-rate rules for the Saran Canals.

The 13th February 1894.

No. 57 Notification.—It is hereby notified that, in exercise of the powers conferred on him by sections 78, 79, 80, 81 and 99 of Act III (B.C.) of 1876, the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal proposes to pass the following rules in supersession of those at present in force for carrying out the provisions of the said Act with respect to the Saran Canals.

1. In Notification No. 179, dated the 18th August 1879, under the provisions of Part II of Act III of 1876, Government has reserved to itself the rights of property in the water of the following canals and river beds forming part of the Saran Irrigation scheme:—

I.—The Roopan Chap Sota.
II.—The Head cut.
III.—The Daha River and the water channels in continuation of or in connection with it.
IV.—The Gandaki river and the water channels in continuation of or in connection with it.
V.—The Dhanai River and the water channels in continuation of or in connection with it.
VI.—The Gangri River and the water channels in continuation of or in connection with it.

2. The revenue administration of the Saran Canals is vested in the Superintending Engineer of the Sone Circle. The Executive Engineer of the Gandak is, as canal officer under the Irrigation Act [Act III (B.C.) of 1876, charged with the proper maintenance and management of the canals, and with the control of the supply of water on them. All orders passed by him or by the Subdivisional Canal Officer are under the terms of that Act subject to correction on appeal to the Collector of Saran.

3. Any person who constructs bunds in the canals, who interferes with the supply of water in them, or who takes water from them without the written permission of a duly authorised person will render himself liable to the penalties defined in the Irrigation Act.

4. Water will be admitted to any one of the four canals Nos. III, IV, V and VI at any time during the year, when it may be possible to admit it as soon as possible after a lease has been granted under the following rules. The canal officer will regulate the water passing into and along any canal to the best of his ability to suit the requirements of the lessee. But the volume which can be admitted to any of the canals depends on the season of the year, the level of the River Gandak, the construction of certain bunds, and on the length of notice of his requirements which may be given by the lessee. No guarantee can be given either as to the volume or duration of the supply, or of the delivery of any quantity of water at any particular point of any canal.

5. At least three weeks' notice must be given by a lessee if water is required at any time between November and June. The lessee must give notice to the Subdivisional Canal Officer in writing whenever he requires water to be admitted to, or any increase or decrease in the supply of, the canal of which he has the lease.

6. Leases will be granted for the year 1894-95 for any one of the four canals to any person, approved by the Canal Officer, who has a beneficial interest in the use of the water. The charge for the use, during the whole year, or any part of it, of each of the canals will be—

„ V.—The Dhanai „	... ...	6,000
„ VI.—The Gangri „	... ...	7,000
	Total ...	27,000

The water-rate must, in each case, be paid in full into the Government Treasury, either at Gopalganj or Chapra before a lease will be granted, or before water will be admitted into a canal. An application for a lease for the year 1894-95 must be made in the form of Appendix I.

7. Leases will be granted for a period of three years ending on the 31st March 1897 to any person approved by the Canal Officer, who has a beneficial interest in the use of the water.

The charge for the use, during the period of three years of each of the canals will be—

Total ...	27,000	24,000	21,000

Water will not be admitted into any canal during any particular year until the water-rate of that year has been paid in full into the Government Treasury, either at Gopalganj or Chapra. An application for a lease for a term of three years must be made in the form of Appendix II.

8. The lessee of a canal will be entitled during the currency of his lease—

(i) To the exclusive use, either for irrigation or for the manufacture of indigo, or for any other purpose of the entire supply of water which may be passed into the canal.

(ii) To sell to any indigo concern all or any portion of the supply in the canal for the purpose of the manufacture of indigo at a rate not exceeding Rs. 4 per factory maund of indigo manufactured.

(iii) To sell water to any person who may desire to have it for the purpose of irrigating lands at any rate not exceeding that defined in the schedule of rates attached to these rules.

(iv) To construct any temporary dam in the bed of the channel of which he is lessee after he has obtained the approval in writing of the Subdivisional Canal Officer to its erection.

9. The lessee of any canal shall grant a written permit to any person to whom he may have sold water under Rule 8 (ii) or (iii), and shall send a copy of the permit to the Subdivisional Canal Officer. The Canal Officer will endeavour to stop the unauthorized use of water by persons who do not hold these permits as far as it may be possible to do so when the lessee applies to him in writing to do so.

10. The lessee must conclude his own agreements with persons to whom he may sell water either for manufacture of indigo or irrigation, and must himself enforce those agreements.

In cases where lands have been irrigated without application and water-rates have been imposed by the Canal Officer under section 79 of Act III (B.C.) of 1876, the water-rates may, at the request of the Canal Officer, be recovered by the Collector under the Public Demands Recovery Act.

11. If two or more persons desire to be joint lessees of the same canal, they may submit a joint application in the form of Appendix No. II, and shall appoint one of their number to be the chief lessee; he shall communicate with the Canal Officer on all points connected with the supply of water and with its distribution among the other lessees.

12. If two or more of the four channels are leased at the same time, and there is any difficulty in supplying the full quantity of water required by the lessees, the Canal Officer will endeavour to divide the available supply as fairly as possible between the lessees in proportion to the sums paid by them for the leases of the respective channels.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT.

REVISED ADVERTISEMENT.

A Dictionary of the Economic Products of India

BY DR. GEO. WATT, C.I.E.,

Reporter on Economic Products.

Published under the authority of the Government of India in the Revenue and Agricultural Department.

The first five volumes and Vol. VI, Parts I, II, III & IV of the Dictionary are now ready at the Office of Superintendent of Government Printing, No. 8, Hastings Street, Calcutta, and will be supplied to non-subscribers on receipt of the price for the complete set, which is Rs. 45 in India, and 3 guineas in England (exclusive of the Index, or which a separate charge will be made): packing and postage, in India, 8 annas per volume; for England, Rs. 2-6 per volume. For copies bound in half calf or half morocco, Rs. 6 and 8 shillings, respectively, will be charged extra for the whole set.

The Dictionary is intended to deal with the products of India—animal, vegetable, and mineral; each product being treated after a uniform plan, the paragraphs of which give the scientific, vernacular, and European names; habitat or source; history; properties and uses (both chemical and industrial); trade statistics; markets; &c. The work is arranged alphabetically according to scientific nomenclature, but commercial and important vernacular names are also given as cross references, so that little difficulty need be experienced in finding the account of a product even when its scientific name is unknown to the reader.

An important feature of the Dictionary consists in the fact that derived information is in every instance given under quotation marks, and with a reference to the original publication. Numerous contributors have, however, furnished the results of new discoveries and confirmed the vernacular names, so that the Dictionary is not only a complete compilation of published information, but has been brought abreast of the most recent inventions and discoveries.

Volume I contains the letters A and B, and consists of 559 royal octavo pages; Vol. II embraces the letter C in 689 pages; Vol. III contains the letters D, E, F and half of G. Vol IV latter half of G to middle of L; and Vol. V contains the latter half of L to end of O; Vol. VI, which will consist of four parts), Part I, contains letters P to R. The whole work will, it is expected, be completed in nine volumes (including Parts II to IV of Vol. VI) during the current year; but a tenth volume may also be issued, consisting of an Index to all the vernacular and other names contained in the Dictionary. The Index will practically be a Glossary of the vernacular and European names of the plants, animals and minerals of India, and as such will be a work of reference, which, it is hoped, may prove of considerable value.

AUSTRALIA, ENDEAVOUR STRAIT—THE BOAT CHANNEL AND NORMANBY SOUND.

Masters of vessels, Pearl-shellers, and others navigating these channels cautioned.

THE Portmaster, Brisbane, has given notice, dated 3rd January 1894, that Masters of vessels, pearl-shellers, and others navigating Endeavour strait, the Boat Channel between Prince of Wales and Horn islands, and Normanby Sound, are cautioned against anchoring their vessels near the route of the Submarine Telegraph Cable connecting Thursday island with the Mainland of Queensland, which is as follows:—

From Paterson in a north-westerly direction, passing about half-a-mile south of Dayman and Little Woody islands to the southern entrance of the Boat Channel between Horn and Prince of Wales islands; thence through that channel in a west-north-westerly direction, passing about midway between the western edge of Madge Reef and Heath Point; and thence in a northerly direction to Thursday island.

The route of the cable across Normanby sound is north and south, and is indicated by a triangular black beacon (on a hill at Vivien point) in line with the cable house painted red near the Government Residency, and a white square beacon on Prince of Wales island.

Special attention to this notice is requested, as telegraphic communication with Thursday island is of great public importance, the cable referred to having been recently repaired at considerable expense.

Sections 121 and 124 of "The Post and Telegraph Act, 1891", are hereby quoted for general information:—

Any person who—

(1) Unlawfully or maliciously cuts, breaks, throws down, injures or removes any battery, machinery, wire, cable, post, or other matter or thing whatsoever, being part of any apparatus used or employed in or about any telegraph, or in the working thereof, or

(2) Unlawfully or maliciously prevents or obstructs in any manner whatsoever the sending, conveyance, or delivery of any communication by telegraph, shall be guilty of a misdemeanour, and shall be liable to imprisonment, with or without hard labour, for any term not exceeding three years.

Provided that if it appears to a justice, on the examination of a person charged with an offence against this section, that it is not expedient to the ends of justice that the same should be prosecuted as an indictable offence, one justice may proceed summarily to hear and determine the same, and the offender may, on conviction, be imprisoned for any term not exceeding three months, or be ordered to pay a penalty not exceeding twenty pounds.

Any person who negligently breaks or injures any post, wire, or material, belonging to or used in connection with any telegraph, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding five pounds.

ALLEGED ILLEGAL ORDER AFTER ACQUITTAL.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked—

Has the attention of Government been called to the case of Probhat Chunder Nag of Barudea, in the Dacca district, in which the said Probhat Chunder was convicted in April or May last of an offence under section 174 of the Indian Penal Code, for non-attendance in obedience to an order from a public servant, and sentenced to simple imprisonment for two weeks and a fine of Rs. 200, by Babu Khetter Gopal Roy, Deputy Magistrate of Tippera; (2) whether there is any truth in the report published in the newspapers that the prosecution against Probhat Chunder was revived by the District Magistrate contrary to law, after the said Probhat Chunder had been discharged, such discharge in a summons case having the force of an acquittal; (3) whether the District Magistrate, who was not trying the case, had recorded an order to the effect that the Deputy Magistrate was not to pass final orders without letting him (the District Magistrate) know of it; (4) whether this order is to be found in the order-sheet with the records of the case, and (5) whether the Deputy Magistrate before passing sentence said in open Court:—

"The District Magistrate does not consider a fine to be an adequate punishment in a case like this"?

Will the Government make an enquiry into the aforesaid allegations and lay the result of such enquiry on the table?

The Hon'ble MR. COTTON replied:—

"The answer to the first part of the question is yes: the attention of Government was drawn to the case by an article which appeared in the Bengali newspaper in September last, and an enquiry was then made into the facts.

"The answer to the second part of the question is No: it is not the fact that the prosecution against the person referred to was revived contrary to law.

"With regard to the other questions, I have to say that the Officiating Lieutenant-Governor did not at the time consider that the matter called for further notice, and the Government is not now prepared to re-open the subject."

HARASSMENT OF VILLAGERS BY SOWARS.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked—

Is the Government aware that, notwithstanding any action the local authorities may have taken, the mounted Sowars of the 8th Bengal Cavalry still continue to harass the people of Moheshtolah and the neighbouring villages in the 24-Parganas by cutting and taking away by force ooloo grass, sugarcane, &c., belonging to the villagers, and that, notwithstanding the action of the local authorities, these proceedings have been repeated from year to year for some time past, and that in former years the raiyats had sometimes taken the law into their own hands?

Whether, under these circumstances, the Government will order an enquiry to be made into the truth of the above allegations, and take such action as may be deemed necessary to prevent a recurrence of these proceedings?

The Hon'ble MR. COLLIER replied:—

"In December last I received a petition from certain villagers that the Cavalry grass-cutters had cut some ooloo grass of theirs; this was investigated and there was reason to believe it was true. I therefore communicated with the Officer Commanding the Cavalry, and he undertook to give orders preventing the recurrence of anything of the sort. Since then no further complaint has been made to me, and I am not aware that any further occasion for complaint has arisen. As far as I have been able to ascertain, the petition referred to is the only complaint of the kind received from the inhabitants of the locality in question. If any persons are aggrieved they must know that they will obtain redress by laying their complaint before the Officer in charge of the Sadar sub-division or before myself as Magistrate of the district."

MUNICIPAL GRANTS TO ENGLISH SCHOOLS.

The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee asked—

Will the Government lay on the table a statement showing the grants made by municipalities (excluding Calcutta) to English schools in Bengal for the last five years, the grant for each year being shown separately?

The Hon'ble Mr. Bourdillon replied:—

"The answer to this question will be found in columns 7, 8 and 19 of Appendix I to the Resolution on the working of the Bengal Municipalities for 1892-93, and in corresponding statements in those for previous years. Those Resolutions have been published in the Government Gazette, and are obtainable by the public. The figures are as follows:—

		Rs.
1888-89	...	48,360
1889-90	...	47,121
1890-91	...	51,446
1891-92	...	53,947
1892 93	...	31,480"

ALLEGED EMBEZZLEMENT OF MUNICIPAL FUNDS.

The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee asked—

(a) Is it a fact that from 1884 to 1890, while the administration of the Dinajpur Municipality was in the hands of the Magistrate-Chairman, the Examiner of Local Accounts had occasion very frequently to find fault with the accounts of the Municipality, and to draw the attention of the municipal authorities to the laxity and inefficiency of supervision in respect of the accounts?

(b) Is it a fact that before and without making a thorough enquiry into the defects pointed out by the Examiner of Local Accounts, some of the documents essential to such an enquiry were destroyed as useless record, owing to which the enquiry that was instituted by the non-official administration of the Municipality in 1891 could not be carried back by the Local Auditors beyond April, 1890?

(c) Is the Government aware that as the result of this enquiry a sum of money, amounting to about Rs. 1,500, has been reported by the Examiner of Local Accounts to have been embezzled by the late Tax-Daroga of the Municipality within the space of about 15 months from April, 1890, to July, 1891?

(d) Is the said Tax-Daroga now in Government service, employed in the Police Department, notwithstanding that a special Committee, appointed by the Commissioner of the Division to enquire as to his fitness to remain in Government service, recorded a finding against him, one member alone dissenting from such finding?

(e) Will the Government enquire into the above allegations and take such action as may be necessary to secure the Municipality against the loss which it has sustained?

The Hon'ble Mr. Bourdillon replied:—

"The Government has no information on the subjects mentioned by the hon'ble member in clauses a, b, c and d of his question. In reply to the last clause, I have to say that the Government will not order an enquiry into these matters, as the law places them within the cognisance of the Commissioner of the Division."

LICENSED WAREHOUSE AND FIRE-BRIGADE ACT, 1893, AMENDMENT BILL.

The Hon'ble Mr. Cotton presented the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend Bengal Act I of 1893 (Licensed Warehouse and Fire-Brigade Act). He said:—

"It is a matter of great satisfaction that the Committee on this Bill have been able to present a unanimous report. We discussed the provisions of this amending measure very fully and carefully amongst ourselves, and I must say that it is mainly in consequence of the conciliatory attitude assumed by the Member of this Council who represents the Chamber of Commerce and the important jute interest, which is more materially affected by the provisions of the Bill, that we were able to come to so satisfactory a conclusion. The Council are aware that the necessity for amending the Licensed Warehouse and Fire-Brigade Act, which existed last year, was due to the fact that for many years past the whole cost of the fire-brigade had been borne by the jute industry in Calcutta; and not only the whole cost of the brigade, but a considerable sum besides, which was, with the permission of Government, appropriated by the Corporation of Calcutta for general municipal purposes. It was a great grievance with the jute industry that they should be so charged, and it was to relieve them of what was recognised by the Government as a legitimate grievance that Act I of 1893 was passed. The object of the Act was to apportion the burden of bearing the cost of the fire-brigade partly upon the general ratepayers, and partly upon the owners and occupiers of warehouses in which specially inflammable materials are stored. It was hoped that the law would come into force from the beginning of the year which is now drawing to a close, but there was some unavoidable delay in the Bill passing into law, and as a matter of fact, the commencement of the law dates from the 28th of June last. Therefore, it is that the jute industry is liable to pay the whole cost of the fire-brigade up to that date only. But, as I explained to this Council at our last meeting, practical difficulties exist in giving effect to the intention of the Legislature, and it was found necessary to introduce the present amending Bill, which declares that the jute industry shall continue to pay, during the whole of the current year, the cost of the fire-brigade; in other words, licenses will be taken out for the current year on payment of the same fees as were leviable under the old Act. The jute industry of Calcutta have met the Government in a very friendly manner on this occasion, and no objection has been raised by them to the amendment which the present Bill proposes.

"In regard to the changes introduced by the Select Committee, I need not detain this Council long. We thought it undesirable that there should be any mention in the licenses of paying by instalments. It was thought desirable that the payment of the fees should in all cases be made in advance; and as the payment of the fee is a condition under which licenses are granted, the effect of the change which the present amending Bill introduces is that the payment of the fees shall be a condition precedent to the grant of the license. This was agreed to by all members of the Select Committee as tending to facilitate administration. Then we have introduced a small amendment in section 5 of the existing Act in order to protect the interests of old warehouses, the owners or occupiers of which are entitled to obtain licenses from the Commissioners on payment of the fees prescribed. As the law stands, this privilege would be granted only to warehouses in existence at the commencement of this Act, but owing to the fact that in many instances the licenses of old warehouses have not been granted during the current year, and therefore were not in existence on the 28th June last, it was thought necessary to introduce a verbal modification into section 5 in order to protect those old warehouses and give them the privileges which the law provides. Then we have thought it proper, in order to protect the interest of the Municipal Commissioners, to suspend the repeal of section 347 of Act II of 1888 and section 261 of Act III of 1884, until the close of the current financial year. By Act I of 1893 it is not only warehouses in which jute is stored that become liable to assessment under the Fire-Brigade Act, but many other commodities will be stored in warehouses for which licenses will have to be taken out under that Act. Many of these commodities are now taxed by the Commissioners under the sections of the Municipal law which empower the Commissioners to impose taxes upon obnoxious trades and dangerous professions. This power of special taxation has been withdrawn by the Fire-Brigade Act, but as the Act in regard to the assessment and levy of fees will not take effect until the 1st of April next, it was thought fair and reasonable, in the interests of the Commissioners, that they should continue to exercise the special powers they possess under the Municipal Acts for the whole of the present year.

"Lastly, the Select Committee, after considerable deliberation, agreed to omit section 23 of the Draft Bill as presented to the Council. That section, you will remember, was proposed in order to give the Government power to insist upon the Commissioners making payment of any sum due from them in the event of their default. The reasons why it was thought necessary to introduce that section were explained by me at our last meeting, and these reasons, as far as they go, still exist. But it was represented at our discussions that the provisions of section 64 of the Bengal Municipalities Act already sufficiently empowered the Government to insist upon Mufassal Municipalities paying in money demands due from them to the Government. That undoubtedly is the case. In regard to the Calcutta Municipality, the Government has, under the existing law, no such powers, and in the Bill as originally drafted that power would have been given to it. But it was urged that there was no reason to suppose that the Calcutta Municipality would be likely to fail in its duty, or to neglect to make payments imposed upon it by law. Now it seemed to the Committee that this was a reasonable contention to take up. It is not the case that the Calcutta Municipality has ever failed to meet any pecuniary demand which has been made upon it by the Local Government, and I do not think that this Council is justified in assuming that there will be any similar default in future. We were assured in Select Committee by the Hon'ble Member who represents the Municipality in this Council that there would be no risk whatever of such failure or neglect. For my part I too am inclined to believe that such will never be the case, but if there be such failure or neglect, then the Government will know how to act, and it will become necessary to resort to legislation for the purpose. I trust, therefore, that the Council will agree to the omission of this section from the Bill now laid before it. The Select Committee considered the question very carefully, and with some hesitation it was agreed to omit it, but eventually our view on the subject was unanimous. I need not trouble the Council with any further remarks in regard to this small measure. I trust it will be accepted by this Council without demur and without objection, and that, as the measure is urgent, in the interests of this Municipality and in the interests of the public, it will be found possible to pass it at this meeting of the Council."

The Hon'ble MR. COTTON moved that the Report of the Select Committee be taken into consideration by the Council, and that the clauses of the Bill be considered for settlement in the form recommended by the Select Committee. He said:—

"I have so fully discussed these clauses in the speech which I have just made in laying the Report of the Select Committee on the table that I think it unnecessary to trouble the Council with any further observations."

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said:—"I observe that there are no amendments on the List of Business proposed by any member with regard to any sections of the Bill. Under the rules we can either discuss the Bill, clause by clause, or we can take the Bill as a whole. If any hon'ble member wishes to discuss the clauses of the Bill separately or to discuss any clause in particular, I shall be prepared to meet his view; otherwise, I propose to put the motion that the Bill be passed at once. There being no desire for discussion, I put the motion that the Bill, as amended by the Select Committee, be passed into law."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

BENGAL SANITARY DRAINAGE BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. LYALL moved that the Bill to facilitate the construction of drainage works for improving the sanitary condition of local areas be referred to a Select Committee, consisting of the Hon'ble MESSRS. ALLEN and COLLIER, the Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE, the Hon'ble MR. GHOSE, the Hon'ble MAULVIS SERAJUL ISLAM and SYED FAZL IMAM, the Hon'ble MAHARAJA JAGADINDRA NATH ROY OF NATOR and the Mover.

The Hon'ble MR. GHOSE said:—"I venture to think that this is a somewhat hasty and ill-considered measure, and that it should not be further proceeded with until ample opportunity has been given to the public to express their views on it. It is a Bill which, if passed into law, would vitally affect the interests of all those who have anything to do with the land, from the zamindar down to the cultivating tenant. It is proposed to throw the entire cost of these experiments upon land-holders and cultivating tenants, although it is obvious that if these drainage works be as satisfactory and beneficial as you expect them to be, their benefits will not be confined to the classes that have been singled out for taxation, but will be shared in by the general population. Under these circumstances, I should have expected that some opportunity would have been given to the classes interested to submit their views to the Government before it undertook to legislate in this direction. But the only prelude of the Bill was, as we were told by the hon'ble member in charge of the Bill, the Conference known as the Belvedere Conference, which was composed certainly of gentlemen for whom I have the highest respect, but who, with the solitary exception of Rajah Peary Mohun Mookerjee, could not be said to represent the landed interest upon which the whole burden was sought to be cast. It is, therefore, quite clear that the landed classes were conspicuous by their absence from that Conference, and that the only member of their body who was present dissented then and there from the conclusions which were arrived at. I think that under these circumstances they are entitled justly to complain that great issues affecting their interests have been decided virtually behind their backs and without giving them a hearing.

"But be that as it may, I desire to offer one or two observations in regard to the general character of the proposals made in this Bill. It provides for the carrying out of drainage works whenever the Local Government may have reason to believe that the sanitary condition of any local area may be improved by drainage. I certainly gratefully appreciate, if I may be permitted to say so, the humane and beneficent object which the Government has in view, but nevertheless I shall be compelled to oppose the Bill as it stands at present. No one will deny for one moment that a very virulent type of malarial fever is prevalent over large areas in Lower Bengal, and that the sanitary condition of many of those districts demands the serious attention of the Government, but we are no longer on such firm ground when we come to consider the causes which have led to a state of things which we all deplore, and the remedial measures which it may be desirable or expedient to adopt. For my part I freely admit that I am convinced, so far as I am competent to form an opinion on the subject, that defective drainage, or rather obstructions to the natural drainage system of the country, are greatly responsible for the origin of this epidemic fever. Any measure, therefore, which has for its object the restoration of the natural drainage system of the country must command my cordial support. But this Bill is entirely silent as regards the nature of the drainage works which are in contemplation. Is it surface drainage of the villages only, in which case I entirely agree, or is it subsoil drainage of the maidans, paddy-fields, and bheels? Do you intend to act upon the lines indicated by the late Rajah Degambur Mitter, and to maintain unimpaired and unobstructed the natural drainage system of the Gangetic delta, from the villages to the arable lands, from paddy-fields to bheels, and from the bheels through khalls and water-courses to the navigable rivers which are their natural outfall. That was the position of the late Rajah Degambur Mitter; his theory was at the time very strongly combated and opposed by professional experts, but it is the only theory which at the present time holds the field; and if the Government contemplate nothing further than that, then I venture to say not a single voice will be raised against the proposal. But, as I have said, this Bill is very vague; it gives the Council no idea as to the nature of the schemes which may be carried out under it.

"There are other schemes of a less desirable character which may be covered by this Bill. Is it intended, for instance, to give effect to the recommendations of Mr. Adley in 1869, upon which the Government of the day placed considerable reliance when legislating on the subject in 1871 and in 1880; is it intended to follow up those recommendations and to embark upon such gigantic, costly, unpractical and mischievous enterprises as the subsoil drainage of maidans, paddy-fields and swamps, of which there are so many in every district in Bengal, which have existed ever since the formation of the Gangetic delta, and which throughout all these centuries have never produced the results which were attributed to them. No doubt there must be a certain amount of unhealthiness in certain seasons of the year in a country like Lower Bengal; hon'ble members are aware that almost he whole of Lower Bengal is more or less a swamp dotted and interspersed with villages lying upon comparatively higher ground, and that some unhealthiness should prevail in such a country immediately after the close of the rains is one of those normal climatic conditions from which there is absolutely no escape. The resources of science cannot succeed in altering the immutable laws of nature, nor can any amount of engineering skill succeed in transforming the climate of Bengal into anything like that of Europe. I am fully prepared to concede that the present Government has no such Quixotic scheme in view, but if this Bill is passed in its present form, what is there to prevent any future administration from giving effect to such recommendations? It is difficult to see; it is impossible to predict what the sanitary fad of the future may be. You have tried many experiments in the past, and all those experiments have signally failed. For a number of years you waged a ceaseless war against jungle, shrubs, bamboo topes, aquatic plants, tanks and bheels, and what has been the result of all that misdirected energy? Total, dismal failure! While you succeeded in causing an indefinite amount of hardship and annoyance to the people, and serious mischief in some cases, such as the removal of aquatic plants from tanks and bheels, as has been tardily acknowledged by medical experts. History has a tendency to repeat itself, and I am, therefore, reluctant to support a vague enactment of this kind under which it may be open to any future administration to embark upon a series of costly enterprises fruitful not of benefit, but of mischief on the recommendation of some over-zealous district officer or some engineer burning to distinguish himself, more especially when I observe that it is proposed to throw the entire burden of the cost of the scheme upon the land-holders and raiyats who are to have no voice in the matter, while the Government do not propose to make any contribution towards the expense.

"There is another point in connection with this matter to which I wish to draw attention. There is absolutely no provision in the Bill so far as I have been able to see, giving any voice or option whatever to the holders of estates or raiyats, or a majority of them. Now I find that in the previous legislation on the subject, to which I have referred in another connection, namely, the first Drainage Act which was passed in the year 1871 (Act V), no action could be taken under the Act unless at least a moiety of proprietors concerned had signified their assent. Again, in the year 1880, in Act VI of that year, it was expressly provided that the Drainage Commissioners were to obtain the assent in writing of one-half of the holders of estates before adopting any such scheme. No such provision is made in this Bill. All that it provides for is this, that the previous assent of the District Board is required. That, I submit, most respectfully is a different thing altogether. The District Board may consist wholly or largely of nominated members, and it may not represent the raiyats or land-holders of the area concerned. On these grounds, I believe that the absence of any option to the whole area is a distinctly backward and retrograde step.

"I shall say one word more, and that is in reference to the financial proposals contained in the Bill.

"These proposals in regard to taxation seem to me, if I may say so respectfully, to be altogether unsound and indefensible. Before proceeding further, I would ask your Honour's permission to read a short extract from the Appendix to the Report of the Epidemic Commission, which gives facts as to these obstructions.

"The Report says:—

'The obstructions appear to have arisen chiefly from roads, and partly from embankments thrown up across khals for the purpose of fisheries. In like manner, the Eastern Bengal Railway and its feeders, when the same have crossed the water-courses of the villages lying on the eastern bank of the river Hooghly, and of others more inland, but situated to the west of the lines, have obstructed the drainage of those places; the fall of the villages lying on the eastern bank of the Hooghly, as I have before observed, being towards the east, and consequently Chogdah, Kanchrapara, Halisohur, and many similarly situated have suffered. I may here remark that the face of the country being perfectly flat, the drainage runs over the whole surface towards the direction of its slope, and consequently roads running transversely to it must of necessity intercept the drainage. But the East Indian and Eastern

Bengal Railways are provided with capacious viaducts, wherever they have crossed, what appeared to the eye as water-courses; but these are in reality khals and other large streams which, as I have already observed, received the drainage in its flow from the villages over paddy-fields and bheels.'

"If this statement correctly represents the facts, it does seem to me to be utterly unjust to throw the whole or even a large portion of the cost of restoring the natural drainage system of the country on those who are not responsible for these obstructions, and who have themselves been victims of virulent malarial fever, which has been caused by the action of other parties. It seems to me indisputable that railway embankments, district roads, and railway feeders, so many of which have sprung up of recent years, are really responsible for these obstructions. It is also clear from this report that sometimes zamindars and raiyats are responsible for damming up khals and water-courses either for retaining water in the paddy-fields or for fishing purposes; and under these circumstances it seems that the only fair and equitable course is that the State should make a substantial contribution; that the Railway Companies who are so largely answerable for this state of things should also be made to contribute according to their responsibilities, and that private parties who have caused obstruction should come in for their fair share of the cost of removing the obstruction; and if after all this it is proposed to supplement the fund by levying a rate upon land-holders and raiyats, I believe they will be patriotic enough to assent to such taxation without much murmur. But I venture to think that the Bill as it stands is open to very serious objections on the grounds I have briefly indicated, and which I feel bound to point out. I invite the Council respectfully so to shape its legislation that you may be able to carry public opinion along with you, that your laws may command a willing obedience, and that they may be welcomed by those for whom you are legislating. With these observations, Sir, if I am not out of order, I beg to move that, with the view of giving an opportunity to the public to express their opinion on the subject, this Bill be referred to the Select Committee this day, three months."

The Hon'ble MAHARAJA JAGADINDRA NATH ROY OF NATOR said:—"I entirely agree with MR. GHOSE in thinking that the Bill in its present form should not be referred to the Select Committee to-day. I should like, however, to say one or two words with regard to the financial aspect of the question. The Bill provides that the zamindars will in the first instance have to pay the whole cost of the drainage works, and also that year after year they will have to pay a certain amount for the drainage and repair of those works. This seems to me to be rather inequitable, and it also seems to me to be to a certain extent an encroachment upon the permanent settlement; therefore it seems to me undesirable that this Bill in its present form should be referred to a Select Committee, and that it is desirable that sufficient time should be allowed to the public to express their opinion upon it."

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE said:—"I rise not to stand in the way of the amendment moved by my hon'ble friend. I think that in a matter of this kind public discussion is of the greatest possible importance. At the same time, speaking for myself, it is impossible for me to approach this Bill without feeling grateful to the Government for the benevolent intentions by which it was actuated in framing and introducing into this Council a measure of this kind. Opinions may differ with regard to the details of the measure. I myself have some objections in that direction. We may object to the financial clauses of the Bill; we may object to the proposal to levy a cess on the people; we may argue that in the present circumstances of the people, having regard to the heavy burden of taxation they have already to meet—a burden which is likely to be added to in the near future in view of the demands of the Imperial Government—it will savour almost of criminality to impose an additional cess on the people, even for so necessary a purpose as that of sanitation. Some of us may hold that the assent or the dissent of the District Board is no reflex of popular opinion; it may be possible to devise a better machinery for ascertaining public opinion than what is provided through the medium of the District Board. With reference to these and other matters of detail opinions may differ, but I think all will agree that in this matter the Government has been animated by the purest and the loftiest motives, by the single-minded desire to secure to the rural population of Bengal, the inestimable blessing of health. I am a believer in drainage. If it is a fad, I am one of the faddists; but I am in excellent company, for I am supported by the experience of the highest medical authorities, whose opinions are entitled to the greatest weight. I presume it will be admitted that the Sanitary Commissioner of Bengal is the highest sanitary authority in a matter of this kind. Time after time he repeats the same tale; time after time he repeats the terrible record of mortality from malarial fever; time after time he appeals to the Government to introduce some practical measure of drainage to relieve the people from this frightful mortality and the terrible sufferings which follow in the train of that mortality. With Your Honour's permission I will read to the Council one or two extracts from the Report of the Sanitary Commissioner of Bengal. In the annual report for 1891 he says :—

'An examination of the vital statistics of the Province will show that fever claims by far the largest number of victims, the death-rate from this cause being nearly three-fourths of the entire death-rate of the Province: in fact, the enormous and increasing mortality from fever calls for serious attention and inquiry.

'During the year under report, 1,333,395 persons, representing a death-rate of 18·84 per 1,000 of the population, are reported to have succumbed to fever against 1,155,569, or 16·42 per 1,000 in the previous year.'

"We find the same tale repeated in 1888:—

'The annual death-rate from fevers is nearly three-fourths of the entire death-rate of the Province, or more than twice as much as the death-rate of all the other diseases put together; and when it is remembered that every death from fever probably represents twenty or more attacks, it may be imagined what a very large proportion of the population must have suffered during the year under review.'

"Now, what are the reports regarding the mortality of Calcutta? It is within our recollection that Calcutta used to be the hot-bed of malarious fever, and people used to leave Calcutta for the Mufassal to recruit their health. Under proper sanitary arrangements Calcutta has now become a sanitarium; people leave the Mufassal to come to Calcutta to regain their health. The price of land in Calcutta has risen three-fold within the last few years. Ten years ago a katta of land used to be sold for Rs. 300; now you cannot buy a katta of land for less than Rs. 1,000. And what is the reason of this extraordinary rise in the price of land? It means an extraordinary demand on the part of people living in the Mufassal for land in Calcutta. Let me read a few facts in regard to the mortality of Calcutta, and compare it with the death-rate of the suburbs of Calcutta before the introduction of drainage and water-supply. In 1884, the death-rate of the Suburbs was 45·2 per mille; in 1884, the death-rate of Calcutta was 29·2. In 1885, the death-rate of Calcutta was 29·3; in the Suburbs it was 44·8. In 1886, it was 26·4 in Calcutta; in the Suburbs it was 40·5. In 1887, it was 26·9 in Calcutta; in the Suburbs it was 42·1. In 1889, it was 26·9 in Calcutta; in the Suburbs it was 42·4. And then when the Suburbs were amalgamated with Calcutta, we find a decrease in the death-rate in consequence of the sanitary improvements which were introduced. I have before me the figures of five years of the added area before the amalgamation, and of five years after the amalgamation. We find that the normal annual death-rate for the five years preceding the amalgamation was never less than 40 per mille, and that since the amalgamation it has never been more than 36·7. Therefore, having these facts before us, it is impossible not to hold that defective drainage is the cause of malarial fever, and that the surest means of removing malarial fever is the introduction of an effective system of drainage.

"But though I am prepared to accord my support to the principle of this Bill, I am not quite so sure about its financial clauses, and I would appeal to the Select Committee and the Council to reconsider those clauses by the light of the observations I desire to submit for their consideration. And I do not consider them an essential part of the Bill; they are an adjunct to the Bill, and might be safely dispensed with, and yet the principle of the Bill may be saved. If the Government is really anxious that the Bill should not be a dead-letter, that it should be a workable measure, and that it should be largely availed of by the local bodies, then the proposal to levy a cess for drainage purposes should be abandoned. Let me remind the Council of the character of the Bill. It is a measure of local option. It is entirely optional with the District Boards to introduce it or not, just as they please. Now I ask, whether any local body with the smallest pretensions to a popular character would, of its own free will or accord, ask for or submit to a measure which involves the imposition of a fresh cess upon the people? Where then is the money to come from? I say from the surplus balance of the provincial public works cess. The Hon'ble Mr. Bourdillon will, no doubt, tell me that there is no surplus balance, but notwithstanding the high authority of that gentleman, I am bound to hold that there is a considerable and an increasing surplus balance of the public works cess which ought to be devoted to the execution of such works as are contemplated under this Bill. Let me remind the Council, I will not say of the pledge, but of the distinct declaration made by the hon'ble member in charge of the Bill, when it was proposed to introduce the public works cess in Bengal. The Hon'ble Mr. Reynolds, when he introduced the Public Works Cess Bill, said that, in obedience to the mandate which had been received from the Government of India, the cess was to be imposed in order to meet the interest on the capital outlay on some extraordinary public works and in connection with works undertaken for the prevention of famine. The hon'ble gentleman mentioned what these extraordinary public works were. They are the three great irrigational canals on the Sone, in Orissa and in Midnapur, andthe State Railways of Nalhati, Tirhut, Mutla and North Bengal. The calculations were made upon this basis. It was estimated that the interest charge on these works would amount to 22 lakhs, and the working charges to Rs. 1,50,000. Then it was calculated that 8 lakhs a year would be needed to meet the interest on the capital outlay on the railways; 3 lakhs would represent the receipts from railways, and therefore 5 lakhs had to be provided to meet the interest on railways; in all 27 lakhs a year would be needed for these extraordinary public works.

"Then there were the famine works, and it was calculated that from 30 to 35 lakhs a year would be required to meet the charges of these extraordinary public works, and such works as might be needed for protection against famine. The surplus blance of the Public Works cess is, however, devoted to Ordinary Provincial Works. I maintain that it is not fair, it is not right, to go behind the declarations which were made in this Council, and to impose a tax which, in the words of John Stuart Mill, amounts to partial confiscation—a tax on the landed and agricultural interests for the sake of the public at large. These works benefit the whole community, but who are taxed—the landed and the agricultural interests? To do so involves an utter violation of the principles of political economy and the ordinary considerations of justice. Let us read the words of the Hon'ble Mr. Reynolds—words which he made use of in introducing the Public Works Cess Bill. He said:—

'It had been determined to render the Local Governments responsible for the cost and management of extraordinary public works, that was to say such public works as railways and works of irrigation which had been constructed with borrowed money and had not been paid for out of the revenues of the year.'

"Then, again, Mr. Reynolds observed:—

'The Government of Bengal would take over the works as they stood, and would be responsible for the payment of simple interest on the capital outlay up to date and for the provision necessary for future working expenses.'

"I will make one other extract from Mr. Reynolds' speech:—

'It had been laid down by the Government of India that it was necessary to introduce a system of provincial and local responsibility for the provision of local relief in the event of famine.'

"In this matter I claim to represent a large amount of public feeling. This question of sanitation was the subject of discussion at the meeting of the Bengal Provincial Conference, held in 1892, soon after the holding of the Belvedere Conference, and I hold in my hand an extract from a Resolution passed on that occasion. It was then resolved 'that this Conference, while deeply grateful to His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor for his earnest attention to the improvement of sanitation, would appeal to His Honour to devote the surplus balance of the public works cess to this purpose.' I think this Bill ought to be recast by the light of the observations which I have ventured to submit for the consideration of this Council I wish to make one other observation before I conclude. If the representative character of the District Board is objected to, as it has been objected to by my hon'ble friend to my right (MR. GHOSE), why not adopt the procedure which we find in sections 12—14 of the Drainage Act of 1880? The Drainage Commissioners might write to the parties interested, inviting them within a certain time to submit, in writing, their views with reference to the project laid before them, and the matter should then be decided by a majority of the votes of those interested.

"Subject to these remarks and the right to move amendments so far as the financial clauses of the Bill are concerned, I accord my cordial support to the principle of the Bill. At the same time it seems to me desirable that facilities should be afforded for the public discussion of a measure which involves the imposition of a fresh cess."

The Hon'ble MR. ALLEN said:—"Before dealing with the principle underlying this Bill, I wish to make a passing observation. I am rather surprised at the inconsequence of the hon'ble member who has just sat down in objecting to the cost of improved sanitation being levied from the landed interest. As a proof of the valuable results of sanitation, he has informed us that the value of land in Calcutta which formerly fetched no more than Rs. 300 per katta has, in consequence of the diminution of fever, risen to Rs. 1,000 per katta. If the value of the whole of my land could be raised from Rs. 300 per katta to Rs. 1,000 per katta by proper drainage, I should not grudge the small taxation necessary to effect that result. This, however, is a mere observation in passing.

"According to the rules of procedure in this Council, it is on the motion to go into Select Committee that any objections to the principle of the Bill are to be brought forward, and that any discussion on the principle can be held. There are two assumptions underlying this Bill—first, that the fever which has proved so deadly in certain parts of Lower Bengal is due to impeded drainage; secondly, that it is possible to improve the drainage of those parts of the Province to such a degree as to put an end to the malaria which causes, or is supposed to cause, the fever in question. There is no member of this Council, and there is probably no member in the service in Bengal, who has a larger acquaintance with the malarial fever, commonly called the Burdwan fever, than I possess. It was first noticed in the year 1862, and in 1863 I was placed in charge of the Baraset subdivision, which at that time was the very worst spot for sickness and death from fever of any part of Lower Bengal, not excepting Burdwan itself. The people feared it; no one would live there. During the time I was there, a Commission was appointed to investigate into the causes of the fever. The Commissioner of the Presidency Division, Dr. Mouat, the Inspector-General of Jails, and Babu Degambur Mitter came to Baraset while I was there. They suggested certain causes for the fever, and it was then for the first time that Babu Degambur Mitter insisted upon impeded drainage as being the cause of malarial fever. His notion was that the East Indian Railway running along one bank of the river and Eastern Bengal Railway running along the other bank intercepted the drainage of the country which otherwise would flow into the river Hooghly, and he originated the idea of intercepted drainage being the cause of malarial fever. There appear, however, to be two objections to that theory—first, it has never been shown that the water lying on one side of the embankment permanently varies in level from that on the other side; secondly, the surface water does not drain naturally towards the Hooghly, but away from it. I have personally discussed the matter many times, and have always had the greatest interest in the subject ever since. As a matter of fact, in all alluvial tracts of country the drainage does not run towards the river, but from it, because of the banks of rivers passing through the alluvial delta being invariably higher than the more inland country; consequently the railways did not obstruct the natural drainage of the country. It was then said—I believe Dr. Mouat was the originator—that though there is no evidence of the level of the water on one side of an embankment being different from the level of the water on the other, yet a great mass of solid material such as a railway embankment being deposited on a semi-fluid soil, like that of Lower Bengal, must compress the underlying strata so as to impede, if not the surface drainage, the sub-soil drainage of the country. That was 32 years ago. But I have not yet seen any proof that a well sunk on one side of a line of railway reached water at a different level from a well sunk on the other side of the line; consequently if the level of the water in the sub-soil is identical on each side of a line of railway, it is obvious that an embankment cannot impede the flow of the sub-soil water from one side to the other.

"So the matter rested when I left Baraset, and for a time the discussion on the subject of malarial fever practically ceased. Nearly ten years afterwards it was my fate to be in charge of the district of Birbhum, which runs northwards from the Adjai river along the side of the East Indian Railway up towards Rajmahal. From the banks of that river northwards, the soil is composed of undulating laterite with deep gulleys between, and it would be impossible to conceive or imagine any country more perfectly drained than the whole of that tract. Rain is absolutely incapable of lodging there; in the course of half an hour it disappears in flowing streams. Any person travelling by railway can satisfy himself, after crossing the river Adjai, how absurd the idea of impeded drainage must be when started with reference to any influences affecting the health of the people of that country. In fact a large part of the railway has to pass through considerable cuttings. Well, in 1871-72, I was in charge of the Birbhum district, and at the time malarial fever was raging with renewed intensity in the Burdwan district, and the whole subject came up for consideration and discussion anew. The then Magistrate of Burdwan, summing up the matter, had nothing but a sneer to offer for all the theories which were propounded. The fever crossed the Adjai river; it decimated Sonool and Bulpore and that neighbourhood, and moved gradually up to the village of Purumdorpore, six miles from the town of Sooree. I subsequently heard that it passed on and visited with equal fatality the town of Sooree and other places which had never known such fever. The then Commissioner, Mr. Buckland, naturally devoted considerable attention to discover the cause of the fever. My own attention was constantly fixed on the subject. The malarial theory, the obstructed drainage theory, was brought out again, but to attempt to account for fever in the Birbhum district on any such theory was absurd. The only conclusion Mr. Buckland could arrive at, as the result of his own examination into the subject, was that it was like a large fire which, wherever it found combustible material, burnt it up and then passed on. One of the most remarkable things was that the higher castes of the people invariably suffered—the Brahmins, the Kyasths and the Rajpoot caste—they were the victims; while the Bouries, Haris, Bagdees and other low castes escaped with impunity.

"For these reasons, after having had my constant attention directed to the subject, and being naturally anxious to ascertain some cause, I have been utterly unable to satisfy myself that this fever is in any special way connected with drainage or malaria. My conclusion was that it is mainly due to constitutional conditions; but I will not now detain the Council to enlarge on this theory. It is sufficient for me simply to draw attention to the uncertainty which hangs over the main assumption of this Bill, namely, that by improving the drainage of a tract of country we necessarily improve the health of the people. It may be so, but my own experience in Calcutta does not lead me to think so. After having run the gauntlet of the most malarial districts of Bengal, I gained experience in my own person of fever for the first time in the town of Calcutta, and this I will say that the fever of Calcutta is of a much more vicious and persistent type than any fever in the Mufassal. In fact improved drainage appears to give a typhoid character to the most trifling fever. Therefore I think the passage of this Bill through the Council should not be hurried, and the suggestion that ample time should be given for discussion and consideration is reasonable in view of the doubts which exist as to the malarial theory being the correct one.

"But admitting that malaria is the cause of all this deadly fever, what is the remedy? Is it possible to improve the drainage of Bengal? I observe that there is no section in the Bill prohibiting the cultivation of rice in any area subjected to drainage and being improved. If rice cultivation is still to go on in a drained area, it is perfectly certain that the drainage must be practically inoperative. Is it contemplated that rice cultivation should cease? If so, the last stage of the people may be worse than the first, and it may prove a measure for starving men in order to save them from fever. The actual condition of things in Bengal renders anything like effective drainage absolutely impossible. When once the highlands of Western Bengal are left behind, the whole country from the Bhagirathi at Murshidabad to the hills of Tippera is covered with water varying from 5 to 15 feet for four months in the year. How can it be possible with that level of water over the whole country that any drainage worthy of the name can be effected? It is a curious fact also, but still well known, that the healthiest period of the year in these tracts is precisely when the drainage of the country is entirely blocked by this mass of water, and only after this water has run off that the effects of malaria are experienced.

"I offer these observations not in any way as final or as tying my opinion to any conclusion, but these are the opinions which have been floating in my mind for a long time with reference to this subject; and I think it necessary—at least there can be no harm in it—to lay them before the Council when the Bill is at its present stage, as this will be the only opportunity when these considerations can be placed before the Council."

The Hon'ble MAULVI ABDUL JUBBAR said:—"I beg to make one or two observations with reference to this motion. The fever which is said to be due to malaria and obstructed drainage has brought on misery and wretchedness in some of the districts of Bengal, which thirty years back were regarded as sanitaria, and I am unfortunately an inhabitant of one of those districts. There in the place of strong and nourishing food quinine and sago are the principal articles of daily consumption. The fact was stubborn that the unhealthiness of these districts began shortly after the construction of railways in those places, and it is the general opinion that the railways have obstructed the drainage of the country. The object of this Bill is admitted by all to be a beneficial one, but at the same time I think it necessary that it should be ascertained whether the people are prepared to accept it in its present form. Therefore, I think that before referring the Bill to a Select Committee, a certain time should be allowed to the public for the consideration of its provisions."

The Hon'ble BABU GONESH CHUNDER CHUNDER said:—"It seems to me that there is no necessity for the proposed legislation. I admit, notwithstanding what has fallen from the Hon'ble MR. ALLEN, that the time has come when for the preservation of the lives and the health of the people of this Province an effective system of drainage is necessary by means of legislation. But the question is, have we not in our Statute Book a law now existing for that purpose, and has it been shown that the working of that Act has not attained the purpose for which it was enacted? If you refer to the Bill which has been circulated, you will find that almost all the provisions of this Bill have been taken bodily from Act VI of 1880. There are of course some objectionable provisions in it upon which I shall make some comments hereafter. The hon'ble member in charge of the Bill in introducing it did not even allude to Act VI of 1880, nor did he say anything to show that any attempt to put that Act into force has proved unsuccessful, or that its provisions did not answer the purpose for which the law was passed. Why cannot that Act be amended as the exigencies of the case may require? Why should we undertake new legislation on a subject on which we have already an exhaustive Act. I think it will be seen that this Bill incorporates the main features of the former Act with the exception of some of the important provisions which have already been alluded to by the hon'ble member on my left (MR. GHOSE). But it excludes the provision for ascertaining the views of those most interested in the proposed drainage system, namely, the owners of the properties in which drainage works are to be constructed. Under the existing law it is necessary for the Drainage Commissioners to obtain the assent in writing of one-half of the holders of the land which is to be drained, but this Bill entirely does away with their consent. It restricts the principle of local self-government, which exists in that Act; and in place of the consent of the owners of the lands to be drained, this Bill gives the right of assent to the District Board. I am not sure that owners of lands in the country are prepared to delegate their authority in matters concerning their own pecuniary interests to the District Board. Under these circumstances it certainly seems to me that the present Bill is not an improvement on the existing law. There are no doubt objections on financial grounds against the provisions of Act VI of 1880, some of which have already been adverted to by hon'ble members who have already spoken. For these reasons I submit that, instead of proposing to pass a new law, steps should be taken to amend Act VI of 1880." . .

The Hon'ble MR. LYALL said:—"The substantive amendment before the Council is that of the Hon'ble MR. GHOSE, who proposes that the Select Committee shall not be appointed for three months to come. There is scarcely a word in the very able speech made by my hon'ble friend, in which I do not agree more or less, chiefly more; and if I thought any advantage would be gained by putting off the appointment of the Select Committee for three months, I would at once agree to it. But I think the provisions made in the Rules of the Council fully meet the wishes of the hon'ble member. The Rules provide that all communications made to the Government in connection with any Bill before the Council should be laid before the Select Committee appointed to consider the Bill; they also provide that a longer or a shorter time than the usual period of one month may be allowed for the consideration of a Bill by the Select Committee, and I very much doubt whether the object of the hon'ble member will be in any way forwarded by the adoption of his amendment. I think it is far more likely that public bodies, and people generally will submit their opinions on a Bill which is actually before the Council, than upon one which was practically shelved for three months. I am as anxious as the hon'ble member himself for a full public discussion of the provisions of this Bill. In introducing the Bill I said that it had been put together by the Legislative Department as the result of the Belvedere Conference, and that it does not pretend to fix the exact wording of the law: that is left to the Select Committee and afterwards to this Council to determine. I feel sure that every point put forward by my hon'ble friend will be dealt with by the Select Committee, and I have no doubt successfully. Among other objections the hon'ble member objected to the District Board being made the arbiter of the people. That point was decided by the majority of the Belvedere Conference, but I feel bound to say that I agreed with the minority; and should the Select Committee not accept it, they will be at liberty to reject it. The question of finance is another matter with which the Select Committee will deal.

"The Hon'ble BABU GONESH CHUNDER CHUNDER has contended that, instead of the Bill now before the Council, an amendment of the existing Drainage Act, VI of 1880, should be introduced, but that will have very much the same effect as the present Bill inasmuch as this Bill has been drafted almost entirely upon the model of that law, there being no other enactment on the subject. That Act, however, deals with small local areas which it was proposed to drain for the benefit of the zamindars and raiyats. It has nothing to do with the health of the people, and it does not deal with large areas, and I do not think anything will be gained by simply amending that Act.

"Then, with regard to the remarks which fell from the Hon'ble MR. ALLEN, I am personally at one with him in those remarks. I have seen malarial fever in tracts where there have been no roads or lines of railway to obstruct the natural drainage of the country. My own view is that the gradual upheaval of the country has naturally interfered with the old drainage channels. But that is a mere theory. Everybody agrees that malarial fever does require to be dealt with, and the great majority of medical opinion is that it is largely caused by the want of drainage. I hope that in view of these remarks the amendment which has been moved will not be pressed."

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said:—"The Hon'ble MR. GHOSE asks leave to move an amendment of which notice has not been given, and under the Rules I permit the amendment to be laid before the Council. From one point of view I regret that the amendment has been moved in this form, because it creates the impression of disagreement where it is evident from what has fallen from all the hon'ble members who have spoken that no real disagreement exists. We are all anxious to give full opportunity for the expression of public opinion; we are all anxious that the provisions of the Bill should be examined with the utmost care and deliberation. The only point for decision is, which is the best step to take in order to secure the result we all desire? Are we likely to get the best consideration of the Bill by the public, and are we likely to get their views sent up in the fullest and completest form and in the shortest time, if the Bill is referred to a Select Committee at once, or if the reference to a Committee is postponed? I am inclined to agree with the hon'ble member in charge of the Bill that if it is actually before a Select Committee and is no longer a sleeping Bill, it will stimulate the submission of opinions, both of official and non-official members, and that their views and criticisms will be sent in sooner than would otherwise be the case. I say this on the simple ground that people are more inclined to give their mind to a subject when they feel that the time is limited than when they know the time is unlimited, and that it will make no difference whether they send in their representations to-day or three months hence. Therefore, on the whole, it seems to me desirable that a Select Committee should be appointed now, but that they should be instructed not to proceed with any haste, but to give sufficient time and to give all local and public bodies notice that an expression of their views was desired, and that their views on the subject of the Bill would be carefully considered. It should be understood that there will be no hurry, but that it is desired that the Bill should not be looked upon as a sleeping Bill, but that the Bill which is now in embryo should be brought to life within a reasonable time."

The Hon'ble MR. GHOSE said:—"After the observations which have fallen from the hon'ble member in charge of the Bill, I will ask permission to withdraw my amendment."

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said:—"I am glad to allow the amendment to be withdrawn, because any appearance of disagreement on the subject will now be removed."

The Motion was then put and agreed to.

CALCUTTA TRAMWAYS AGREEMENT BILL.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE introduced the Bill to give effect to an agreement made between the Corporation of Calcutta and the Calcutta Tramways Company, Limited, and moved that it be read in Council. He said:—

"This is an amending Bill, consisting of only three sections. The object of the Bill is to legalise an agreement arrived at between the Corporation and the Tramways Company. The Corporation is advised that the existing agreement being embodied in the schedule to an Act of the Legislature, it will be impossible to legalise any fresh agreement or alteration of the existing agreement except by legislative enactment. That is the raison d'être of this Bill, and these are the reasons for asking leave to introduce it."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Bill was read accordingly.

The Council adjourned to Saturday, the 10th March, 1894.

Assistant Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal,

RESOLUTION ON THE RESETTLEMENT OF THE WEST TISTA KHAS MAHALS IN THE DISTRICT OF DARJEELING.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT—LAND REVENUE.

Calcutta, the 5th March 1894.

RESOLUTION—No. 1185.

READ—

Letter No. 845Rot., dated the 27th September 1893, from the Commissioner of the Rajshahi Division, submitting the completion report of the resettlement of the West Tista khas mahals in the district of Darjeeling.

The West Tista khas mahals in the district of Darjeeling are fourteen in number, and cover a hilly tract of country lying to the west of the river Tista, inhabited by a mixed population of Nepalis, Bhutias and Lepchas, the number of Nepalis being nearly double that of the Bhutia and Lepcha raiyats together. The total population of the tract is 3,592 males and 3,455 females. The mahals (the names of which are given on the margin) are the property of Government, having been acquired with the tract taken from Sikhim after 1850. The current settlement of the first eleven mahals, which was concluded in each case with the mandal and raiyats on what is known as the joint raiyatwari system, will expire on the 31st March 1894; of the three remaining mahals, Tukda (Pemchada's was first settled with Pemchada Bhutia for a term of ten years which expired on the 30th September 1887. The fresh lease which was then granted jointly to his son and the raiyats of the mahal will expire on the 31st March 1894. The Dhajia khas mahal, which originally formed a part of the lands granted to Dr. Greenhill for a farm, was settled in 1890 with the mandal and the raiyats jointly for ten years with retrospective effect from 1887. The current settlement of this mahal will not therefore expire, and the new rates will not come into force till 1897; the present settlement of the Mirik khas mahal will similarly expire on the 31st March 1896, and the new rates will come into force on the 1st April of that year.

2. The proposal of the local officers to commence resettlement operations in the cold weather of 1892-93 was sanctioned by Government in June 1892. Measurement work was commenced in the last week of November 1892, and was completed by the end of January 1893; the final report of the operations was submitted by the Deputy Commissioner in August 1893.

3. Under the joint raiyatwari system, the raiyats have nominally the right to hold their lands, but as a fact they are entirely at the mercy of the mandal who assumes the power to oust them at pleasure. The new settlement has therefore been made with each raiyat individually on the system adopted in the Kalimpong Government estate lying to the east of the river Tista. The mandal will now have to collect the revenue from the raiyats according to the rent-roll, and to remit it to the Government Tahsildar who manages the mahals. For this and other minor duties to be performed in accordance with the terms of his sanad, the mandal will receive 10 per cent. commission on the total collections made by him. He will no longer have the right to settle waste lands for his own benefit, and this should be made clear in the sanads to be issued to the mandals.

4. The total area of the 14 mahals, according to the recent measurement, is 15,033 acres against 14,694 acres according to the measurement made in 1882-83, the difference being due mainly to the recovery of lands which had been wrongly included in the adjoining tea gardens. The area comprised may be classified as follows:—

			Acres.
Cultivated and assessed.	Cardamum lands		132
	Other cultivated „		10,041
	Total cultivated and assessed ...		10,173	=11,078
Culturable ...	Uncultivated lands recently settled ...		905
	Similar lands remaining to be taken up ...		776
	Area set apart for grazing		1,382
	Ditto as fuel reserves		514
	Total culturable ...		3,577
Unculturable ..	Covered by roads		62
	Lands otherwise incapable of cultivation ...		1,221
	Total unculturable ...		1,283
	Grand Total ...		15,033

5. For purposes of assessment the mahals have been divided into three classes according to the quality of the predominating soil. The soil classed as first class is loose black earth which is fit for almost all crops and especially for Indian-corn; while soil of the second class is black earth mixed with red, and that of the third class is red earth which is said to be suitable for marwa and potato. For the settlement still current, three rates of rent were originally sanctioned, viz, twelve annas an acre for first class, nine annas for second class, and six annas for third class lands. But when these rates came to be applied, they were found to yield a disproportionately large increase in the revenue, and orders were passed reducing the assessment by making allowance for fallow lands in each mahal to the extent of one-fourth of the total cultivated area in the first class mahals, one-third in the second class mahals, and one-half in the third class mahals. The rates were thus virtually reduced to nine, six and three annas an acre respectively for the three classes of mahals. For the new settlement the rates originally sanctioned have been adopted without allowance being made for fallows. Cardamum land yields no crop for the first three years of cultivation, and has therefore to pay no rent for that time. In these mahals there are 132 acres of such land, and the rate sanctioned is Rs. 10 per acre from the fourth year of cultivation as in Kalimpong. The total rent on the 11,078 acres assessed was Rs. 7,693-12. But two of the mahals, viz. Hoomlingding and Mangwa, with a total jama of Rs. 2,270-5, are to be settled at half rates with Raja Tenduk Palgar of Kurmi from the 1st April 1894. Adding Rs. 127, the income to be derived from three plots of thatching grass, the total assessment under the new settlement will amount to Rs. 7,820-12 against Rs. 4,213 under the existing settlement. The net revenue payable to Government will be Rs. 6,079-5-6 as shown in the margin.

	Rs.	A.	P.
	7,820	12	0
Deduct column 17 of Appendix III ...	1,135	2	6
	6,685	9	6
Deduct—
(1) Mandal's commission (column 8, Appendix VIII)	549	8	0
(2) Concessions to certain mandals (column 16, Appendix III) ...	57	1	0
	6,079	5	6

6. The expenditure incurred in completing the operations amounts to Rs. 6,812-3-8, divided as follows:—

	Rs.	A.	P.
On measurement	3,532	7	3
On settlement	3,279	12	5
	6,812	3	8

The total area measured being 15,033 acres, the total cost per acre amounts to seven annas and three pies.

7. The total number of holdings is 2,486, comprising a total area of 11,078 acres, which includes 132 acres of cardamum land and 905 acres of uncultivated land recently settled. The average area of each holding is therefore about 5 acres; but, as the total number of households is 1,211, the average area held by each household is about 9 acres. With the exception of the lands, amounting to 123 acres, to be held rent-free by certain mandals for whom the ordinary commission would not be sufficient, there are no rent-free holdings in these mahals.

8. The Assistant Settlement Officer gives the following areas as approximately representing the areas under different crops:—

Crops.	Area in acres.
Bhutta or Indian-corn	6,859·85
Wheat	815 7
Mustard	302·16
Phaphar or buckwheat (Fagopyrum esculentum) ...	537·02
Marwa (Eleusine corocana)	1,372 31
Paddy	93 63
Potato	43·06
Tea	8·51
Peas	7·14
Orange trees	·56
Cardamum	132·2
	10,1 2·14

The total area under cultivation has thus increased by nearly 36 per cent. since the time of the last settlement, when only 7,508 acres were cultivated.

The estimated average outturn and net profit per acre of some of the crops grown are as follows:—

Outturn.	Profit per acre.
Bhutta (Indian-corn) from 3 to 8 maunds	From Rs. 2 to Rs. 12
Marwa (Eleusine corocana) ... „ 2 to 4 „	„ „ Nil to „ 5
Phaphar or buckwheat „ 2½ to 3½ „	„ „ 2-4 to „ 4-4
Wheat ... „ 1½ to 2½ „	„ „ 1-8 to „ 6-8
Mustard ... „ 1 to 1½ „	„ Annas 6 to „ 2-6
Paddy ... „ 4 to 6 „	„ Rs. 1-8 to „ 5-8

The greater part of the land is under Indian-corn which yields the highest profit. The condition of the raiyats is described as fair. Those who have large holdings are well off, while those with smaller holdings supplement their income by working as coolies on the adjoining tea gardens. The Bhutia tenants deal in pigs and make a little by trading at spare times. There can be no room for doubt that the raiyats of these khas mahals are well able to pay the moderate rents assessed.

9. The existing leases provide for the payment of rent in two instalments in June and December; but bhutta (Indian-corn) which is the staple product is harvested in August, and marwa, the next most important crop, in December, and in practice the raiyats generally pay in December. The Lieutenant-Governor approves therefore of the proposal of the Assistant Settlement Officer that, as sanctioned for Kalimpong, the 15th December should be fixed as the date by which the raiyats should pay in their rents, and the 15th January as the date on which the mandals should pay the Government revenue to the Tahsildar.

10. As regards the term of the settlement, the Commissioner is of opinion that on account of the considerable increase in the assessment, the settlement should be concluded for twenty years. Having regard to orders recently received from the Government of India, the Lieutenant-Governor is unable to accept this recommendation. His Honour is of opinion that the terms of the leases in the different mahals should be so fixed that they may all fall in on the 31st March 1906 A.D.

11. As regards the maintenance of the settlement records, the Settlement Officer proposes that, as in the Kalimpong Government estate, the Deputy Commissioner himself should correct the entries in the record on tour in November each year. As regards the Kalimpong estate, this system was sanctioned as a temporary measure, and has since been modified. The Lieutenant-Governor will await a further report embodying the views of the present Deputy Commissioner of Darjeeling and the recommendations of the Commissioner as to the most suitable system for adoption in the West Tista khas mahals:

12. The Lieutenant-Governor's acknowledgments are due to Mr. R. M. Waller, Settlement Officer, and Babu Bijoy Krishna Bose, Assistant Settlement Officer, who have effected this settlement in a thorough and satisfactory manner.

[The arrangements hereinafter described are subject to revision under the orders of the Secretary of State for India.]

1. The Royal Indian Engineering College is primarily maintained, under the orders of the Secretary of State for India in Council, for the education of candidates for the service of Government in the India Public Works, Telegraph, and Forest Departments; but it is open, to the extent of the accommodation available, to all persons desirous of following the course of study pursued in it.

India Forest Department Appointments.

2. The Examination usually takes place in June of each year.

3. The number of candidates to be selected annually varies according to the requirements of the Forest Service in India; the figures as regards each particular year will be advertised from time to time. In 1894 there will be six appointments offered for competition.*

4. Candidates for the Indian Forest Department are selected under the following arrangements:—

(a) An applicant must be a natural-born British subject, and must be above 17 and under 20 years of age on the 1st June of the year in which he competes for an appointment. He must be unmarried, and if he marries before reaching India he will forfeit his appointment.

(b) An applicant must send † to the Revenue Department of the India Office, on or before the 1st day of May of the year in which he proposes to compete,—

(1) His name and parentage, a certificate or other satisfactory evidence of the date of his birth, and the written consent of parent or guardian that his name should be recorded as a candidate.

(2) A statement of the places of education at which he may have been, accompanied by testimonials of good conduct, during the last four years.

(c) Applicants will have to appear before a Medical Board ‡ at the India Office, particular stress being laid upon good vision and hearing. A physical test will also be imposed, so as to ensure the selection of persons of active habits and powers of endurance.

(d) The applicants who have successfully passed the medical examination and the physical test will be required to undergo an examination before the Civil Service Commissioners § in the following subjects ‖ (Classes I to III), marks being assigned as follows:—

	Marks.
Class I.—Obligatory Subjects.¶
1. Mathematics (lower), viz., Algebra up to and including the Binomial Theorem; the theory and the use of logarithms; Euclid, Books I to IV and VI.; Plane Trigonometry up to and including the solution of Triangles and Mensuration	2,500	In each of these subjects a candidate must obtain not less than one-third of full marks in order to qualify.
2. English composition	1,000
3. German (400 for colloquial)	2,000

* Probably the number of appointments will not exceed six annually, for some years to come.

† There is no form of application; the documents specified in clauses (1) and (2) should be enclosed in a covering letter addressed to the Secretary, Revenue Department, India Office, London.

‡ With a view to prevent parents and guardians from incurring the inconvenience and expense of preparing candidates who may be physically unfit for the Forest Service, it is suggested that, before any such preparation is begun, candidates be submitted to examination by the medical adviser of the family, or any other qualified medical practitioner, with regard to the following points:—

1. A week constitution.
2. Defective vision.
3. Impaired hearing.
4. The existence of any congenital defect.

It is to be understood that this private examination is merely suggested to lessen the chances of disappointment, and that it is by no means intended to take the place of, or to influence in any way, the official examination.

On the subject of the standard of eyesight required for the Indian services, a pamphlet has been published, under the authority of the Secretary of State in Council, by Messrs Churchill and Sons, 11, New Burlington Street.

§ A fee of 4*l.* is required which can be paid by means of a stamp of that amount. Instructions on this point will be issued to candidates the day before the examination.

‖ Reprints of the papers set at previous examinations, together with tables of the marks assigned to the candidates, are published by the Civil Service Commissioners, and can be obtained through any bookseller. The price of each reprint is one shilling.

¶ Attention is invited to the appended Syllabus, giving further details regarding the extent and character of the examination.

CLASS II.—OPTIONAL SUBJECTS *

CLASS III.—ADDITIONAL SUBJECTS.

13.	Freehand Drawing	500	Either or both of these subjects may be taken in addition to the obligatory and the two optional subjects.
14.	Geometrical Drawing	300

(e) From the competitors who attain the above-mentioned minima of marks in obligatory subjects, and satisfy the requisite conditions in other respects, the Secretary of State will select candidates, in order of merit, as probationers to enter the College, where they will be further trained for the Forest Service of India.

(f) If the full number of competent probationers required in any year cannot be obtained from the persons so examined, the Secretary of State reserves a discretion to fill up the deficiency by selecting any other person or persons who may satisfy the authorities of the College that he or they are properly qualified to become probationers for the Forest Service.

5. The course of study for candidates for the India Forest Service extends over about three years, divided into nine terms. During eight terms the candidates will prosecute their studies mainly at the College, and during one term (the sixth), which may last for four or five months, they will visit, under suitable supervision, such Continental forests as may be selected for the purpose. Excursions will also be made for purposes of instruction, both during term time and during part of the vacations. The cost of all such tours or excursions is borne by the Secretary of State (see paragraph 9).

6. Each annual session begins in September, and is divided into three terms, with vacations of about four weeks at Christmas, two weeks at Easter, and eight weeks in the summer, except at the end of the visit to the Continent when the vacation will be shorter.

7. A charge of 61*l.* is made for each term except the sixth; for that term the charge is 90*l.* for each student, the duration of the term being longer and the cost of students in the Continental forests being higher than for any other term: the amounts must be paid terminally in advance to the Bank of England. Receivable orders, with full directions as to the mode of payment, will be forwarded from the India Office to the parents or guardians shortly before the fees fall due. A student will not be allowed to come into residence until his fee has been paid.

8. A deposit of 5*l.* is required to be paid by each student on admission to the College, as caution money, to cover charges incurred by him for damage to books, instruments, etc., or any College bills outstanding on leaving the College. Any balance over and above such charges will be repaid. This deposit is to be paid with the fee for the first term, making the total payment on that occasion 66*l.*

9. The foregoing payments cover all charges for tuition, board according to the College tariff, lodging, with washing up to a cost of 2*s.* a week, and ordinary medical attendance while in residence at the College. When students are on tour and during the course of practical instruction, whether in Great Britain or on the Continent, the Secretary of State will defray the expenses of (1) board, lodging, and washing (the maximum expenditure on such account being 10*s.* per diem), (2) travelling expenses, and (3) fees to local Forest officers, etc.

Students are required to provide their own class books and drawing instruments. Drawing paper, drawing boards, and surveying instruments are provided by the College.

* Attention is invited to the appended Syllabus, giving further details regarding the extent and character of the examination.

10. The prescribed course of study at present comprises the following subjects: —

I.—Auxiliary Subjects.

1. Geometrical Drawing.
2. Freehand Drawing.
3. Surveying.
4. Forest Engineering.
5. Accounts.
6. German.
7. Mechanics.
8. Physics.
9. Chemistry.
10. Geology and Mineralogy.
11. Entomology.
12. Botany.
13. Drill and Gymnastics.

II.—Forestry, Theoretical and practical, in all its branches.

11. Every student is required to conform to the College rules, to exhibit due diligence in his studies throughout the course, and to give evidence of satisfactory progress in such manner as may be required, failing which, or in the event of serious misconduct, he will be liable to be removed from the College, or to be sent back from the forest tour, which may entail the loss of his appointment.

12. During the course of study, the proficiency of the students will be tested by periodical examinations, and on the termination of their studies there will be a final examination. Each student may also, at the discretion of the Secretary of State for India, be required to appear before the Medical Board at the expiration of the first year of residence at the College, and should the result be unsatisfactory he cannot claim to be allowed to complete the course.

13. The subjects enumerated in paragraph 10 are grouped in certain main branches of study,* and a fixed minimum of qualification is required in each branch and in the subjects taught during the forest tours, as well as a certain minimum for all branches taken together. Students who obtain these minima will receive the College diploma in forestry.

14. Candidates who have obtained this diploma and are found to be of sound constitution and free from physical defects which would render them unsuitable for employment in the Forest Department (the final decision on which points will rest with the Secretary of State for India), will be appointed Assistant Conservators in the Forest Department of India in the order of their standing at the end of the final examination. They will be allowed before leaving the College to state their preference in respect to the Provinces to which they desire to be allotted; but the distribution will be made at the discretion of the Secretary of State for India, after consulting the President of the College and the Principal Professor of Forestry, to the several Provinces according to the needs of the public service. The distribution will be made on the understanding that officers are at all times liable to be transferred from one province to another at the pleasure of the Government of India.

15. Within a month of his nomination as Assistant Conservator, each nominee must sign articles of agreement describing the terms and conditions of his appointment; he must embark for India when required to do so by the Secretary of State, and will be provided with a free passage. Failure to embark at the stated time will, in the absence of satisfactory explanation, lead to forfeiture of appointment.

16. The pay of an Assistant Conservator of Forests will begin from the date of arrival in India. Probationers who acquit themselves creditably during their course at Cooper's Hill College will begin on a salary of ₹350 a month. It will, however, rest with the President of the College, in consultation with the Principal Professor of Forestry, to decide whether any of the probationers, though they have obtained the College diploma in Forestry, have failed to deserve that rate of initial salary. Such probationers, if any, will begin on a salary of ₹250 a month; and this difference of salary will continue until the first departmental examination is passed in India.

17. Promotion, leave, and pension will be regulated by the rules of the service for the time being. The more favourable pension rules have recently been extended to Forest officers appointed from England, who are thus placed on an equality with Public Works officers appointed from Cooper's Hill College. Any Forest officer, who has rendered not less than three years' approved service at head of his department, has also been made eligible for an extra pension of ₹1,000 per annum. A copy of the Regulations relative to these matters can be seen on application either at the Library or the Record Department of the India Office; the principal rules, however, are contained in the Abstract of the Civil Service Regulations, as given in the "India Office List," or the "India List," published respectively by Messrs. Harrison and Sons, 59, Pall Mall, and Messrs. W. H. Allen and Co., 13, Waterloo Place, S. W., either of which can be procured through any bookseller.

* For details see Royal Indian Engineering College Calendar.

18. Every candidate, before proceeding to India, will be required to furnish to the President of the College satisfactory evidence of his competency in riding.

General Rules.

19. Chemical, physical, and botanical laboratories, a forestry museum, a forest nursery, a library, and gymnasium are attached to the College. Means are also provided for the practice of photography. Students making use of the laboratories are supplied with the needful apparatus.

20. The responsibility for the discipline and management of the College and for the superintendence of the studies is vested in the President, under the control of the Secretary of State for India.

21. The students are distributed in divisions, under personal charge of one of the Professors or Instructors selected by the President; such tutor being responsible for exercising the proper degree of personal supervision over each student in his division, and for conducting necessary correspondence with the student's parents or guardians.

22. Each student residing in the College is provided with a separate room, and with fuel and light, also with the necessary attendance. Furniture and bedding are supplied by the College, but students are required to provide their own towels and bed linen. Meals are taken in hall. Wine and beer are not included in the ordinary fare, but can be obtained from the College cellar at fixed prices.

23. A chapel is attached to the College, which the students residing in the College are expected to attend, unless specially exempted.

24. Every student will be required to go through a course of gymnastics and also of military exercises, including the use of the rifle.

25. Students are required to wear academical dress, under such regulations as may be prescribed from time to time.

Students not nominated for the Indian Forest Service, but desirous of obtaining a Diploma in Forestry from Cooper's Hill College.

26. Students not nominated for the Indian Forest Service may be received into the College, as far as the available accommodation permits. Such students may pass through the course of instruction prescribed for the nominees of the Indian Forest Service, as detailed above, or they may be permitted to participate in the instruction given in certain subjects only. On attaining the prescribed minima of marks in the several branches of study and in totals as laid down above, they will receive, as the case may require, either the College diploma in Forestry or special certificates showing in what subjects they have followed the instruction, and with what result.

27. Candidates who desire to be admitted under paragraph 26 may submit the necessary application at any time, but not later than the 15th day of June of the year named for admission, except with the special permission of the President. The application must be made on the prescribed forms, which can be obtained from the Secretary of the College.

28. Candidates whose applications are found satisfactory as to character and in other respects will be required to undergo an examination, to be held at the College, about the last week in June of the year for admission. The object of the examination will be to ascertain whether the candidate is qualified to follow the course of instruction with advantage (or certain parts of it, as the case may be). Candidates who do not come up to the required standard will not be admitted to the College.

The President may dispense with the whole or any portion of this examination in the case of a candidate who produces an University diploma, or other similar certificate granted by a recognized examining body.

29. Candidates admitted to the College under paragraph 26, who propose to pass through the full prescribed course of study, will be required to pay the same fees in every respect as those paid by the nominees for the Indian Forest Service. Candidates who do not become resident, and are admitted only to certain subjects of study, will be required to pay the fees which may be fixed in each special case in consideration of the extent of their studies. The candidates of both classes will be required to abide by the general rules of the College.

FOREST EXAMINATION.

SYLLABUS

Showing the extent and character of the Forest Examination.

In a letter addressed to the Civil Service Commissioners on the subject of the examinations for admission into the Royal Military Academy, Woolwich, and the Royal Military College, Sandhurst, the Director General of Military Education observes:—"The main object to be borne in mind with reference to the Entrance Examination is to secure a youth who has had a thoroughly well-grounded liberal education as an English gentleman. Any curriculum which renders those who are unsuccessful unfit for other professions is greatly to be deprecated." The Regulations for the Forest Examination, which follow the lines of the Sandhurst Examination, are intended to provide a test that the candidates have received such an education as is indicated in these words. By these Regulations certain of the subjects specified are prescribed as obligatory for all competors, while, in the choice of the subjects described as optional, allowance is made for varieties of taste and inclination in each candidate. In view of the influence which the Regulations must necessarily exercise on the education of candidates for admission to the public service, the Civil Service Commissioners deem it expedient to specify, with more fulness than in the Regulations themselves, the character of the examination which the candidates will be called upon to undorgo.

CLASS I.

(OBLIGATORY SUBJECTS.)

Mathematics.—The extent of the examination will be as defined in the Regulations.

English Composition.—An Essay to be written on one of several subjects specified by the Civil Service Commissioners on their Examination Paper.

German.—There will be translations of unseen passages from German into English, and from English into German; the knowledge of pronunciation will be tested by dictation and the vivâ voce examination. The passages for translation will be taken mainly from standard authors (Schiller, Lessing, Alexander v. Humboldt, Ranke, etc.); and a few simple questions may be asked on the passages set, as to the structure and character of the language, and allusions of obvious and general interest.

CLASS II.

(OPTIONAL SUBJECTS.)

Higher Mathematics.—The extent of the examination will be as defined in the Regulations.

Latin.—Passages will be set for translation into English selected from the authors usually read in schools. Passages from English authors will be given for translation into Latin prose and verse, but candidates will be allowed, in the place of verse composition, to answer questions of a simple character, which will test whether they possess a fundamental knowledge of the grammar of the language, and such an elementary acquaintance with Roman History as is required for the intelligent study of the books they have read.

Greek.—Passages will set for translation into English from the authors usually read in schools, and in other respects the examination will proceed on the same lines as in Latin.

French.—The passages for translation will be taken from standard authors (Corneille, Madame de Sévigné, Guizot, Taine, etc.), and in other respects the examination will proceed on the same lines as in German.

English History.—The General Paper in this subject will test whether the candidates are accurately acquainted with the facts of English History, and also possess an intelligent knowledge of the meaning of the facts. The paper on the fixed period will, of course, require from the candidates more minute knowledge than the General Paper.

Botany, Chemistry, Physics, Physical Geography, and Geology.—The standard of examination in these subjects will be such as may be reasonably expected from the education given at schools possessing appliances for practical instruction, such as a laboratory, etc. A considerable portion of the marks will be allotted for the proficiency shown in the practical part of the examination.

GENERAL.

Handwriting.—In estimating the papers of candidates, a limited number of marks, namely, 100 out of the maximum allotted to each subject, is assigned for handwriting.

SILK EXPERIMENTS AT ALIPORE.

The following correspondence is published for general information

C. E. BUCKLAND,

Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

No. 1156Agri, dated Calcutta, the 5th March 1894.

From—C. E. BUCKLAND Esq, Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal, Revenue Dept.,
To—R. A LYALL, Esq, on behalf of the Silk Committee.

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 468, dated the 26th February 1894, with enclosure, stating that Rao Jogendra Narayan Roy of Lalgola, in the district of Murshidabad, has contributed Rs. 1,200 in addition to a similar donation which he made last year in aid of the silk experiments which are now being carried on at Alipore in the 24-Parganas, and suggesting that his liberality should be acknowledged by Government in a suitable way.

2. In reply, I am to request the Silk Committee to be so good as to convey to Rao Jogendra Narayan Roy the thanks of the Lieutenant-Governor for his liberal contributions for the encouragement of the silk industry. I am to add that the correspondence on the subject will be published in the next issue of the Calcutta Gazette.

No. 468, dated Calcutta, the 26th February 1894.

From—R. A. LYALL, Esq., on behalf of the Silk Committee,
To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal. Revenue Department.

WITH reference to the Silk Committee's letter to you, dated 5th June 1893, No. 1634 (copy of which I enclose for convenience of reference), I have been requested by the Committee to inform you that Rao Jogendra Narayan Roy of Lalgola, Murshidabad, has again forwarded to them a donation of Rs. 1,200 towards the silk experiments now being carried on at Alipore.

This further instance of liberality on the part of the Rao may, the Committee venture to hope, be considered worthy of some notice on the part of Government, the more so, that his action is entirely voluntary. The Committee did not even know the name of the Rao when his first donation was forwarded.

No. 1634, dated Calcutta, the 5th June 1893.

From—The Members of the Silk Committee,
To— The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Revenue Department.

ON behalf of the Silk Committee, we beg to bring to the notice of Government the very liberal action of Rao Jogendra Narayan Ray of Lalgola, Murshidabad.

This gentleman having, we presume, heard of the efforts of the Silk Committee to improve the breed of cocoons in Bengal, voluntarily presented the Committee with Rs. 1,200 last year, and has promised a simi'ar donation in the current year.

It is very encouraging to find that the great importance of the possible results of the Silk Committee's work is realised by the abovenamed gentleman. We believe that few do realise what an incalculable benefit to the population of the silk districts, and to the silk trade of Bengal, the result of the experiments now being made would be, if brought to a successful issue, and the Committee therefore think it right to bring to the notice of Government this instance of intelligent liberality on the part of Rao Jogendra Narayan Roy.

Explanation.—... indicates that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received, the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are missing, the corresponding spaces in the total rainfall columns are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days, the definition of a rainy day is when at least 0·5 inch of rain has fallen.

CALCUTTA, the 6th March 1894.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M., SATURDAY, THE 3RD OF MARCH 1894.

Abnormal meteorological conditions obtained over the province at the close of the previous week, and rather numerous local storms with rain were reported in many districts on the morning of the 24th of February, or the last day of the previous week. On the 25th pressure fell considerably over parts of Central Bengal, Bihar and Chota Nagpur, and a decided depression was formed over that area where pressure was below the normal by nearly a tenth of an inch. Hence winds became southerly over a large part of the province, and high temperature and humidity prevailed. Rather disturbed weather existed in and near the hills of North Bengal, in East Bengal, and in Assam, and fairly heavy rain fell over these areas during local storms. On the 26th the low pressure area had advanced in an easterly direction and stretched between Saugor Island and Purnea. Weather on this day in Bengal was rather less disturbed than it had been, and only a few light showers were reported, principally in North Bengal and Assam. In other respects conditions were unchanged. On the 27th the low pressure area still existed over Bengal, weather became rather more generally disturbed, and local storms with rain were rather numerous. On the 28th these conditions remained practically unchanged, pressure being decidedly low, and southerly winds blowing over the province, giving decidedly disturbed weather and numerous local storms with rain. On the 1st of March pressure had given way rapidly in Bengal, the fall equalling in some cases about a seventh of an inch, and a very influential barometric depression was formed over the western half of the province, while the differences of pressure over the Bay became considerable. Local storms with rain were therefore again numerous, and rather strong southerly winds were blowing at the head of the Bay. On the 2nd of March a further fall of pressure took place over the greater part of Bengal, and the depression moved somewhat in an easterly direction, and at some stations pressure was a fifth of an inch below the normal. Again local storms with rain were numerous, and in some cases they were severe, and Barisal reported 3·55 inches during a thunderstorm with hail. Madaripur in the Faridpur district also registered 4·70 inches of rain, Gournadi (Backergunge district) 3·48 inches, Ramganj (Noakhali district) 4·65 inches, Mirsarai (Chittagong district) 5·82 inches, and Rangamati 3·72 inches. On the 3rd March a rather brisk fall of pressure had again occurred in Bengal, and pressure became in defect by amounts ranging up to 0·255 inch at Malda. Disturbed conditions therefore continued, and several heavy falls of rain accompanying local storms were reported, Rangamatia receiving the very heavy fall of 7·52 inches. With this pressure distribution also strong southerly winds were blowing over the province from the Bay, bringing up much moisture, while temperature was also generally in excess by about 3°.

Practically, therefore, throughout the week conditions have been disturbed and unsettled, and rather numerous local storms with rain have occurred in all districts, the falls being decidedly heavy in East Bengal.

Pressure—Has been extremely low practically throughout the week, and the general defect has equalled from 0·11 inch to about 0·14 inch, and this defect has been fairly equally distributed in all districts.

Temperature.—The mean temperature of the whole province for the past week has been 1·1° above the normal, but this excess has been unequally distributed, and excess amounts of two to two and a half degrees have been registered in South-West Bengal and Orissa, and very small excess amounts only in East and North Bengal.

The actual temperatures registered during the week, and their variations from the normal temperature for the present season, are most clearly seen in the table below, where the average maximum, minimum and mean temperatures for the week at nine typical stations in the Province are compared with the normal values for the same period. The day or maximum readings for the week have indeed shown a slightly lower temperature than usual, and the defect at the nine stations in the maximum or day temperature has equalled 1·6°, while in the night or minimum temperature the excess has averaged 1·4° only :—

Rainfall.—The heavy average rainfall of 2·95 inches has been registered in East Bengal during the week, which is six times the usual amount for the period. North Bengal has also received 0·34 inch, or nearly three times as much as usual On the other hand, in South-West Bengal, Bihar and Orissa the falls have only averaged a tenth of an inch, and in Chota Nagpur the fall has been only 0·04 inch.

The results of observations at the Alipore Observatory are not rigorously comparable with the registers of past years (at the Park Street Observatory). The barometer is about 8 feet higher at Alipore, and, other things being equal, reads therefore ·003 lower. The diurnal range of temperature is also greater at Alipore, and the mean temperature apparently about 2·1 lower; and, finally, the thermometer which furnished the record of temperature at the Surveyor-General's Office during 20 years and upwards is found to read 0·6 higher than the Kew standard thermometer, which is the standard of reference at the present Observatory.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

4. If the qualifications of the candidate are satisfactory to the Court, his name shall be entered in a register as eligible for admission to the Subordinate Judicial Service, but priority of entry in the register shall confer no right of priority of appointment. A candidate's name shall be removed from the register in the event of failing to obtain a gazetted appointment under section 7 of Act XII of 1887 before attaining the age of 26 years.

5. At the time a registered candidate is appointed permanently to the service, he shall ordinarily be required to submit a fresh health certificate signed by a Presidency Surgeon or a Civil Surgeon.

WATER-RATE RULES FOR THE EDEN CANAL.

The 12th February 1894.

No. 51.—Notification.—With reference to Notification No. 447, dated the 27th December 1881, which was published in the Calcutta Gazette of the 28th December 1881, at page 1122, and in accordance with the provisions of section 99 of Act III (B.C.) of 1876, the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor proposes to pass the following rules and to fix the undermentioned rates to be charged for water supplied from the Eden Canal:—

1. A map showing the area commanded, i.e., the area from which applications will be accepted, will be kept in the Collectors' offices. Copies separately for Hooghly and Burdwan will be sold to the public at Re. 1-8 a copy.

2. Existing lease-holders may, provided the land covered by the lease is situated within the area commanded, exchange their leases for leases under new conditions; if beyond the area commanded, they may have their leases cancelled if they so wish; but no fresh lease will be granted. In either case the change will take effect from the 1st of April 1894, and a formal application in writing, signed by all the persons who have signed the original lease, must be presented to the Canal Officer before the 1st June 1894.

3. The area under long lease will be limited to 50,000 acres, of which 32,000 acres will be in the Burdwan and 18,000 acres in the Hooghly district. Long leases will, in all cases, commence from the 1st June in any year, and extend for seven years.

4. Leases for one season will be granted for any lands within the area commanded but long lease-holders will have a prior right to the water and season lease-holders will not be supplied until the area under long lease has first been watered.

5. No leases will be accepted for lands situated beyond the area commanded, but if water is available, single waterings may be granted.

6. The rates to be charged will be as follows:—

	Per bigha. Rs.	A.	P.
I.—Long leases entered into before the 1st October 1895, per season ...	0	4	0
II.—Long leases entered into after the 1st January 1896, per season ...	0	5	0

Sums due under rule 6—III	...	When the lease is executed.
Leases under rule 6—IV ...	...	The 31st of January.
Ditto 6—V ...	...	When the lease is executed.
Ditto 6—VI ...	...	Ditto ditto.
Charges under rule 6—VII	...	When the order authorizing the assessment is passed.

8. The areas to be charged will, as far as practicable, be determined when the lease is executed, but lands irrigated beyond the boundaries of the lease will be measured and charged at the rates mentioned in the lease. The application must be for such an area as will probably be irrigated with existing appliances, and no lease will be accepted where it may be reasonably anticipated that lands beyond the boundaries specified will necessarily or probably be irrigated. Ordinarily the measurements taken in the year in which the lease is executed will be accepted for the remainder of the term, but in special cases the Divisional Canal Officer may by a written order authorize a re-measurement.

9. The Divisional Canal Officer may, under special circumstances for the convenience of the canal administration, sanction a long lease for a term of five instead of seven years.

10. In the case of long or season leases, the minimum area chargeable will be that specified in the lease independently of water being or not being required and utilized.

11. Leases under rule 6, I, II, III, IV and V, will only be entered into with (I) the zamindar or subordinate proprietor of the village, or (II) with a body of cultivators not exceeding six in number, who will agree to represent the cultivators, and who will be jointly and severally responsible for the payment of the water-rates due under the lease. The persons who sign the lease will be entitled to a deduction of 12½ per cent. on all payments made within one month of the water-rates becoming due. If the lessee is not the zamindar or talukdar, a moiety of the amount due for the first year will be payable in advance. Leases under rule 6, VI, will be entered into with representatives of the actual cultivators.

12. No cross dams other than those the erection of which has been sanctioned as a permanent arrangement will be allowed without the written order of the Divisional Canal Officer issued with the written approval of the Collector. Every cross dam must be provided with a suitable and efficient escape, so that the flow of the water in the channel may not be interfered with.

13. The Canal Officer will not interfere with the fishery rights hitherto exercised by the proprietors of the river beds. Nets not fixed to stakes which do not stop or interfere with the flow of the water may be used at the discretion of the persons interested, but cross dams will only be allowed under the provisions of rule 12.

1. In Notification No. 110 of the 9th August 1880, issued under the provisions of Act III of 1876, Government reserved to itself the rights of property in the water of the river channels known as the Daha, the Dhanai, the Gandaki and the Gangri and their appendant tributaries.

2. The revenue administration of the Saran Canals is vested in the Superintending Engineer of the Sone Circle. The Executive Engineer of the Gandak is, as canal officer under the Irrigation Act [Act III (B.C.) of 1876, charged with the proper maintenance and management of the canals, and with the control of the supply of water on them. All orders passed by him or by the Subdivisional Canal Officer are under the terms of that Act subject to correction on appeal to the Collector of Saran.

3 Any person who constructs bunds in the canals, who interferes with the supply of water in them, or who takes water from them without the written permission of a duly authorised person will render himself liable to the penalties defined in the Irrigation Act.

4. Water will be admitted to any one of the four canals Nos. III, IV, V and VI at any time during the year, when it may be possible to admit it as soon as possible after a lease has been granted under the following rules. The canal officer will regulate the water passing into and along any canal to the best of his ability to suit the requirements of the lessee. But the volume which can be admitted to any of the canals depends on the season of the year, the level of the River Gandak, the construction of certain bunds, and on the length of notice of his requirements which may be given by the lessee. No guarantee can be given either as to the volume or duration of the supply, or of the delivery of any quantity of water at any particular point of any canal.

5. At least three weeks' notice must be given by a lessee if water is required at any time between November and June. The lessee must give notice to the Subdivisional Canal Officer in writing whenever he requires water to be admitted to, or any increase or decrease in the supply of, the canal of which he has the lease.

6. Leases will be granted for the year 1894-95 for any one of the four canals to any person, approved by the Canal Officer, who has a beneficial interest in the use of the water. The charge for the use, during the whole year, or any part of it, of each of th canals will be—

The water-rate must, in each case, be paid in full into the Government Treasury, either at Gopalganj or Chapra before a lease will be granted, or before water will be admitted into a canal. An application for a lease for the year 1894-95 must be made in the form of Appendix I.

7. Leases will be granted for a period of three years ending on the 31st March 1897 to any person approved by the Canal Officer, who has a beneficial interest in the use of the water.

The charge for the use, during the period of three years of each of the canals will be—

Water will not be admitted into any canal during any particular year until the water-rate of that year has been paid in full into the Government Treasury, either at Gopalganj or Chapra. An application for a lease for a term of three years must be made in the form of Appendix II.

8. The lessee of a canal will be entitled during the currency of his lease—

(i) To the exclusive use, either for irrigation or for the manufacture of indigo, or for any other purpose of the entire supply of water which may be passed into the canal.

9. The lessee of any canal shall grant a written permit to any person to whom he may have sold water under Rule 8 (ii) or (iii), and shall send a copy of the permit to the Subdivisional Canal Officer. The Canal Officer will endeavour to stop the unauthorized use of water by persons who do not hold these permits as far as it may be possible to do so when the lessee applies to him in writing to do so.

10. The lessee must conclude his own agreements with persons to whom he may sell water either for manufacture of indigo or irrigation, and must himself enforce those agreements.

In cases where lands have been irrigated without application and water-rates have been imposed by the Canal Officer under section 79 of Act III (B.C.) of 1876, the water-rates may, at the request of the Canal Officer, be recovered by the Collector under the Public Demands Recovery Act.

11. If two or more persons desire to be joint lessees of the same canal, they may submit a joint application in the form of Appendix No. II, and shall appoint one of their number to be the chief lessee; he shall communicate with the Canal Officer on all points connected with the supply of water and with its distribution among the other lessees.

12. If two or more of the four channels are leased at the same time, and there is any difficulty in supplying the full quantity of water required by the lessees, the Canal Officer will endeavour to divide the available supply as fairly as possible between the lessees in proportion to the sums paid by them for the leases of the respective channels.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE MONTH OF FEBRUARY 1894.

THE most important features in the meteorology of Bengal and Assam in February have been :—

1. The mean pressure for the month has been in very slight excess of the normal except perhaps at two or three stations in South-East Bengal. In the great majority of cases the excess has been small, varying between 0·01″ and 0·02″, and it appears to have been fairly equally distributed over the provinces of Bengal and Assam. So far, however, as can be judged from the readings of Darjeeling, it would appear that the excess pressure has been largest in the upper strata of the atmosphere, for at that station the excess has equalled 0·058″.

2. Temperature has been in excess of the normal practically throughout the month, and the average mean temperature for the period has been in excess by from about 4° in the North and North-East of Bengal and in the neighbouring parts of Assam to about 1° to 2° in South Bengal and Orissa. In the east of Assam the excess has equalled rather less than 3°. For the whole of Bengal the excess has averaged 3·1°, while in Assam the excess has been 3·5°.

3. Humidity has on the whole been very decidedly larger than usual, for excess amounts (ranging up to 25 per cent. of saturation more than usual at Gaya) have been registered at more than three-fourths of the stations in Bengal and Assam. Indeed, in Assam every station reports humidity higher than usual. The few stations which report slightly defective humidities are in Orissa and parts of South-West Bengal.

4. Cloud proportion has been higher than usual at practically all stations, and the excess over certain districts of Bihar, Chota Nagpur and East Bengal has been large.

5. The prevalent wind direction has been westerly in the west of the province, north-westerly in the central and southern portions, and northerly and north-easterly at the eastern stations. In Assam winds have been variable, as a general north-easterly wind has been reported at Sibsagar and a south-westerly wind at Silchar.

6. The number of barometric depressions coming from Western and North-Western India and affecting Bengal in February has been small, and those which have occurred have been of comparatively little importance. A feeble depression affected the province and gave rain in Bihar and North Bengal on the 2nd and 3rd. A second depression coming from Western India affected Bengal on the 8th, 9th and 10th, and again gave moderate rain in Bihar. Later on a feeble low-pressure area was formed over Bengal, and conditions became disturbed, and during the week ending the 24th rather numerous local storms occurred, most of them of the ordinary hot-weather type, which gave light to moderate rain over the greater part of the province of Bengal (except Orissa) and also in Assam. These disturbed conditions continued in East and North Bengal, and in parts of Chota Nagpur till the close of the month, but in other districts the disturbances ceased from about the 24th.

7. Owing to the disturbances being smaller in number and less influential than usual, rainfall has been smaller than the normal in all divisions of Bengal except Bihar and Chota Nagpur. The average falls have indeed in all cases been less than an inch, and in Orissa and South-West Bengal they have been particularly defective.

Meteorology of the month.—At the close of January weather was of ordinary north-east monsoon character over Bengal, but on February 1st a feeble form of barometric disturbance was advancing across Central India in an easterly direction, and on the 2nd light showers began to be reported in Bihar. On the 3rd the disturbance had apparently moved again in an easterly direction and rain extended from Bihar to North Bengal, while at Gnatong a rather heavy snow-storm was reported. In the rear of the disturbance, however, pressure rose rapidly, and weather again became fine and settled for some days, while temperature generally fell rather rapidly.

On the 6th weather continued settled in Bengal and temperature was still falling, but over Western and North-Western India conditions had become decidedly unsettled, and a shallow storm was shown over the Western Desert, Guzerat and the North Konkan. On the 7th this barometric depression had drifted slowly in an easterly direction, and the centre was near Khandeish. Pressure, however, was rising in Bengal, but the effect of the advancing depression was shown in the rather rapid increase of temperature, which was reported on this day, and at several of the western stations the mean temperature was 5° and 6° higher than the normal. On the 8th the shallow depression had filled up to a considerable extent, and had again moved in an easterly direction, and was lying over the west of the Central Provinces. It was, however, sufficiently near to affect Bengal considerably, and numerous rain showers were reported in Bihar on the morning of the 8th, while temperature had again risen rapidly the increase in the mean temperature at several stations equalling about 5°. Owing to the filling up of the depression, however, pressure was increasing in Bengal on this day. On the 9th the depression had apparently again advanced in an easterly direction, but it was very slight and scarcely traceable. The pressure changes in Bengal were irregular, while temperature had again risen except at some of the western stations, and had become above the normal by about 5° over a large part of the Province. Rain was again reported over a considerable part of Bihar on the morning of the 9th, showing the continued influence of the depression. On the 10th the depression was over Bengal, and at many stations in the centre and north-east of the Province a fall of pressure exceeding a tenth of an inch was reported, but the wind system was very little influenced by the depression, and the position of its centre can scarcely be stated. Temperature continued unusually high in connection with the depression, and was from about 4° to 8° in excess. A few showers were also reported from Bihar on this day.

From the 11th the depression had entirely passed away from Bengal and a period of fine settled weather commenced, which lasted only up till the 17th, when owing to a continued fall of pressure, an area of comparatively low pressure almost amounting to a feeble barometric depression, existed over all districts of Bengal except Bihar and Chota Nagpur. With this pressure distribution winds became southerly over the southern half of the Province, bringing up much moisture and causing temperature to become very largely above the normal. On the 18th the feeble depression had slightly intensified and had moved in an easterly direction, and for several days pressure conditions were very unusual. Accompanying this depression a period of disturbance set in which continued for several days, and in most districts from about the 18th to the 24th and up till the close of the month in East and North Bengal, local storms with rain were numerous. Hence during the last ten days of the month weather was more of hot-season type with moist southerly winds, nor' westers, and high temperature, etc., in many districts, rather than of ordinary north-east monsoon type.

Pressure.—The mean pressure for the month has varied from 30·027 inches at Sibsagar and about 30 inches in the west of Bihar to 29·97 inches in Orissa, so that the differences of pressure have been slight only. Pressure for the month has been above the normal by from about 0·01 inch to 0·02 inch at the great majority of stations, but very slightly defective pressures have been registered at Dacca, Burrisal and Noakhali. The largest excess has been 0·058 inch at Darjeeling, pointing probably to the fact that the excess pressure has been to a great extent confined to the upper layers of the temperature.

Temperature.—The mean for the month in Bengal and Assam has been between 3° and 3·5° above the normal for the period. The major part of this excess has been experienced in the night, or minimum, temperatures, which have been in excess by from nearly 7° at Motihari to about 1° to 2° in the extreme south of Bengal. In the maximum, or day, temperature the excess has varied from between 1° and 2° in South Bengal and over a large part of Bihar to about 3° in the centre and north-east of the province.

The following table shows the variation of the average maximum, minimum and mean temperature, week by week, during February at nine typical stations in the Province from the normal values for the same period, and in this table the unusually large excess in the night temperature will again be seen:—

Rainfall.—The average falls in the different divisions have been small. East Bengal, Chota Nagpur, Bihar and South-West Bengal have received falls between half and one inch, North Bengal about a third of an inch, and Orissa only about a sixth of an inch. The falls in Chota Nagpur and Bihar have been heavier than usual in February, and those in East Bengal only slightly below the normal. In North Bengal the defect has been large, and in South-West Bengal and Orissa very large.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the month of February 1894:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

* Mean of 4 days. | † Mean of 6 days. | ‡ Mean of 8 days.

Explanation.—Summary—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical average or means of the reading during the same period for the stations in the district sending in returns divided by the number of stations. A rainy day is one of which at least a tenth of an inch fell.

The humidity of the atmosphere is expressed at percentage, saturated air being represented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. The means are the numerical means or average of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the subdivisional stations for the period in question for the week ending Saturday, the 10th of March 1894.

Explanation.—... indicates that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are wanting, the corresponding spaces in the total rainfall columns are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days, the definition of a rainy day is when at least 1·0 inch of rain has fallen.

CALCUTTA, the 13*th March* 1894.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M., SATURDAY, THE 10TH OF MARCH 1894.

DURING almost the whole of the previous week conditions had been rather disturbed in Bengal, and numerous local storms had occurred. On the 4th instant, or the first day of the week under review, pressure was rising slowly over the province, the rise being rather brisk at the northern and north-eastern stations, and though pressure was still largely in defect, conditions became somewhat more settled, and only a few local storms were reported in East Bengal. On the 5th pressure fell briskly, particularly in South-West Bengal and Orissa, and the depression over Bengal increased in depth, the defect at many stations exceeding 0·25″. A few local storms were again reported on the 5th, but on the 6th they had become decidedly more numerous, and had extended over a large part of South-West Bengal, where pressure had risen on this date, though it was still falling in the north and east of the province. On the 7th the depression which had so long existed over Bengal began to fill up, and pressures increased by amounts varying up to nearly a fifth of an inch at some of the stations in North Bengal, and this increase continued, but to a very small extent on the 8th, when pressure was still in defect over a large part of the province by nearly a tenth of an inch. Up to this date local storms continued to be reported in the eastern districts, but elsewhere it was fine. On the 9th pressure continued to increase in Bengal, and an extension of westerly and north-westerly winds took place and weather became much more settled, but on the 11th pressure was commencing to fall, and was again in slight to moderate defect, and moist southerly winds were setting in from the Bay over the southern portion of Bengal, so that conditions were again becoming more favourable for interaction and for the production of local storms. For the greater part of the week therefore it will be seen a distinct barometric depression has existed over Bengal and has given slightly disturbed weather, so that local storms have again occurred, and as usual these have been most numerous and have given the heaviest rainfall in the eastern districts.

Pressure—Has been largely below the normal in all districts, the average defect for the week equalling from 0·14″ to 0·16.″

Temperature.—The mean temperature of the whole province has been 1·2° above the normal, but the excess has been rather unequally distributed, and in Orissa it has equalled 3·1°, while in South-West Bengal and Chota Nagpur it has been between 1·5° and 2·5°.

The actual temperatures registered during the week, and their variations from the normal temperature for the present season, are most clearly seen in the table below, where the average maximum, minimum and mean temperatures for the week at nine typical stations in the Province are compared with the normal values for the same period. The day or maximum readings for the week have indeed shown a slightly lower temperature than usual, and the defect at the nine stations in the maximum or day temperature has equalled 1·3°, while in the night or minimum temperature the excess has averaged 1·2° :—

Rainfall.—East Bengal has received an average fall of 1·73 inches or nearly five-times as much as usual, and South-West Bengal has received an average fall of 0·34 inch or slightly more than the usual amount. In all other cases, except Orissa, the falls have been very small, but Orissa has received an average of a fifth of an inch or nearly the normal amount for the week. Elsewhere the falls have been so small as to have been of no importance.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 10th of March 1894:—

Water-rates imposed, under the same section, for irrigation effected in the kharif season by cutting a village channel or committing a criminal offence, may, with the previous sanction of the Collector, be assessed at rates fixed by the Divisional Canal Officer and subject to the same maximum ; provided that no water-rates shall be levied on those cases where unauthorized irrigation is effected, in the kharif season, with water taken from land included in a lease. The sanction of the Collector must, in these cases, be obtained before any detained measurement of the land irrigated without authority is made. The Collector's sanction is no authority for the imposition of water-rates : it merely authorizes proceedings being instituted. Persons using water without a permit shall, unless exempted by section 74 of the Act, be charged water-rates in accordance with this rule.

INDIAN OCEAN—KERGUELEN, ST. PAUL, AND AMSTERDAM ISLANDS.

Establishment of Provision depôts.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 79 of 1894) that depôts containing provisions and clothing, for the use of ship-wrecked seamen have been established by the vessel of-war Eure on Kerguelen, St. Paul, and Amsterdam islands:—

1. Kerguelen island. The depôt is situated in the south-eastern part of Jachmann peninsula, Hillsborough bay, near the south-western shore of the eastern lake, and about half a mile northward of the coast, opposite Gazelle basin. It is in a cave at the foot of the west cliff of a rocky chasm, running north and south, and its position is indicated by a stone cairn, 11½ feet in height, and about 14 feet broad at the base, erected on the summit of the west cliff of the chasm.

This cairn, visible from Gazelle basin, is painted black, and shows clearly against the grey rocks which form the background.

The entrance to the cave has been closed by large stones, and on the cliff a few yards above it is the inscription:—

Vivres et Vêtements, Eure, Janvier 1893.

Approximate position, lat. 49° 16′ 45″ S., long. 69° 40′ 30″ E.

This depôt contains:—

2,250 lbs. of preserved beef in boxes of 9 lbs.
1,125 lbs. of biscuits.
20 swan-skin shirts.
20 pairs of woollen drawers.
20 woollen blankets.
4 packets of matches.

The boxes of preserved beef are stowed in a pile, coated with coal tar. The biscuits are in 4-iron hooped barrels, thickly covered with coal tar. The clothes are in 2 similar barrels. The matches are in a box, similar to the beef boxes, painted with minium (red lead) and with a label of the contents on it.

In the event of the cairn being destroyed, the following directions should be followed to find the depôt. Land on the north side of the inlet opposite Gazelle basin, in a small creek, sheltered by a rocky point, where boats may go alongside under any circumstances of wind or tide. Proceed directly inland about half a mile as far as the shore of the lake, then turn to the westward and follow the lake to its western end, where the chasm in which the depôt is situated will be seen on the left hand.

2. St. Paul island.—The depôt is in a hut of rough stones with a thatched roof, situated on the northern side of the crater, near the jetty and about 50 yards from the flagstaff:—

Approximate position, lat. 38° 42′ 45″ S., long. 77° 34′ 40″ E.

This depôt contains:—

1,350 lbs. of preserved beef in boxes of 9 lbs.
1,125 lbs. of biscuits.
10 woollen shirts.
10 blankets.

One soldered metal box containing 4 packets of matches.

The provisions and clothes are in 13 iron-hooped barrels, coated with tar and sand, and placed under a tarpaulin. On the door of the hut is the inscription, France, Vivres et Vêtements pour naufragés, Eure, Janvier 1893; and a similar inscription is on a board within the hut.

3. Amsterdam island.—The depôt is in a large cavern, on the side of a hill, about W. by S. ½ S. (S. 73° W.) 800 yards from Hosken Point, the north-east extreme of the island, and bears W. ½ N. (N. 85° W.), distant about 600 yards from the first flagstaff southward of that point.

At the entrance to the cavern is a board, fixed to two upright tarred posts, with the inscription, France, Vivres, Vêtements pour naufragés Eure, Janvier 1893, on it.

This depôt contains:—

1,350 lbs. of preserved beef.
1,125 lbs. of biscuits.
10 woollen shirts.
10 pairs cotton drawers.
10 blankets.

One soldered metal red box, containing 4 packets of matches.

Approximate position, lat. 37° 48′ 50″ S., long. 77° 32′ 30″ E.

The landing place used by the Eure is about 400 yards southward of Hosken Point, and under the flagstaff mentioned above.

Directions for finding the depôt on Amsterdam :—Having landed, go to either of the flagstaffs, from whence a cross will be seen; from the cross follow the direction of its arms, leading past two ruins of rough stones, and then directly to the cavern, the entrance to which faces seaward. In the cavern, besides the provisions and clothing, there are cots, a cooking pot, and dry wood, left by the fishermen who sometimes live there. Cabbage and celery will be found near, and fish and lobsters (crawfish) abound near the landing place.

Sunken rocks in Peacock anchorage—Taputeuea.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 85 of 1894) of the existence of a dangerous patch of rocks, about 4 cables in extent, north and south, and on which a depth of 16 feet was obtained (although probably there is less water), lying in the south-eastern part of Peacock anchorage, west side of Taputeuea (Drummond atoll) :—

From these rocks, locally known as Horses' heads, the sand bank marked Cov. H. W. Sp. bears E.S.E. (S. 67° E.), distant three-quarters of a mile; and the west extreme of Utiroa N.N.W. ¾ W. (N. 31° W.).

Explanation.—... indicates that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are wanting, the corresponding spaces in the total rainfall columns are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days, the definition of a rainy day is when at least 0·0 inch of rain has fallen.

CALCUTTA, the 20th March 1894.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M., SATURDAY THE 17TH OF MARCH 1894.

Weather towards the close of the previous week had been generally fine and settled but on the 10th instant, or on the last day of that week, pressure had become in slight to moderate defect, and moist southerly winds had set in from the Bay at the southern stations, so that conditions were favourable for slightly disturbed weather to commence. On the 11th a brisk fall of pressure had occurred over Chota Nagpur and the neighbouring districts, and a distinct barometric depression was formed, winds at the neighbouring stations also showing distinct indraught towards the depression. Conditions were hence decidedly disturbed, and numerous local storms with rain occurred, in some cases also accompanied by hail, and on the morning of the 12th rain was reported fairly generally in the districts of 24-Parganas, Jessore, Dacca, Mymensingh and Tippera, and a few local showers fell in other districts. On the morning of the 12th the small depression had moved away rapidly in a south-easterly direction, for pressure was falling and was low in South-East Bengal, while over the west of the province pressure had increased rapidly. The low pressure area was, however, of little importance, and beyond a heavy shower (1·88 inches) at Chittagong, measured on the 13th, there were no local storm of any importance. On the 13th a further rapid increase of pressure took place in Bengal, and it became in excess by amounts ranging up to more than a tenth of an inch. The distribution of pressure indeed became more like that of February than that of March, and dry north-westerly winds with decidedly low temperature set in, the mean temperature being more than 5° in defect over a large part of the province. On the 14th the changes were unimportant, but on the 15th the high pressure began to give way and a moderate fall set in over Bengal on this day, and also on the 16th and 17th, when pressure became almost normal. At the same time also temperature began to rise decidedly, and by the 17th or the last day of the week it was about 1° to 2° in excess. With the falling pressure also the north-westerly winds gradually retreated, and on the 17th moist south-westerly winds were blowing in the west and south of the province, though in North Bihar and parts of North Bengal winds were north-easterly. During the last five or six days of the week also weather was settled in practically all districts, and except for a few local storms with rain reported on the morning of the 16th, the province was rainless for this period.

Pressure—Was in defect at the beginning of the week, decidedly in excess in the middle, and normal at its close. Hence the variations of pressure from the normal have not been large, and there has been an excess usually of about 0·03 inch to 0·05 inch.

Temperature—Owing to the rather cool wave which passed over the province in the middle of the week under review, the average mean temperature has been in defect by 1·1°. The largest defects have, however, been registered in East Bengal and Bihar, where they have equalled about 2°.

The actual temperatures registered during the week, and their variations from the normal temperature for the present season, are most clearly seen in the table below, where the average maximum, minimum and mean temperatures for the week at nine typical stations in the province are compared with the normal values for the same period. The day or maximum readings for the week have shown a decidedly lower temperature than usual, and the defect at the nine stations in the maximum or day temperature has equalled 2·3°, while in the night or minimum temperature the defect has averaged 2·1°.

Rainfall—Calcutta and the Dacca district have received a little more than an inch of rain, while the Chittagong district has averaged 0·94 inch. In the Midnapore, Howrah, Jessore and Tippera districts the falls have averaged between a quarter and half an inch. Small falls have also occurred in 24-Parganas, South Lushai Hills and Cuttack districts, but in such cases as Hooghly, Khulna, Darjeeling and Bogra districts, though they have received rain, the amounts have averaged considerably less than a tenth of an inch.

DEFINITION.—"The Judicial Branch of the Provincial Civil Service" includes Small Cause Court Judgeships outside the Presidency town, Sub-Judgeships, Munsifships, and any other appointments which the Lieutenant-Governor may from time to time specially declare to be included therein.

1. In accordance with section 7 of Act XII of 1887, nominations to Munsifships will be made by the High Court under the following rules, which have been framed by the Lieutenant-Governor in consultation with the High Court, and sanctioned by the Governor-General in Council.

2. A candidate shall present an application in writing to the Registrar of the High Court, Appellate Side. This shall ordinarily be accompanied by the following certificates, viz.—

(1) that the candidate's age does not exceed 27 years;

(2) that he has obtained the degree of B.L., or has passed the Senior Pleadership or some analogous examination, or is a Barrister-at-Law, or Member of the Faculty of Advocates in Scotland, or is an Attorney on the rolls of the High Court;

(3) that he is of good moral character and has received a liberal education;

(4) that he has practised as a Pleader or Barrister or Member of the Faculty of Advocates in Scotland, or Attorney for not less than three years: the High Court may for special reasons dispense with a portion (not exceeding two years) of this period;

(5) that he is in good health and is physically fit for service. The certificate of health must be signed by a Presidency Surgeon or a Civil Surgeon.

3. It shall be within the discretion of the High Court to require any such additional proof on any of the above points as it may think fit.

4. If the qualifications of the candidate are satisfactory to the Court, his name shall be entered in a register as eligible for admission to the Subordinate Judicial Service, but priority of entry in the register shall confer no right of priority of appointment. A candidate's name shall be removed from the register in the event of failing to obtain a gazetted appointment under section 7 of Act XII of 1887 before attaining the age of 29 years.

5. At the time a registered candidate is appointed permanently to the service, he shall ordinarily be required to submit a fresh health certificate signed by a Presidency Surgeon or a Civil Surgeon.

APPENDIX.

The following rules, which the Government of India and the Secretary of State have determined shall be applied in all branches of the Provincial Civil Service, are published for the information of candidates for admission to the Judicial Branch:—

1. Europeans who do not satisfy the definition of Native of India contained in section 6, Statute 33, Victoria, Chapter 3, are not eligible for appointment to the Provincial Service without the previous sanction in each case of the Government of India. With such sanction they may be appointed if they are qualified under the conditions mentioned in Rule 2 of the above rules.

2. The subjects of Native Princes in alliance with Her Majesty the Queen-Empress of India are eligible for appointment to the Provincial Service if they are qualified under the conditions mentioned in Rule 2 of the above rules.

3. All candidates for admission to the Judicial Branch must furnish satisfactory evidence of a thorough knowledge of at least one of the vernacular languages of the Province. The High Court will require all candidates who have not already furnished such evidence at some recognized examination, to pass a special examination in either Bengali, Hindi, Urdu, or Urya before appointment. The object of the examination will be to test the candidate's knowledge of the language and ability to write and read the written character with facility. The examination will include—

(1) Translation into English of proceedings, petitions, reports, &c., written in manuscript.

(2) Translation from English into the vernacular selected.

4. Every person appointed to the Judicial Branch shall be subject to a period of probation or training, during which time his appointment will be probationary only, unless in special cases the High Court declares such probation or training to be unnecessary.

5. Promotion to grades below that on Rs. 600 a month will ordinarily be given according to seniority, subject to fitness and approved conduct. But the Lieutenant-Governor reserves to himself the right to make promotion to the senior grades of the Provincial Service by special selection for merit without regard to seniority, and hereby declares that seniority alone shall not give a claim to appointment to the grade on Rs. 600 or higher grades.

6. No member of the Judicial Branch shall be dismissed otherwise than on the result of a judicial or formal departmental enquiry.

Revised water-rate rules for the Saran Canals.

The 26th March 1894.

No. 106.—Notification.—It is hereby notified that, in exercise of the powers conferred on him by sections 78, 79, 80, 81 and 99 of Act III (B.C.) of 1876, the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal is pleased to pass the following rules in supersession of those at present in force for carrying out the provisions of the said Act with respect to the Saran Canals.

A draft of the rules was published in the Calcutta Gazette of the dates, noted in the margin, as Notification No. 57, dated the 13th February 1894.

The 14th, 21st, and 28th February, and the 7th and 14th March 1894.

1. In Notification No. 110 of the 9th August 1880, issued under the provisions of Act III of 1876, Government reserved to itself the rights of property in the water of the river channels known as the Daha, the Dhanai, the Gandaki and the Gangri and their appendant tributaries.

2. The revenue administration of the Saran Canals is vested in the Superintending Engineer of the Sone Circle. The Executive Engineer of the Gandak is, as canal officer under the Irrigation Act [Act III (B.C.) of 1876, charged with the proper maintenance and management of the canals, and with the control of the supply of water on them. All orders passed by him or by the Subdivisional Canal Officer are under the terms of that Act subject to correction on appeal to the Collector of Saran.

3. Any person who constructs bunds in the canals, who interferes with the supply of water in them, or who takes water from them without the written permission of a duly authorised person will render himself liable to the penalties defined in the Irrigation Act.

4. Water will be admitted to any one of the four canals numbered III, IV, V and VI in rule 6 below, at any time during the year when it may be possible to admit it, as soon as possible after a lease has been granted under the following rules. The canal officer will regulate the water passing into and along any canal to the best of his ability to suit the requirements of the lessee. But the volume which can be admitted to any of the canals depends on the season of the year, the level of the River Gandak, the construction of certain bunds, and on the length of notice of his requirements which may be given by the lessee. No guarantee can be given either as to the volume or duration of the supply, or of the delivery of any quantity of water at any particular point of any canal.

5. At least three weeks' notice must be given by a lessee if water is required at any time between November and June. The lessee must give notice to the Subdivisional Canal Officer in writing whenever he requires water to be admitted to, or any increase or decrease in the supply of, the canal of which he has the lease.

6. Leases will be granted for the year 1894-95 for any one of the four canals to any person, approved by the Canal Officer, who has a beneficial interest in the use of the water. The charge for the use, during the whole year, or any part of it, of each of the canals will be—

	Rs.
No. III.—The Daha river	9,000
„ IV.—The Gandaki „	5,000
„ V.—The Dhanai „	6,000
„ VI.—The Gangri „	7,000
Total ...	27,000

The water-rate must, in each case, be paid in full into the Government Treasury, either at Gopalganj or Chapra before a lease will be granted, or before water will be admitted into a canal. An application for a lease for the year 1894-95 must be made in the form of Appendix I.

7. Leases will be granted for a period of three years ending on the 31st March 1897 to any person approved by the Canal Officer, who has a beneficial interest in the use of the water.

The charge for the use during the period of three years of each of the canals will be—

Canal.	Payment to be made
	Before water is admitted in 1894-95.	Before the 15th April 1895.	Before the 15th April 1896.
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
No. III.—The Daha river	9,000	8,000	7,000
„ IV.—The Gandaki „	5,000	4,500	4,000
„ V.—The Dhanai „	6,000	5,500	5,000
„ VI.—The Gangri „	7,000	6,000	5,000
Total ...	27,000	24,000	21,000

Water will not be admitted into any canal during any particular year until the water-rate of that year has been paid in full into the Government Treasury, either at Gopalganj or Chapra. An application for a lease for a term of three years must be made in the form of Appendix II.

8. The lessee of a canal will be entitled during the currency of his lease—

(i) To the exclusive use, either for irrigation or for the manufacture of indigo, or for any other purpose of the entire supply of water which may be passed into the canal.

(ii) To sell to any indigo concern all or any portion of the supply in the canal for the purpose of the manufacture of indigo at a rate not exceeding Rs. 4 per factory maund of indigo manufactured.

(iii) To sell water to any person who may desire to have it for the purpose of irrigating lands at any rate not exceeding that defined in the schedule of rates attached to these rules.

(iv) To construct any temporary dam in the bed of the channel of which he is lessee after he has obtained the approval in writing of the Subdivisional Canal Officer to its erection.

9. The lessee of any canal shall grant a written permit to any person to whom he may have sold water under Rule 8 (ii) or (iii), and shall send a copy of the permit to the Subdivisional Canal Officer. The Canal Officer will endeavour to stop the unauthorized use of water by persons who do not hold these permits as far as it may be possible to do so when the lessee applies to him in writing to do so.

10. The lessee must conclude his own agreements with persons to whom he may sell water either for manufacture of indigo or irrigation, and must himself enforce those agreements.

In cases where lands have been irrigated without application and water-rates have been imposed by the Canal Officer under section 79 of Act III (B.C.) of 1876, the water-rates may, at the request of the Canal Officer, be recovered by the Collector under the Public Demands Recovery Act.

11. If two or more persons desire to be joint lessees of the same canal, they may submit a joint application in the form of Appendix No. II, and shall appoint one of their number to be the chief lessee; he shall communicate with the Canal Officer on all points connected with the supply of water and with its distribution among the other lessees.

12. If two or more of the four channels are leased at the same time, and there is any difficulty in supplying the full quantity of water required by the lessees, the Canal Officer will endeavour to divide the available supply as fairly as possible between the lessees in proportion to the sums paid by them for the leases of the respective channels.

WATER-RATE RULES FOR THE EDEN CANAL.

The 12th February 1894.

No. 51.—Notification.—With reference to Notification No. 417, dated the 27th December 1881, which was published in the Calcutta Gazette of the 28th December 1881, at page 1122, and in accordance with the provisions of section 99 of Act III (B.C.) of 1876, the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor proposes to pass the following rules and to fix the undermentioned rates to be charged for water supplied from the Eden Canal:—

1. A map showing the area commanded, i.e., the area from which applications will be accepted, will be kept in the Collectors' office. Copies will be sold to the public at Re. 1-8 a copy.

2. Existing lease-holders may, provided the land covered by the lease is situated within the area commanded, exchange their leases for leases under new conditions: if beyond the area commanded, they may have their leases cancelled if they so wish; but no fresh lease will be granted. In either case the change will take effect from the 1st of April 1894, and a formal application in writing, signed by all the persons who have signed the original lease, must be presented to the Canal Officer before the 1st July 1894.

3. The area under long lease will be limited to 50,000 acres, of which 32,000 acres will be in the Burdwan and 18,000 acres in the Hooghly district. Long leases will, in all cases, commence from the 1st June in any year, and extend for seven years.

4. Leases for one season will be granted for any lands within the area commanded but long lease-holders will have a prior right to the water and season lease-holders will not be supplied until the area under long lease has first been watered.

5. No leases will be accepted for lands situated beyond the area commanded, but if water is available, single waterings may be granted.

6. The rates to be charged will be as follows:—

	Per bigha. Rs. A. P.
I.—Long leases entered into before the 1st October 1895, per season ...	0 4 0
II.—Long leases entered into after the 1st January 1896, per season ...	0 5 0
III.—Extra charge for long leases entered into during the irrigation season, i.e, between the 1st June and 1st October in any year in addition to the rates mentioned in I and II, for the first year only	0 2 0

VII.—Unauthorised irrigation—
Kharif season	1 0 0	or such lower rate as may be fixed by the Canal Officer.
Rabi season	2 0 0

7. The water-rates will become due, and payment must be made, on the dates mentioned below:—

Leases under rule 6—I and II	...	The 31st of January.
Sums due under rule 6—III	...	When the lease is executed.
Leases under rule 6—IV ...	...	The 31st of January.
Ditto 6—V ...	...	When the lease is executed.
Ditto 6—VI ...	...	Ditto ditto.
Charges under rule 6—VII	...	When the order authorizing the assessment is passed.

8. The areas to be charged will, as far as practicable, be determined when the lease is executed, but lands irrigated beyond the boundaries of the lease will be measured and charged at the rates mentioned in the lease. The application must be for such an area as will probably be irrigated with existing appliances, and no lease will be accepted where it may be reasonably anticipated that lands beyond the boundaries specified will necessarily or probably be irrigated. Ordinarily the measurements taken in the year in which the lease is executed will be accepted for the remainder of the term, but in special cases the Divisional Canal Officer may by a written order authorize a re-measurement.

9. The Divisional Canal Officer may, under special circumstances for the convenience of the canal administration, sanction a long lease for a term of three instead of seven years.

10. In the case of long or season leases, the minimum area chargeable will be that specified in the lease independently of water being or not being required and utilized.

11. Leases under rule 6, I, II, III, IV and V, will only be entered into with (I) the zamindar or subordinate proprietor of the village, or (II) with a body of cultivators not exceeding six in number, who will agree to represent the cultivators, and who will be jointly and severally responsible for the payment of the water-rates due under the lease. The persons who sign the lease will be entitled to a deduction of 12½ per cent. on all payments made within one month of the water-rates becoming due. If the lessee is not the zamindar or talukdar, a moiety of the amount due for the first year will be payable in advance. Leases under rule 6, VI, will be entered into with representatives of the actual cultivators.

12. No cross dams other than those the erection of which has been sanctioned as a permanent arrangement will be allowed without the written order of the Divisional Canal Officer issued with the written approval of the Collector. Every cross dam must be provided with a suitable and efficient escape, so that the flow of the water in the channel may not be interfered with.

13. The Canal Officer will not interfere with the fishery rights hitherto exercised by the proprietors of the river beds, but no stakes shall be allowed to be fixed for the purpose, excepting on and from the 1st of February to the 31st of March, and then only in such a way as not to interfere with the flow of the water.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THIS Bill is the outcome of a reference made to the Government of India from the North-Western Provinces in 1892, and circulated by that Government in the same year for the opinions of Local Governments, High Courts and other authorities, respecting certain difficulties which in practice arise in the application of some of the provisions of Chapter XXVI of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1882.

In connection with the subject of the Bill the Government has recently had the opportunity of perusing the case published at I. L. R. 21 Cal. 121.

(See Notice to Mariners, No. 10, Batavia, 1890.)

INDIAN OCEAN—KERGUELEN, ST. PAUL, AND AMSTERDAM ISLANDS.

Establishment of Provision depôts.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 79 of 1894) that depôts containing provisions and clothing, for the use of ship-wrecked seamen have been established by the vessel-of-war Eure on Kerguelen, St. Paul, and Amsterdam islands:—

1. Kerguelen island. The depôt is situated in the south-eastern part of Jachmann peninsula, Hillsborough bay, near the south-western shore of the eastern lake, and about half a mile northward of the coast, opposite Gazelle basin. It is in a cave at the foot of the west cliff of a rocky chasm, running north and south, and its position is indicated by a stone cairn, 11½ feet in height, and about 14 feet broad at the base, erected on the summit of the west cliff of the chasm.

This cairn, visible from Gazelle basin, is painted black, and shows clearly against the grey rocks which form the background.

The entrance to the cave has been closed by large stones, and on the cliff a few yards above it is the inscription:—

Vivres et Vêtements, Eure, Janvier 1893.

Approximate position, lat. 49° 16′ 45″ S., long. 69° 40′ 30″ E.

This depôt contains:—

2,250 lbs. of preserved beef in boxes of 9 lbs.
1,125 lbs. of biscuits.
20 swan-skin shirts.
20 pairs of woollen drawers.
20 woollen blankets.
4 packets of matches.

The boxes of preserved beef are stowed in a pile, coated with coal tar. The biscuits are in 4-iron hooped barrels, thickly covered with coal tar. The clothes are in 2 similar barrels. The matches are in a box, similar to the beef boxes, painted with minium (red lead) and with a label of the contents on it.

In the event of the cairn being destroyed, the following directions should be followed to find the depôt. Land on the north side of the inlet opposite Gazelle basin, in a small creek, sheltered by a rocky point, where boats may go alongside under any circumstances of wind or tide. Proceed directly inland about half a mile as far as the shore of the lake, then turn to the westward and follow the lake to its western end, where the chasm in which the depôt is situated will be seen on the left hand.

2. St. Paul island.—The depôt is in a hut of rough stones with a thatched roof, situated on the northern side of the crater, near the jetty and about 50 yards from the flagstaff :—

Approximate position, lat. 38° 42′ 45″ S., long. 77° 34′ 40″ E.

This depôt contains :—

1,350 lbs. of preserved beef in boxes of 9 lbs.
1,125 lbs of biscuits.
10 woollen shirts.
10 blankets.

One soldered metal box containing 4 packets of matches.

The provisions and clothes are in 13 iron-hooped barrels, coated with tar and sand, and placed under a tarpaulin. On the door of the hut is the inscription, France, Vivres et Vêtements pour naufragés, Eure, Janvier 1893; and a similar inscription is on a board within the hut.

3. Amsterdam island.—The depôt is in a large cavern, on the side of a hill, about W. by S. ½ S. (S. 73° W.) 800 yards from Hosken Point, the north-east extreme of the island, and bears W. ½ N. (N. 85°W.), distant about 600 yards from the first flagstaff southward of that point.

At the entrance to the cavern is a board, fixed to two upright tarred posts, with the inscription, France, Vivres, Vêtements pour naufragés Eure, Janvier 1893, on it.

This depôt contains :—

1,350 lbs. of preserved beef.
1,125 lbs. of biscuits.
10 woollen shirts.
10 pairs cotton drawers.
10 blankets.

One soldered metal red box, containing 4 packets of matches.

Approximate position, lat. 37° 48′ 50″ S., long. 77° 32′ 30″ E.

The landing place used by the Eure is about 400 yards southward of Hosken Point, and under the flagstaff mentioned above.

Directions for finding the depôt on Amsterdam :—Having landed, go to either of the flagstaffs, from whence a cross will be seen; from the cross follow the direction of its arms, leading past two ruins of rough stones, and then directly to the cavern, the entrance to which faces seaward. In the cavern, besides the provisions and clothing, there are cots, a cooking pot, and dry wood, left by the fishermen who sometimes live there. Cabbage and celery will be found near, and fish and lobsters (crawfish) abound near the landing place.

SURVEY AND SETTLEMENT OF THE HUKUMAPUR ESTATE IN THE DISTRICT OF BIRBHUM BELONGING TO THE BURDWAN RAJ.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT—LAND REVENUE.

Calcutta, the 27th March 1894.

RESOLUTION—No. 1684.

READ—

Letter No. 994A, dated the 19th September 1893, from the Board of Revenue, submitting the final report of the survey and settlement of the Hukumapur estate in the district of Birbhum belonging to the Burdwan Raj.

The Settlement Officer's completion report of the survey and settlement of the Hukumapur estate, which is dated the 26th April 1892, reached the Director of Land Records in September 1892, but was not submitted to the Board till 1st July 1893. His Honour hopes that such unusual delays will not recur in future.

Delay in the submission of the report.

2. Hukumapur is a small estate, comprising 88 villages, in the district of Birbhum, the sole proprietor of which is the Maharaja of Burdwan. The area of the estate, according to the recent survey, deducting 556 acres measured but found to belong to other estates, is 15,127 acres, or not quite 24 square miles, and the Government revenue amounts to Rs. 4,454. At the revenue survey of 1852, about one-third of the estate was covered with forest, much of which has since disappeared, but the Sadar station of the district still draws its supply of firewood and charcoal from Hukumapur. The total population of the tract by the last census is 7,872 souls (consisting of 3,867 males and 4,005 females), of whom 615 are Sonthals and 85 Dhangars, and the rest Hindus, semi-Hinduised aborigines, and Muhammadans. The Hukumapur estate originally belonged to the Mussalman Raja of Nagar, but was sold for arrears of revenue in 1844, and was purchased by the Burdwan Raj. The estate was let out in patni, but had to be brought to sale several times under Regulation VIII of 1819. Ultimately in 1886 the Raj bought back the tenure, and has ever since held it khas. No records exist of any previous settlement, nor does it appear that any regular settlement was ever made of the whole tract. The survey settlement including the preparation of a record of rights of this estate, as also of certain other khas mahals appertaining to the Burdwan Raj, was sanctioned on the recommendation of the Joint-Manager, Mr. H. R. Reily, who reported that the rent-rolls were in confusion. The notification ordering the survey dated the 15th January 1889 was issued under section 101 (2) (c) of the Bengal Tenancy Act. Babu Binode Bihary Sircar was appointed Settlement Officer, but was succeeded in October 1889 by Babu Sukumar Haldar, who remained in charge till the operations were concluded. By August 1889 the Survey Department, by whom the survey was made, had delivered the records of all the villages to the Settlement Officer, who published them finally under section 105 (2) of the Tenancy Act before the end of June 1891, and the work, including the distribution of copies of the khatians to landlords and tenants, but excluding the writing of the completion report, was finished in October 1891.

Commencement, progress and completion of the operations.

Delay and high cost.

3. Considering the size of the estate, the operations were much protracted, with the result that the total cost, including the cost of the survey and settlement of the small estates of Panchberia and Chandnihat in the same district, with a combined area of 537 acres which also belong to the Burdwan Raj, amounted to Rs. 29,267, distributed as follows:—

	Rs.
Traverse and cadastral survey, including record-writing and stone embedding	10,500
Settlement	18,767
Total ...	29,267

The total area, including the area of the Panchberia and Chandnihat estates, being 15,664 acres, the cost of survey alone amounts to 10 annas 8 pies per acre, and that of settlement to Re. 1-3-2 per acre. Taking the figures in further detail, the cost of the traverse survey alone was annas 2-1 per acre, of the field survey annas 4-2 per acre, and of the record-writing annas 3 per acre. The pay of the Settlement Officer alone was more than half the cost of the entire settlement operations, and fell at the rate of annas 10 3 per acre.

4. These figures of expenditure, as well as the great delay which occurred in completing so small a settlement, are extremely unsatisfactory, and various explanations are given in the reports submitted, which may be summed up in one comprehensive phrase, the inexperience of the establishment. The high cost of the survey operations is attributed by the Director, Mr. Macpherson, to the fact that the records were written by amins who were strangers to the people and the language, and without the superintendence of Revenue Officers, who, when they came to carry out the settlement work, found numerous defects in the records. These faults in the system have now been cured by the appointment of Colonel Sandeman as Director of Bengal Surveys, and by the rules under which Survey and Revenue Officers co-operate from the beginning in the preparation of the village records. The delay and the expensiveness of the settlement operations are attributed by the Board to (1) the attempt to assess rents by soil rates, and (2) to the action, and sometimes the inaction, of the Raj establishment. As to the first cause it was pointed out by the Lieutenant-Governor in May 1891 that the suggestion to adopt soil rates for the fixation of rents, which was tried only in a single village and found to be impracticable, can hardly have been responsible for any great portion of the delay. The second cause was undoubtedly the principal one. The Settlement Officer writes:—"No one was appointed by the Manager Mr. H. R. Reily with powers to deal with questions that arose on the spot without reference to himself. It was only after the proceedings had dragged on for over twelve months (during which time the local agents of the estate, to shirk responsibility as they explained to me, raised endless objections to the recorded entries, and contested the fairest objections raised by the tenants without having power to settle them amicably, except by reference to the Manager at Burdwan) that Babu Mohesh Chandra Singh was sent with full powers to settle matters amicably. I am convinced that if such an officer had been deputed from the commencement, the work could have been finished within a few months with far better results to the Raj." No doubt this is true, for the survey of this insignificant area should have been finished in three months and the settlement in three months more, at less than a quarter of the cost actually incurred. It may be added that the Settlement Officer himself should have co-operated to this end by representing at once to the proper authorities the block which was being caused by the incompetence of the management.

5. Another cause was the large number of disputes requiring judicial decision. All lakhiraj entries were contested on behalf of the Raj under section 106 of the Tenancy Act, but in the great majority of instances the claims put forward by the agents of the Raj had eventually to be abandoned. When the attempt to settle rents by soil class rates was given up, the Settlement Officer was requested by the Raj authorities to settle fair rents according to law, and on its being found that there was no evidence in the possession of the Raj on which claims to enhancement could be based, repeated adjournments were applied for, and much delay occurred in consequence. In fact little progress was made till finally terms of compromise were proposed and accepted by 572 out of a total number of 1,289 raiyats. The amount of actual case-work done is thus stated in the Director's letter to the Board:—

Case-work.

"The number of objections summarily decided by the Settlement Officer during the proceedings was 949; the number of applications for settlement of fair rents was 37, which covered all the tenants of the estate (who were sued in groups), and the number of disputes decided under section 107 of the Tenancy Act was 861, of which 539 were contested."

Results to landlord.

6. The cultivated area of the Hukumapur estate increased from 14,951 bighas, according to the Revenue Survey of 1852, to 19,141 bighas in 1889, and the rental has increased under the present settlement from Rs. 11,685 (according to a rent-roll drawn up by a Raj official in 1876) to Rs. 13,762, the increase (Rs. 2,077) being due to the assessment of lands recently brought under cultivation. Although therefore the cost of the operations has been high, in fourteen years the landlord will be more than reimbursed for the expenditure incurred by the increased rental. He has also protected his estate from further encroachments by persons claiming rent-free tenures. Moreover, he has now a correct rent-roll and a starting point for any fair and reasonable enhancements to which future changes may entitle him.

Apportionment of cost.

7. Having regard to the facts that the survey-settlement was undertaken for the benefit of the proprietor of the estate, and that much of the delay and expense was caused by the action or inaction of the Raj authorities, and also to the advantages gained by the Raj, as stated in the preceding paragraph, the Lieutenant-Governor agrees with the Board and the Director of Land Records that the entire cost of the operations should be borne by the Burdwan Raj.

Classification of tenants, cultivated area, &c.

8. The lands in the Hukumapur estate are classified as follows:—

	B.	K.	C.	Acres.
Rent-paying area	22,888	2	14	7,629
Rent-free area	3,968	17	11	1,323
Non-rent-paying area	18,523	12	14	6,175
Total ...	45,380	13	7	15,127

It is understood that the non-rent-paying area consists chiefly of jungle.

The Raj has no nij-jote lands, nor are there any tenure-holders except rent-free-holders on the estate. The following table gives particulars as to the number of tenants of each class and the cultivated areas held by them:—

8. The settlement of the Panchberia estate, on which there are 230 tenants and under-tenants, was amicably concluded, and occupied only four days. The result shows an increase of rental from Rs. 1,128 to Rs. 1,246. The Chandnihat estate has 16 tenants and a rental of Rs. 6-13-8.

9. In paragraph 15 of his letter No. 1690T.A., dated the 1st July 1893, a copy of which accompanies the Board's letter, the Director of Land Records mentioned that he proposed to bring together in a note the discussions and decisions as to the proper method of dealing with claims to hold land rent-free. The Board are requested to favour the Lieutenant-Governor with a copy of the note if it has been received from the Director of Land Records.

Order.—Ordered that this Resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette, and that a copy of it be forwarded to the Board of Revenue.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

C. E. BUCKLAND,

Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

RESOLUTION ON THE REPORT OF THE HEALTH OFFICER OF THE PORT OF CALCUTTA FOR 1893.

No. 633Marine.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL—MARINE DEPARTMENT.

Dated Calcutta, the 27th March 1894.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

Letter No. 1529 of 6th March 1894, from the Sanitary Commissioner for Bengal, submitting the report of the Health Officer of the Port of Calcutta for 1893.

Establishment.—Dr. Forsyth was the Health Officer of the Port of Calcutta from 1st January to 6th June, from 12th July to 14th August, and from 28th October to 29th December 1893. In the intervals Surgeon-Captain Green and Dr. Rigby officiated, and Surgeon-Major Macrae acted on the 30th and 31st December. The duties were carried out in the steam launch Relief and the steam cutter.

2. Inspections.—The number of inspections has again fallen off, the total number of vessels inspected during the year being 1,465, against 1,497 during 1892. The total number of vessels that arrived in port was 1,000, of which 750 were inspected. There were 1,040 departures, of which 715 were inspected.

3. In paragraph 2 of this Department's Resolution No. 1119Marine, dated 1st May 1893, it was requested that in future reports the reasons for the non-inspection of vessels should be given. This has not been done.

4. Ventilation of crew's spaces, &c.—Larger ventilating tubes have been placed in the forecastle of several ships, and covered-in bathrooms for the use of the native crew have been built in others. The larger question of the measures to be adopted for the improvement of the forecastle accommodation by the use of wooden sheathing and protective screens is under the consideration of Government.

5. Sickness and mortality among European seamen.—The number of European seamen who arrived in port during the year was 16,218, against 21,635 during the previous year. The daily average number in port was 2,081 against 2,133 in 1892. The total number of admissions into hospital was 1,560, and the death-rate per mille was 13·93. Including deaths out of hospital, the death-rate per mille during the year was 24·50 against 15·47 in 1892, 35·7 in 1891, and 32·1 in 1890. The total number of natural deaths was 36 against 25 and 42 in the two previous years. Of these 36 deaths, 29 occurred in hospital and 7 outside.

6. Of the admissions into hospital, 12 cases were due to cholera with 11 deaths. There were 13 admissions from scurvy, small-pox and sunstroke with no deaths. On board vessels, however, there were two cases of sunstroke, both terminating fatally. There were 15 cases of drowning, against 8 and 9 in the two previous years.

7. The Lieutenant-Governor observes that the Health Officer, in writing of the four cases of scurvy which occurred during the year, has given an account of the condition of each patient. Such accounts are of little or no value in an Administration Report. It would have been more to the point had the Health Officer stated if the vessels were properly provided with fresh meat and vegetables, lime juice, &c., or if there was any explanation for the outbreak of scurvy.

8. During the year three vessels arrived from Jeddah with pilgrims, viz., the S.S. Sultan, Chollerton, and Maria Theresa, and the deaths during the voyages were 77, 80 and 13 respectively. There were also several cases of smallpox on board on arrival. On an inspection of these vessels it was ascertained that in several instances the provisions of the Native Passenger Ships Act and the rules made under it for the conveyance of the Red Sea pilgrim traffic had been infringed; but as the vessels left port soon after arrival, no steps could be taken against them. Instructions have, however, since been issued to the officers concerned, so that in future, should any irregularities occur, prompt action will be taken and prosecutions for any infringement of the law instituted.

9. The information given in table E for native seamen should also be supplied for European seamen, so as to show the admissions and deaths for each Hospital separately. The necessary columns might be added to the present table C.

10. The following table shows the admissions into hospital of European seamen suffering from venereal diseases :—

Year.	Total admissions.	Rate per mille.
1883	237	127·4
1884	184	109·2
1885	170	100 4
1886	417	179 2
1887	228	120 4
1888	183	121·1
1889	186	114·3
1890	248	147·7
1891	185	129·7
1892	470	224·5
1893	386	185·4

Both the number of admissions and the ratio are larger than in any previous year except 1892.

11. There were 31 deaths at sea, against 43 and 28 in the two previous years.

12. Sickness and mortality among the native floating population.—There were in all 72 deaths in and out of hospital, against 132 and 170 in 1892 and 1891. The death-rate per mille is 2·80, and is lower than the rate for the two previous years. Of the total deaths, 16 were in hospital and 56 out of hospital. There were 28 deaths from cholera—6 in hospital and 22 out of hospital. No explanation is given why so many men were allowed to die out of hospital.

13. Food.—There were only eight complaints as to the quality of food on board vessels coming to the port. The complaints were found to be correct in four instances.

14. Water supply.—In regard to the water supply, the Health Officer writes:—"The system of supply in vogue at present is to fill up the tanks in water boats from the hydrants on the bank and to place the man hole key in charge of the head boatman. Although these tanks are placed under lock and key, the man hole is not kept covered, and the boatmen have been caught bathing and washing clothes over the man hole of a filled tank." The present arrangement is very unsatisfactory, and it is not clear why the man hole is not locked when there is a key for the purpose. The Municipal Department of this Government will be requested to make enquiries as to the existing arrangements, and whether sufficient measures have been taken to stop the abominations brought to notice by the Health Officer.

15. Conservancy.—The Health Officer reports that the brick-field foreshore at Ghoosery still continues to be used as a latrine by the brick-field workers and boatmen of native craft moored along that part of the shore. With reference to the similar complaint made last year, the Magistrate of Howrah reported on the 6th July 1893 that constables had been told off for duty at the foreshore from 4 A.M. to 10 A.M., and from 3 P.M. to 9 P.M., with instructions to send up persons committing nuisances there. Apparently the measures adopted by the Magistrate have had little or no effect, and he will again be asked to report what further steps should be taken to stop the nuisance altogether.

Corpses and carcasses.—It is unsatisfactory to find that the number of corpses and carcasses found floating in the river and sunk within port limits shows an increase under both headings.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

A. D. McARTHUR, Lieut.-Col., R.E.,
Offg. Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official Tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.
